PRESIDENT GETS BILL FOR BONUS IN BABY BONDS

House Votes Plan, 346 to 59.

New AAA Bill

Substitute AAA bill in form of amendment to conservation law introduced by New Dealers in both houses of congress. Hope to avoid constitutional test. Details on page 5.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—A bill providing for the payment of a bonus to world war veterans in $50 bonds which will be cashed by the government on and after June 15 was in the hands of President Roosevelt tonight for signature or veto.

The President will study the bill with the certain knowledge that if he vetoes the measure his veto will be overridden. Far more than the two-thirds majority necessary for this action is available in both senate and house.

House Approves, 346 to 59.

The house today accepted the compromise plan offered by the senate by a vote of 346 to 59. The original house bill did not provide a method for paying the cost of the bonus, which is estimated at two billion 307 millions of dollars. The senate suggested the issuance of the $50 "baby bonds" which will bear interest of 3 per cent annually until 1945 if the veteran elects to hold on to them.

Each veteran will receive the 1945 value of his adjusted compensation certificate in $50 bonds with a government check for odd amounts. Interest owed by veterans upon loans unpaid on their certificates is canceled, but there will be no refund of interest paid upon such loans.

Veto Is Rumored.

After the bill had been brought to the White House this afternoon rumors spread that the President planned to make another personal appearance before congress in joint session and read a veto message. These reports could not be officially confirmed.

The President has ten days in which to approve or disapprove the bill. If he takes no action, the bill automatically becomes a law at the end of that period. It is considered improbable that he will follow the latter course, the consensus being that the bill will be vetoed and promptly repassed over the veto.

The house vote today was practically the same as its original vote two weeks ago of 356 to 59. The only changes were recorded as the result of two congressmen who were paired "against" the measure voting for it today.

Middle West Vote Identical.

The vote in the five middle western states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin was identical with the vote on the original bill. Representative Donald C. Dobbins [Dem., Ill.] offered the only negative in his state. The Indiana and Wisconsin delegations were solidly for the bill.

Whether the President will ask for additional taxes to take care of the financing of the bill has not been disclosed. Leaders in both senate and house have expressed the opinion additional taxation will not be necessary at this time, estimating that the cost this year of bonus payments would not go above one billion dollars.

Democrats Jeer Fish.

One hour of debate was permitted before the house vote today. It occupied mainly a discussion as to whether Republicans or Democrats should get the credit for passage of the bill. Representative Hamilton Fish [Rep., N. Y.] was jeered by the Democrats when he asserted that, although the present Democratic majority might pat itself on the back for today's action, the first bonus legislation was put through by a Republican majority.

A neat bit of vaudeville was tendered by Representative Robert F. Rich [Rep., Pa.], who opposed the bill. Waving a blue German mark certificate of the inflationary post war period in one hand and a green $10 United States bank note in the other, Mr. Rich inquired loudly if the American note would be worth more than the German note ten years from now.

The answer was a chorus of boos from the majority side. Mr. Rich retired smilingly, having made his point.

VILLAGERS TAKE VIOLETS TO BIER OF KING GEORGE

Pay Last Homage to Their 'Squire.'

British Salute New King

British subjects yesterday hailed Edward VIII. as their new king and emperor in public proclamation ceremonies held in all parts of the empire. The traditional medieval ritual, marked by the color and pageantry of heraldry, was carried out four times in London. Details on page 6.

SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 22.—The villagers of Norfolk and the counties south of The Wash today filed by the bier of King George V. in the little Norman church of St. Mary Magdalene and paid a last simple and tearful homage to their "squire." Many of them brought violets and laid them at the foot of the coffin.

Today's farewell was of a humble, rustic, and intimate nature, and will contrast with the gorgeous ceremonial next week in London.

By Queen Mother Mary's express wish the church was thrown open to the public at 10:30 a. m., but before that time there were many waiting outside.

Royalty Visits Chapel.

Twice the file of the populace was interrupted to allow members of the royal family to be alone in the church. Once was at noon for Queen Mother Mary, the princess royal, her daughter, and the dukes of Kent and Gloucester, her two younger sons.

This evening, as soon as King Edward VIII. and his brother, the duke of York, arrived back at Sandringham from London, they visited the chapel and remained for five minutes alone in the church except for four roughly clad farmers standing at each corner with bowed heads.

Persons from the neighboring towns and villages, children and some so old they could hardly walk, came to the church. One old man said he had walked 10 miles. Most of them were dressed in their Sunday old fashioned clothes. Nearly all wore some mark of mourning, a black tie or a black rustic dress. They passed slowly up the steps guided by policemen, and came out holding their hats in their hands, some with tears in their eyes.

Shuffling of Feet Only Sound.

Shuffling feet made the only sound inside the deathlike quiet of the church. The king's coffin, as it rested on the chancel, was just opposite the oaken seat where he used to worship. On the front of the pew is a brass tablet put there by the late Queen Alexandra, King George's mother, recording that the seat was occupied over a period of years by King Edward VII.

Draped over the coffin was the royal standard and on top was a cross of white flowers from the king's widow.

Outside, on the porch of the church, lay more tiny bunches of flowers which the woodsmen and peasants had brought, some with cards attached to them. One said: "From a loyal servant"; another, "To our king."

At noon, after the royal party left

EDWARD VIII. OPENS REIGN WITH ACT OF MERCY; LIFE IS SAVED

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The opening of the reign of Edward VIII. was marked tonight with an act of mercy. Arthur Charles Mortimer, under sentence of death for running down and killing a girl bicyclist with an automobile, received a reprieve commuting his sentence to penal servitude for life.

Mortimer, a soldier, was sentenced to hang at the conclusion of a trial which ended Nov. 28 for killing Mrs. Phyllis Mary Oakes, 21 years old, a poet.

The announcement of the reprieve said that the home secretary, after considering a report on the prisoner's state of mind, recommended to his majesty to respite the capital sentence. Mortimer's crime, murder by motor car, was described as the first of its kind in England.

JAMES SIMPSON IN HOSPITAL FOR EYE TREATMENT

James Simpson, chairman of the board of the Commonwealth Edison company, has been under treatment at the Michael Reese hospital for an injury to his left eye since last Saturday, it was learned yesterday.

While playing tennis on an indoor court at his home, 375 Sheridan road, Glencoe, on Christmas eve, Mr. Simpson was struck in the eye by a ball. The injury did not appear serious at the time. When he was in New York on Jan. 15, however, doctors discovered the retina of the eye had separated. He was immediately brought to Chicago for treatment.

Dr. Thomas D. Allen, secretary of the Chicago Ophthalmological society, speaking for the five specialists who have examined Mr. Simpson, said yesterday that he will probably retain the sight of his eye.

RUBS CAT WRONG WAY IN GAS ROOM; LOSES CLOTHING

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Inspector E. G. McDonald was recovering today from burns and the shock of a remarkable sequence of events—a cat, a gas chamber and static electricity.

The inspector yesterday took a stray cat to the gas chamber at the city pound. The cat objected, squirming in a lively manner as McDonald thrust it into the gas. Friction in the fur created static electricity.

There was a bang—McDonald recovered consciousness—on his back, his clothing burned from his body. The chamber was blown to pieces. The cat hasn't been seen since.

100 Children Snowbound in Buses; Saved

St. Clairsville, O., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Sheriff's deputies on horseback rescued 100 school children tonight from three buses buried in 16 foot snowdrifts in this hilly, sparsely settled section on the West Virginia boundary.

Sheriff Howard Duff of Belmont county, returning with the last of the rescue parties, said the children, some of whom had been stranded since noon, all were accounted for and "appeared in good shape."

Leave 14 at Garage.

"We brought them all in or left them at their homes along the way," the sheriff said, "except for 14 that we had to leave at the garage at Fairpoint, five miles north. They will have to spend the night there."

The buses were returning the children home from school at the time they became snowbound.

The sheriff said deputies and highway department crews discovered a missing school bus containing more than forty children halfway between St. Clairsville and Glencoe, seven miles south.

Two other buses containing sixty children were located near Fairpoint. The buses were returning children from school.

Buses Completely Buried.

"You couldn't see the buses at all," the sheriff said. "The drifts were 15 and 16 feet deep. The temperature was about 8 below and going down all the time. On the way we had to help about fifteen motorists who were stalled or blocked by the buses."

Farmers hitched up their old bobsleds to transport most of the children to safety after the deputies had found them.

Around Troy, O., some 300 children were marooned in schoolhouses and were spending the night in them. The temperature in Troy was 24 below zero.

FIRE DRIVES ZION FAMILY INTO 28° BELOW ZERO COLD

Benjamin McCormac, 51 years old; his wife, and their two children were driven into the subzero cold early today when fire destroyed their 12 room house at 21st street and Herman avenue in Zion. The family lost all their possessions except the shoes and night clothes they were wearing.

In the frigid weather—it was then 28 degrees below zero—firemen under Chief Charles J. Wright made a vain fight to stop the flames, but they made too rapid headway in the three story frame structure, a Zion landmark, which was built originally as a school by the late Dr. John Alexander Dowie.

FERRY IS CAUGHT IN NIAGARA ICE; 18 GET HAIR RAISING RIDE

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Trapped on a ferryboat jammed helplessly in a field of drifting ice on the Niagara river this afternoon, 12 persons, six of them passengers, spent on hour and a half of terror while the boat swept downstream and under a low bridge which sheared off the pilothouse and the smokestack.

All were landed unhurt, but most of them said that they had been "scared to death" or that it was "a terrible ride."

A shift in the wind opened the ice field and helped the crew to battle their way a mile and a half back upstream to their dock here.

A snow squall hid the double-decked old boat, the Orleans, from shore during most of her ride, but lightened sufficiently to show the ferry drifting straight for a pier of the International railroad bridge. At the last moment the ice carried her barely past.

CHICAGO TO N. Y. PLANE FREEZES STIFF IN THE SKY

Newark, N. J., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Radio cars, fire apparatus, and two ambulances sped to Newark airport tonight when the United Air Lines reported one of its ships ending its run from Chicago was in distress over the field.

As gasping crowds watched, Pilot Lou Gravis brought his plane down to an uneventful landing by shifting his load. Five passengers and a crew of three were in the ship, a Boeing low wing all-metal monoplane, powered with two 750 horse power engines.

The blizzard in the midwest had frozen the ship's stabilizer, Gravis said, but he had not noticed it until he was ready to land.

1 Mule Dies in 6 Ft. Fall; 2 Drop 85 Ft. and Hee-Haw

Grant Pass, Ore., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Sterling Sloan was driving four mules along a mountainous road. One mule slipped 6 feet off a small bank and was killed. Two others became frightened and plunged off the cliff. They were laden with mattresses and were uninjured when they landed on their burdens, 85 feet below, Sloan declared.

30 Below, but He Wants His Straw Hat Returned

Aberdeen, S. D., Jan. 22.—(AP)—While thermometers hovered at 30 degrees below zero today, an Aberdeen newspaper accepted this want ad:

"Lost, one straw hat. Suitable reward."

HELLO, CENTRAL! CONNECT ME WITH THE WEATHER MAN

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Chicago citizens, stung by the unpredicted subzero wave, bombarded the telephones of the weather bureau with questions yesterday. Thousands wanted to know how cold it was and how cold it was expected to be. The phones were swamped with the greatest number of calls in the bureau's history.

J. R. LLOYD.

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd issued an explanatory statement in which he appeared to waver between pride that the cold was setting new records, and regret that he had not anticipated it. Asserting that he had forecast "near zero" temperatures for Chicago, he added that there had been nothing to indicate that this particular storm, with its northwest gales, "would intensify to the extent that it did" and bring unprecedented temperatures "with almost unbelieveable speed."

Great Severity Undiscerned.

"The extreme severity of the storm could not be foreseen even as late as 8 o'clock last night," he said on a final chilly note.

Mr. Lloyd's "near zero" forecast was made Tuesday morning and read: "Partly cloudy and colder tonight; lowest temperature near 4 degrees in city, to zero in western suburbs. Wednesday partly cloudy, possibly light snow."

Meanwhile, one unlisted and three regular phone lines manned by one woman and three men were busy receiving about 700 calls an hour. From 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. they received 800.

Most of the callers were good natured and some of them whooped loudly when informed the mercury would go to 20 degrees below zero or lower by this morning. The official temperature was given as 16 degrees below at 1 and 2 p. m., but at 2:15 it dropped to 17—the lowest of the afternoon.

How the Queries Sounded.

A reporter listened in on an extension line at the bureau for an hour and half, hearing queries and replies.

"Sixteen below," the woman operator's voice repeated mechanically.

"How much? Sixteen below? I'll bet you get tired of saying that," said a man's pleasant voice. "How about tonight? Twenty-five below? Who ordered that? Is it in the AAA? If so I'll take it to the Supreme court."

"What's the prediction for tonight?" another man's voice asked. Then, after her reply, he continued: "Twenty-five below? You say that very casually. Well, thanks."

One woman asked a weather bu-

SUBZERO BLAST SHUTS CHICAGO SCHOOLS TODAY

All Central West in Grip of Cold.

Hell Freezes Over

HELL, MICH., Jan. 22.—(AP)—This 50 year old village, now almost abandoned, was under six inches of snow with the remainder of Livingston county, and a heavy coating of ice covered the dam and pond of Reeves Mill, about which the life of the community once gravitated.

The piercing cold blast from the arctic wastes, which rode into Chicago on strong winds yesterday, drove the mercury to an unofficial reading of 18 degrees below zero at 2 and 3 o'clock this morning and even lower in the suburbs. At one suburb—Zion—the thermometer recorded 28 below.

An official minimum of 17 below zero was reached yesterday at 2:15 p. m. But the forecast indicated that some time in the early hours today a mark of 20 below in the city and 25 below in the suburbs would be reached. The descending mercury at the Chicago airport, where the unofficial mark was reached, indicated the forecast would be fulfilled.

But this will probably be the cold wave's last stand, it was predicted. By tonight moderation of the extreme cold is forecast—by the weather bureau—but will be followed by a heavy snowstorm.

All Midwest Suffering.

Yesterday's piercing cold swept through the entire American midcontinent, establishing new lows in many sections of the central west.

The most important effect of the cold in Chicago, aside from the discomfort to pedestrians and the inconvenience to motorists, was an order closing the city's public schools today.

This order was given by Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan. He pointed out that, although the schools were well heated, the dangers for pupils are serious because of the slippery streets. While none of the city schools was closed yesterday, pupils who did not attend were not given demerits for absence.

The Catholic parochial schools in Chicago will remain open, according to an announcement by the Rev. Daniel F. Cunningham, archdiocesan superintendent of schools.

Many Suburban Schools Shut.

In many of the suburbs the elementary schools will be shut down today and in the higher grades pupils will not be penalized if the cold prevents them from attending classes.

Schools in the north shore towns of Evanston, Wilmette, Winnetka, Niles Center, and Kenilworth will remain open, however. The schools will also be open in Oak Park.

In the Lake county cities of Lake Forest and Waukegan the schools will also be open, but pupils have been informed that attendance is not mandatory. In other Lake county towns the schools will be closed.

Cold Keenly Felt in Suburbs.

Besides the unofficial reading of 28 below at Zion and 27 at Libertyville, other suburban temperatures yesterday were:

Predicts 20 Below Early Today.

In predicting a 20 below zero minimum in Chicago early today J. R. Lloyd, government forecaster here, said the minimum might be 25 below in the western and northern suburbs in the morning hours. After that, Mr. Lloyd said, the mercury will probably rise to a maximum of 5 below this afternoon, the upturn to be followed by the snow and a probable maximum of 20 above zero tomorrow.

During the afternoon Forecaster Lloyd had predicted a 25 below zero minimum in Chicago today. His modification of this [illegible] minimum of 20 below made it unlikely that the present cold wave would break the all-time low temperature record of the Chicago weather bureau. The lowest temperature ever recorded here was 23 below zero on Dec. 24, 1872.

The lowest the mercury has ever dropped in the 20th century in Chicago was on Feb. 9, 1933, when a reading of 19 below was recorded.

Since the Chicago weather bureau opened in 1870 there have been only ten readings lower than 15 degrees below. In the last fifteen years there have been only three such readings, an average of once in every five years.

Subzero Blast a Surprise.

Yesterday was the coldest day in Chicago since Jan. 24, 1935, when the temperature fell to 7 degrees below/ zero.

The sudden arrival of the subzero wave was a surprise, there having been no warning of its approach in such force. The official forecast for yesterday, made Tuesday night, was "snow and continued cold, with moderate west to northwest winds." Motorists had no notice to protect their radiators and public service and transit companies also were taken by surprise.

Forecaster Lloyd said that the extreme cold had been impossible to predict. He explained this by stating that "innocent low pressure areas" over Davenport, Ia., and Bismarck, N. D., had converged over the Great Lakes region and had sucked down the masses of cold air from Canada.

Cold Engulfs Central West.

The area encompassed by the icy blasts yesterday was from the eastern part of Montana, southward along the Rocky mountains to northern Oklahoma, east to central Arkansas, and then northeast through Tennessee and Kentucky and as far east as Buffalo, N. Y.

The coldest town in the United States was International Falls, Minn., where the mercury slid to 55 degrees below zero. Thief River Falls, Minn., was a close second with 47 below and Moorhead, Minn., and Devils Lake, N. D., in the same region each reported 38 below.

Chicagoans consoled themselves by contemplating these temperatures but when they made inquiries about Alaska in the natural belief that it must be even colder there, they received the surprising information that Juneau had a reading of 36 degrees above zero.

46 Above in Calgary!

Still more surprising were the maximum readings of 46 above in Calgary, and 42 above in Medicine Hat and Edmonton, all in the Canadian province of Alberta. The minimum temperatures for the day in these towns were: Calgary, 38 above; Medicine Hat, 12 above, and Edmonton, 10 above.

Among the minimum temperatures recorded over the central west, outside Illinois, were: Minneapolis and St. Paul, 32 below; Bismarck, N. D., and Charles City, Ia., 28 below; Huron, S. D., 26 below; La Crosse, Wis., 24 below; Duluth, Minn., and Sioux City and Des Moines, Ia., 22 below; Davenport, Ia., 20 below; Milwaukee, 19 below, and Covington, Ky., 10 below.

Numerous deaths and accidents due to the cold and snow were reported throughout the central west. Blizzards paralyzed trafic in some sections and scores of roads were blocked in Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, and the Dakotas. In several places trains were imprisoned in drifts.

Highways Blocked by Drifts.

In the Chicagoland area the snow that fell Tuesday night, whipped into drifts by the strong winds, made many roads impassable. Nearly all north and south highways in the northwestern part of Illinois were closed to trafic.

Highways between Milwaukee and Waukegan were reported dangerous to trafic. Similar conditions prevailed near La Salle and De Kalb. Roads near Wheaton were closed shortly after noon.

Roads around Bloomington and Elgin were also nearly impassable and motorists were urged not to leave these towns.

In Lake county ten pupils from the Superior school at Round Lake and five pupils from the Grant Community High school at Fox Lake had to stay in the Round Lake school overnight because the school buses could not get through the snowdrifts on the roads. The school was well heated and food and bedding were brought in for the pupils.

At the Gages Lake school, 12 miles west of Waukegan, twenty pupils were marooned for several hours in the afternoon because of the drifts on state route 45. The heating plant in the school building broke down and the pupils were finally taken home by deputy sherifs.

The mercury began its drop in Chicago at 4 o'clock yesterday morning when it reached 7 degrees above from a reading of 12 degrees at midnight. At 6 a. m. the temperature was 1 above, at 7 a. m. it had dropped to 2 below, and at 8 a. m. to 5 below.

The steady drop continued until the minimum of 17 below was reached at 2:15 p. m. Then came a rise. At 6 and 7 in the evening the official thermometer stood at 11 below, but at 8 p. m. it turned downward again.

For the first time in 24 years the Chicago river between its mouth and Franklin street was frozen solid with three inches of ice.

Plenty of Coal for City.

Householders were assured that there is no immediate possibility of a coal shortage.

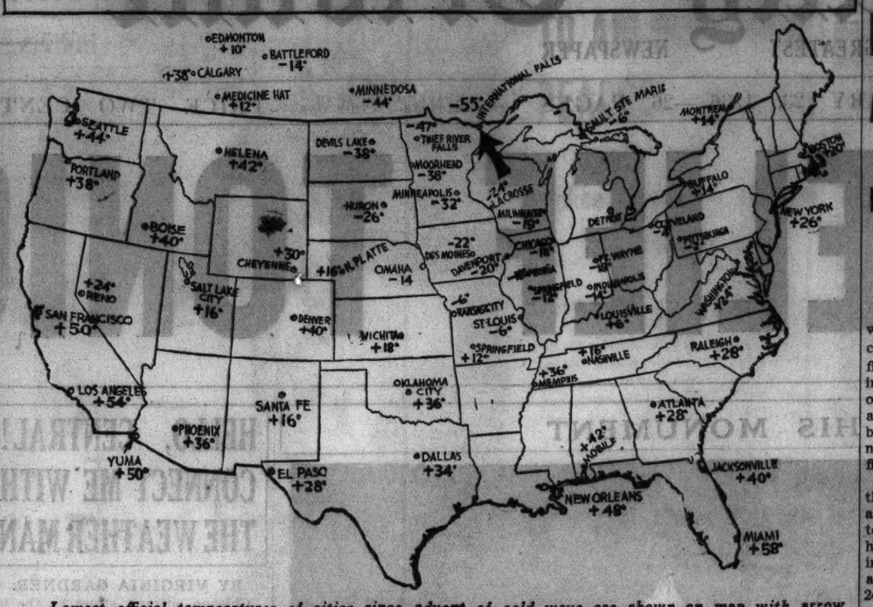
The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company reported that all its gas plants were prepared for capacity operation.

Railroads reported only minor delays in schedules. Trains traveling into the wind were proceeding under double engines. Officials of the Illinois Central railroad said there would be no serious delays in suburban service, although there was a temporary tieup of electric trains on the suburban line yesterday afternoon between 82d and 115th streets.

Airplanes arriving in Chicago from the east were slightly behind time schedules but no cancelations were reported. Planes flying east were spurred by the west winds and in many instances arrived at their destinations ahead of time. Pilots said they encountered no difficulties from the cold in flying at high altitudes.

Relief shelters in the city were taxed to capacity as 3,000 homeless people were taken in from the streets.

HOW FRIGID WAVE OVERSPREAD NATION



Lowest official temperatures of cities since advent of cold wave are shown on map with arrow pointing to International Falls, the coldest spot in the country. Some Canadian points show moderate temperatures in contrast with arctic temperatures in the United States.

Scene yesterday just outside International Falls, Minn., where the temperature dropped to 55 below zero, the lowest in the United States. The area already had been covered with deep snow.

"Is that all?" she said indignantly. Then, incredulously, "All right."

"What is the temperature now?" one woman asked. "O-o, that's swell," she said, laughing. "What is it in Great Falls, Montana? Forty-four above? O, fine, thanks very much."

A man shipping fruit east learned that the cold wave would move on toward the east coast tomorrow night just as his fruit would. "Wow!" was all he said.

A woman drawled conversationally: "Twenty below tonight? My word! And what tomorrow? Five below? Let's see, then, that will be considerably warmer, won't it? Thank you."

"What're we going to do? We'll freeze," one woman said in apparent despair. "Well, if that's the best you can do——"

THE TRIBUNE doubled its force on the switchboard to care for what at 7 o'clock last night totaled 18,000 calls. From 11 to 12 noon 2,146 calls were recorded.

BLAZE IN HOME FORCES CRAMERS TO FLEE IN COLD

Ambrose Cramer Jr., Chicago architect, and his wife, the former Mary Meeker, were forced to flee partially clothed yesterday morning when fire broke out in their home at 925 North Lake road, Lake Forest. Later Mr. and Mrs. Cramer returned to the burning house and with the help of neighbors and firemen succeeded in carrying part of their furniture to safety. The Cramers, Chief George Larson and four other members of the Lake Forest fire department all suffered from frost bites while fighting the fire.

The loss was estimated at $5,000 on furniture which it was impossible to remove from the house, and $15,000 on the building. The house, a Lake Forest landmark, was built in 1876 by John V. Farwell.

THREE OF FAMILY KILLED IN FIRE; ANOTHER INJURED

Eleven Rescued as Blaze Sweeps Flats.

A father and two young children were burned to death and another child was injured early today when flames destroyed a Negro flat building at 1206 West Roosevelt road. Six other children in the family as well as the five other occupants of the building escaped by jumping into life nets or being helped down ladders by firemen.

This tragedy, another which cost the life of one man, and a 3-11 alarm at 59th and Halsted streets early yesterday were all attributed to householders' attempts to keep warm during the bitter cold. More than 170 alarms were turned in during the 24 hours ending at midnight last night, most of them for overheated furnaces and chimney fires. This was more than double the daily average.

Firemen Hampered by Cold.

The stinging subzero cold hampered rescue attempts of firemen early today. Water froze quickly, making treacherous footing on the ladders. Before the firemen managed to direct water into the blazing building the three persons had been burned to death.

The dead, all colored, were: Andrew Davis, 49 years old; Augustus, 5 years old, and Edward, 3 years old. Milton, 16 years old, was critically burned and badly hurt when he leaped from the third floor apartment.

The 3-11 fire occurred in the basement of the Consumers Paint and Varnish company, 5902-04 South Halsted street. Two families living above a drug store at 5900 and employés of the store were driven to the street in the cold.

Expectant Mother Burned.

Physicians at St. Elizabeth's hospital watched last night over the condition of Mrs. Ruth Greenholtz, 23 years old, an expectant mother. She was burned severely when her dress caught fire as it brushed against a hot stove in the grocery which she and her husband, Joseph, operate at 2607 West North avenue.

Arthur Olson, 58 years old, a farmer, was burned to death yesterday morning in his flat at 1700 North Mozart street. It was believed his clothing caught fire as he poured kerosene into a coal stove. Olson was to have attended the funeral yesterday of his sister, who lived with him. She died Monday, and was buried yesterday at Mount Carmel cemetery.

With the temperature 26 degrees below zero, fire early yesterday destroyed a Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at 813 Washington road, Deerfield, driving into the street four persons who occupied apartments on the second floor. For a time the entire business district of the town was threatened.

WEATHER COSTS WPA 2½ MILLION HOURS IN MONTH

No Work Done for 14 Per Cent of Pay.

Time lost on Illinois WPA projects due to cold weather and other factors, which workers were paid for under "security wage" rules, amounted to 2,592,000 hours in December, it was revealed yesterday by the area statistical office of the Works Progress administration. As all outdoor activities came to a dead stop yesterday, officials predicted that the January "weather loss" would be even greater.

Hours credited to workers totaled 18,325,279, but only 15,733,279 hours were actually worked, reflecting a loss of 14.3 per cent. General practice has been to excuse workers on unsheltered projects when the temperature drops lower than 15 degrees above zero. A few other minor factors, such as machinery breakdowns, figure in this loss.

Unionists Ask Same Treatment.

Unions whose members are being paid union wages on WPA projects, under the 10 per cent allotment for persons not taken from relief rolls, have attempted to obtain the same consideration given "security wage" workers, it was learned. Their request was refused, on the basis of Washington instructions.

Most office employés of both the WPA and the Illinois Emergency Relief commission were excused at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon to allow for transportation difficulties due to the subzero wave.

A flood of appeals for additional fuel came into relief stations yesterday. Frank Z. Glick, associate executive secretary of the IERC declared that extra fuel was likely to cost the commission a substantial sum.

From Springfield, where he hopes to obtain additional relief funds, Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the IERC, issued a statement declaring that private employment is a factor enabling the closing of relief cases.

Artists Told Not to Give News.

"The bulk of the cases being closed are being taken off our rolls as the result of WPA employment," Mr. Lyons said. "However, last month 11,193 resident family cases were closed for other reasons. In a recent study it was found that 10 per cent of all the persons receiving WPA assignments were already employed in private industry when they received the job notice, and therefore did not accept work on the project."

Mrs. Increase Robinson, director of WPA art projects in Illinois, said yesterday that she has instructed artists and supervisors not to give information to reporters, but denied that this was an attempt to suppress news.

"Just ask me whenever you want to know anything" she said. "My people are artists, you know, and they shouldn't be bothered or asked to interpret our program."

She announced that Nathaniel Owings, architect who was prominent on the World's Fair administrative staf, has been selected state supervisor of WPA art projects. She also revealed that her offices will be moved on Jan. 31 from 1319 South Michigan avenue to studios on the 10th and 11th floors at 433 East Erie street.

3,100 Young People Given Work.

More than 3,100 young men and girls from Illinois relief families are now employed on a one-third time basis on National Youth administration and WPA projects, it was announced yesterday by William J. Campbell, state director of the NYA.

"This means that in 3,121 relief homes where there are five or more children, a total income of $62,000 is being received monthly in addition to the family heads' wages from the Works Progress administration," Mr. Campbell said. "In Chicago alone, 1,610 are employed with a pay roll of $32,925 a month."

SEES ROOSEVELT LACKING VIRTUES OF ANDY JACKSON

Beck Disputes Parallels Drawn by President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—In a caustic reply to President Roosevelt's attempt to parallel his administration with that of Andrew Jackson in the recent Democratic Jackson Day dinner, James M. Beck, noted constitutional authority, tonight said no two personalities in the nation's history stand in greater contrast.

"Between our smiling, cultivated and Chesterfieldian President with his aristocratic Harvard college traditions, now wandering like Little Alice in a strange wonderland of socialistic policies, and the dour, grim visaged and unlettered backwoodsman from Tennessee, whose only concern was with the grim realities of life, there would seem to be no resemblance to the naked eye," Mr. Beck said.

Sees Two Resemblances.

However, Mr. Beck pointed to two resemblances not stressed by the President in his speech. The former solicitor general said that Jackson believed government was not so much a public trust as a party picnic. President Roosevelt, Mr. Beck found, has the same tolerance for the vagaries of his hungry party adherents in adding 100,000 employés to the pay roll —"shall I say play roll?"

Another resemblance is that the chief advisors of both Presidents were not cabinet members. Jackson had his kitchen cabinet of statesmen "while the President has assembled a wierd kitchen cabinet of visionary apprentices without any previous experience in the federal government."

Beyond these two points of resemblance, Mr. Beck said the comparison of the two administrations becomes a pathetic contrast. He pointed to Jackson's belief in honest money and firm conviction that the country could not spend itself into prosperity. The fact that Jackson in his two terms reduced the public debt from 67 million dollars to $37,000 was contrasted with the increase under Roosevelt of from 16 to nearly 32 billion dollars.

Contrast on Constitution.

The greatest contrast between the two administrations is in their attitude toward the constitution, Mr. Beck said. He asserted Jackson and Webster saved the constitution in a crtical hour where Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward the document is one of "cynical and flippant indifference." The President's one comment that will be remembered "was his intimation that the great document, as authoritively interpreted by the court, belongs to the 'horse and buggy age,'" Beck said.

Mr. Beck declared that Jackson never undertook anything that he did not carry out and never moved for dictatorial policies. In contrast, he asserted, Roosevelt has abandoned many plans and moved toward demagoguery. Jackson's public utterance may be searched in vain for any expression savoring of demagoguery, Beck said, while in recent years Presidents have adopted a method of composite ownership for public addresses and the result has been a certain loss of both unity and sincerity.

Calls Message "Harrangue."

"Take, for example, the extraordinary harrangue which the President, forgetful of the dignity of his high office and the equal dignity of congress, made on Jan. 3," Beck continued. "That address which never had any precedent in history, and let us hope will never be imitated, was obviously the work of many hands.

"Portions of it sound like the 'fairy persiflage' of Prof. Tugwell, other portions suggest the banalities of Prof. Moley, but others suggest the subtle sinuosities of Prof. Frankfurter. Much of it is pure Roosevelt. Whatever its authorship, the future historian will regard that address as the low water mark of presidential reports on the state of the union."

Mr. Beck, in closing, said the historian may record another contrast for the future to determine—"Jackson succeeded himself and named his successor. I venture to predict Mr. Roosevelt will neither succeed himself nor name his successor."

HUNGARIAN ABOUT TO HANG WRITES BRUNO AS 'DEAR COLLEAGUE'

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was addressed as "My dear colleague" by a man who wrote him a letter before being executed today.

The writer, Ladislaus Szepesi, who was hanged with two companions for murder while robbing a bank, went to his death protesting his innocence. He handed a letter to an official addressed to Hauptmann as he walked up the gallows steps.

"I do not know whether you will be killed, but I believe you are innocent," Szepesi wrote Hauptmann. "I, too, am innocent. I did not know my pals would use guns when they raided the bank. I was outside keeping guard."

Officials said the letter would be mailed to the convicted killer of the Lindbergh child.

JURY CONVICTS TRIO ON 'BUCKET SHOP' CHARGES

Leonard Rollnick, Ben Rubin, and Barney Lavin were found guilty yesterday by a federal jury in the court of Judge Walter C. Lindley of using the mails to defraud. Each man, convicted of bucket shop operations, faces a maximum sentence on seven counts of 34 years in the penitentiary and $70,000 in fines.

All three defendants have been tried twice in state courts on similar charges, but in each trial the jury disagreed.

Judge Lindley read the sealed verdict of the jury, which had been reached after two hours' deliberation Tuesday night, and set the hearing on a motion for a new trial for this afternoon.

ESTATE LAWYER SENT TO JAIL FOR FUND SHORTAGE

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday sentenced Melville R. Thomson, a lawyer with offices at 166 West Jackson boulevard, to six months in jail for failure to account for funds belonging to an estate.

The estate was that of Mrs. Wladyslava Rybicki, who died in 1929, leaving property worth $13,000 to two children, Walter, 23 years old, a mechanic living in Blue Island, and Pearl, 21 years old, of 2521 South Ridgeway avenue. Thomson was attorney for John Rybicki of Harvey, divorced husband of the dead woman and administrator of her estate.

In June, 1933, Judge O'Connell set fees for Thomson at $2,500, and it was discovered that he had already taken $1,470 more than that sum from the estate. He promised to make restitution, but failed to do so. Attorneys for the two Rybicki children filed a motion to have him held in contempt last October, but he was not served with notice of it until Monday.

Judge O'Connell indicated after the contempt hearing that he would remove Rybicki as administrator of the estate and substitute a bank.

Gets Hauptmann's Former License Number; Changed

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Mary Fitzpatrick, Bronx schoolteacher, doesn't want the automobile license number through which Bruno Richard Hauptmann was finally traced. On Jan. 3 she was given plate No. NY 3U54-11. A reporter called her attention to the similarity and today she demanded new plates. She got them.

ROB WIDOW OF $870.

Mrs. Mary Halpin, 315 South Winchester avenue, a widow employed at the County hospital, reported to the police yesterday that robbers entered her home and took money and clothing valued at $870.

WIDOW RETURNS TO AID HUNT FOR PEACOCK SLAYER

Police Question Her on Latest Clews.

Mrs. Ruth Sarah Peacock returned to Chicago yesterday from Bowen, Ill., to aid authorities in their search for the murderers of her husband, Dr. Silber C. Peacock, child specialist. He was slain Jan. 2 after being lured from his home at the Edgewater Beach apartments by a telephone plea that he attend a sick child.

Mrs. Peacock, whose train was delayed more than an hour and a half by the cold wave, arrived at the Union station. She appeared tired, but greeted reporters pleasantly.

New Clew a Mystery.

Mrs. Peacock said she knew nothing about the latest clew in the case, a key found in the pocket of her husband.

"Really," she said, "I have nothing to say. I've told all I can already."

Mrs. Peacock was questioned last night by Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney, and other investigators. The officials announced that she had been unable to shed light on the mystery. Mrs. Peacock said she would remain until Feb. 1 to assist in the investigation, if needed.

Trustees of the Chicago Medical society yesterday appointed Dr. Thomas C. Foley chairman of a committee to represent the society in cooperating with authorities in efforts to solve the murder.

Search for Bandits.

The society has offered a $500 reward for apprehension of the slayers. Police were searching yesterday for two bandits who robbed Dr. Robert L. Abraham, 3723 North Troy street, on Tuesday night when he answered a call similar to the one that lured Dr. Peacock to his death.

Two men met Dr. Abraham at 1537 Dickson street, robbed him of $47, and warned him he would be killed if he notified police.

STATE CASE NEAR END IN FAKE GEM ROBBERY TRIAL

Testimony by Albert Ellbogen, member of the good welfare committee of the Jewelers' Association of Chicago, that he had an idea there was going to be a robbery but didn't know when or where, closed yesterday's session in the trial of Meyer Bogue and three associates for the fake $35,000 loop jewelry robbery of last Dec. 8.

After Ellbogen had testified, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty informed Judge Cornelius Harrington that the state had one more witness before its case was completed. Dougherty said that the witness, Postal Inspector J. R. McWhorter, was ill, and he asked a continuance until today, which was granted.

Supervising Police Captain John Stege took the stand to deny that he knew of the plan for the robbery for which Bogue, James Brezak, Harry Mallin, and Patrick J. Sullivan are on trial. Bogue, when arrested, claimed that he staged the robbery with the knowledge of police, postal inspectors, and members of the jewelers' association.

VENUE CHANGE GRANTED PAPER IN LIBEL TRIAL

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The state Supreme court, in a change of venue order handed down today, directed that the criminal libel suit filed against the Philadelphia Inquirer by Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti be tried in Washington county instead of Jefferson county.

The suit, based on a four column story published by the Inquirer early last fall dealing with an alleged scheme to permit attorneys to collect delinquent taxes on a percentage basis, was filed in Jefferson, the home county of Margiotti. The newspaper contended that a fair trial could not be obtained there because of the attorney general's acquaintance and influence.

The Supreme court issued its order after receiving a report from Presiding Judge William S. McLean of the Luzerne County court, whom it had sent to Jefferson county to take testimony to determine whether in his opinion the Inquirer could be assured of a fair trial. Judge McLean is to preside at the trial, which will begin on Feb. 10 unless continued.

"The assignment of Judge McLean cannot be construed to be any reflection on the judges of Washington county, but it is made because of his familiarity with the case," said the Supreme court order.

Freedom of the press committees of several groups of editors and publishers protested last fall against forcing Charles A. Tyler, president and general manager, and John T. Curtis, editor of the Inquirer, to travel 300 miles to Jefferson county for trial. Washington county, in extreme western Pennsylvania, is farther than Jefferson from Philadelphia.

BUSINESS URGED TO ACT FOR UNITY ON TIME CHANGE

Hodes Tells Need of Rail Concurrence March 1.

Questionaires now being circulated by the Association of Commerce on the subject of eastern standard time bring squarely before Chicago business men the need of urging the interstate commerce commission to permit the railroads to follow Chicago in the time change program March 1, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes said yesterday.

Mr. Hodes acted for the city in petitioning the commission to reopen the Michigan time case of 1931, so that the eastern time zone can be extended to Chicago. This, he pointed out in the petition, will permit carriers to operate on one time from the east to Chicago, and will eliminate all possibility here of such time confusion as that which accompanied the twice a year changes to summer daylight time—a change the railroads were not permitted to make.

Rail Concurrence Only Issue.

"The question before Chicago business is: 'Shall the railroads follow the city in adopting eastern standard time on March 1?'" Mr. Hodes said. "This is a sole issue before the commerce commission, and the only one in which it has jurisdiction. The city has already acted to change time, and the action before the commission concerns only the compliance of the railroads.

"Michigan and Ohio have adopted eastern standard time as states, but in most of Michigan and part of Ohio trains still operate on central time. These states apparently still like the change despite this difficulty, but we want no such difficulty in Chicago. We feel that we can have eastern time in Chicago for railroads, benefiting this city, an important terminus, and those states as well.

Means Better Mail Service.

"I am confident that business will want the railroads and the city on the same time—eastern standard time—on March 1. By the nature of the issue involved, business men testifying will either ask for one time for the railroads and the city, or for a situation similar to that in Michigan. It is, of course, unthinkable that any one will oppose this change for the railroads, who themselves suggested that steps be taken so that they can comply with the time law."

With the questionnaire, sent to business men, the Association of Commerce attached a schedule which indicated that three of five mail deliveries would be affected by the changed time. This schedule was, however, based on the presumption that the interstate commerce commission would not permit the railroads to change time.

Postmaster Kruetgen said yesterday that if the railroads are permitted to adopt eastern standard time there will be no changes in mail deliveries. Mail would also be dispatched on the same basis as at present, but it would arrive in New York and other eastern points an hour earlier than it does now. This provides obvious advantages in placing orders.

Similarly, telephone orders to the east could be made an hour later in the day. Since in many industries such orders are based on the activities of salesmen during the day, they will be enabled to report in an hour later, thus adding an extra hour for such businesses.

Hearings Before March 1.

The interstate commerce commission is expected to call hearings before March 1 on the question of whether the railroads will be permitted to change time. Attorneys interested in the case say that the action of the city council in changing time—after public hearings on the subject—will not come up, since the Supreme court has ruled that the federal government has no power to regulate the time of the various communities.

The Association of Commerce, although it originally devised a plan for changing to eastern time in 1915, is taking a neutral position in the present discussion, but will obtain a hearing for those wishing to testify on either side before the commission.

The petition on which the hearing would be based was filed by the city on Jan. 7, at the order of the city council. It requests that the commission "hold hearings and consider the prayer of the city of Chicago that it be included in the eastern time zone for railway operation."

FIRST OF SCOTTSBORO RAPE CASE RETRIALS IS GIVEN TO JURORS

Decatur, Ala., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The case against Heywood Patterson, one of the nine colored defendants in the "Scottsboro case" charged with attacking Mrs. Victoria Price on a freight train in Jackson county on Mar. 25, 1931, was given to the jury this evening. The jurors, however, will not begin their deliberations until tomorrow.

Lieut. Gov. Thomas E. Knight Jr., special prosecutor, in his closing argument demanded that the death penalty be inflicted. The death penalty is one of the verdicts the jury may bring in, according to the instructions given by Judge W. W. Callahan.

Patterson took the stand in his own defense and denied the attack. Nearly 15 defense witnesses testified.

FRANCE FACES MONEY CRISIS AS LAVAL QUITS

Herriot, Radicals Force Premier Out.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 22.—After several months of governmental stability President Albert Lebrun tonight was looking for a man to govern France. Premier Pierre Laval late this afternoon handed to Lebrun the resignation of the entire cabinet. Leaders expressed fear of a financial crisis.

The radical Socialists: Minister of State Edouard Herriot, Minister of Commerce George Bonnet, Minister of Mercantile Marine William Bertrand, and Minister of Interior Joseph Paganonx, composed a letter of resignation condemning the domestic and foreign policies of Laval. Their colleagues, Minister of Finance Marcel Regnier and Minister of Pensions Maupoil, refused to sign, declaring they would resign only with the cabinet as a whole. The Nationalist Minister of state Louis Marin, also dissented from the resignation.

Laval, informed of what was going on, handed the president the resignation of the entire cabinet.

Lebrun to Funeral.

Thus the cabinet crisis, which some persons thought would be put off one week so the French government could put up a decent front at the funeral of King George V. of England, was precipitated immediately. As a last act the cabinet decreed a fifteen days period of mourning.

As for the funeral, President Lebrun will be accompanied by Marshal Henri Petain, who had personal contacts with the king during the war, Gen. Victor Denain, head of the air force, and the new foreign minister if some one is appointed by next Monday. If not Laval will attend.

President Lebrun in the search for a new premier was informed by Laval that he was unwilling to form a new cabinet. The president consulted Fernand Bouisson, speaker of the chamber of deputies, who following tradition, refused. The Radical Socialist party, moreover, was unwilling to take the responsibility of forming a new government. The party leaders admitted it would be bad political strategy to take charge just before the parliamentary elections which normally will take place three months hence.

Fear Financial Crisis.

Names mentioned as possibilities to head a new cabinet include Pierre-Etienne Flandin, leader of the Left Republicans, Georges Mandel, communications minister in the present cabinet; Marcel Regnier, minister of finance, and Albert Serraut who was premier for a month in 1933.

The Socialist press and notably the Socialist leader Leon Blum admitted the Socialists wanted the overthrow of Premier Laval on account of his attitude in the Italo-Ethiopian affair.

The chief preoccupation of most high placed Frenchmen is the financial situation. The treasury must borrow 8 billion francs [$528,000,000] shortly. The recent overtures for a loan having met with the Bank of England's demand for a hefty deposit, the French authorities hesitate before the probable psychological effect, and fear eventual devaluation of the franc.

ITALY REPORTS FALL OF TOWN IN SOUTH ETHIOPIA

Northern Army, Too, "Pushes Forward."

ROME, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Italy today reported that Neghelli, capital of Galla Borana in southern Ethiopia, 236 miles northwest of Dolo, had been taken "in a brilliant and rapid action" on Jan. 20.

Premier Mussolini cabled congratulations to Gen. Rodolfo Graziani, in charge of the southern army, saying "the victory won over Ras Desta Demtu makes Italians proud."

The capture of Neghelli was hailed as most important here because it commands caravan routes, affording the Italians means of protecting themselves against enemy infiltrations and flank attacks.

Another communique said the northern army under Marshal Pietro Badoglio had pushed forward in the Tembien area.

[In Addis Ababa the government received assurances from Desta Demtu, son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie and commander in the south, that his armies have not been defeated. "We have had many small engagements with the Italians, some ending to our advantage, some to the advantage of the enemy," he said.]

"Ghost" Turns Up.

ADDIS ABABA, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Ras Hailu, once potent prince of troublous Gojjam province, turned up in Addis Ababa suddenly today to belie reports abroad he had been poisoned and to declare he had made peace with Emperor Haile Selassie.

Hailu, brought to Addis Ababa recently from an island in Lake Zwai, appeared in good health, save for rheumatism.

"I am 57 years old," he said. "Despite the fact that Mussolini says I am dead, I expect to outlive him."

Hailu once aspired to replace Selassie and led an abortive revolt to that end. His presence here created the belief he was brought to the capital in a move to quell revolts in the province, and it was thought he might call upon his former subjects to be loyal to the emperor.

Discover Air Base.

A government communique on Monday announced that a number of Gojjam rebels under Ras Gasasa had been slain and others imprisoned, although Gasasa escaped.

Hailu admitted the emperor was keeping him under close surveillance.

From unofficial sources it was reported the Ethiopians have discovered a secret Italian air base in the middle of the Danakil desert, on the northeast, at which it apparently was intended that planes would be in striking distance of Addis Ababa.

PORTER REPORTS $10,000 THEFT OF CASH AND GEMS

Washington Porter II., art collector, reported to the Hyde Park police yesterday the theft of a small safe, containing money and jewelry valued at $10,000 from his home at 4043 Lake Park avenue. He said several articles of clothing also were stolen.

Porter said he discovered the theft at 2 a. m. yesterday on returning home after a visit with north side friends. The stolen safe, which was about 14 inches high and weighed about 50 pounds, was ripped loose from a wall to which it was chained in the art collector's bedroom. He reported that no effort was made to enter the museum of art treasures, which adjoins his residence.

Porter asked the police to arrest A. Lawrence Brennan, 27 years old, of Boston, Mass., who has been his secretary since 1934. Servants reported Brennan had disappeared. In March, 1935, a jury in the Circuit Court awarded Mrs. Marie Sauer, a maid in the Porter home, a judgment of $500 for false arrest following the loss of $10,000 worth of silverware.

7 POWERS FORM WAR ALLIANCE AGAINST ITALY

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Jan. 22.—Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, put on public record here today, apparently for the benefit of both Premier Mussolini and Reichsfuehrer Hitler, that Great Britain had received guarantees of armed support from France, Jugo-Slavia, Greece, and Turkey in the event of an attack by Italy and had given such guarantees in return, especially to France. Later Czechoslovakia and Rumania announced that they would stand with their little entente ally, Jugo-Slavia.

Moreover, the league committee of eighteen decided not only to make an inquiry into the practical effect of an oil sanction against Italy but also to extend the inquiry by including a study of the feasibility of tightening an oil sanction by forbidding league members to transport in their tankers and ships oil from nonleague members to Italy.

Has France's Written Pledge.

The British memorandum shows Britain has enjoyed since Oct. 18 a written pledge of France's "unlimited solidarity of action in the matter of military, air, and naval assistance." The pledge was given, the French government said, "in the clearest and most precise manner in the concrete case contemplated. . . . A possible attack by Italy upon Great Britain by reason of the latter's collaboration in the international action undertaken by the league of nations.

"The French note to Great Britain stresses . . . that the British have given to France the interpretation that they will not take the initiative in any measure against Italy which would not be in conformity with decisions taken or to be taken by the league in full agreement with France."

The British memorandum explains that these Anglo-French conversations "and the conversations between the naval, military, and air staffs of the two countries" led "certain quarters —[Germany]—to suggest that they were concerned not only with the Mediterranean but "also with the northeastern frontier of France." This Britain categorically denies, affirming "the conversations have been confined entirely to the Mediterranean contingency."

Italy Informed.

The memorandum confirms previous reports that this inquiry occurred even before the Hoare-Laval deal. In December the French informed Italy "of the fact" that staf conversations had taken place.

Led by Turkey, Jugo-Slavia and Greece asked and got reciprocal guarantees from Britain. The memorandum does not mention Spain, and the British deny a formal inquiry was made at Madrid. They admit orally, however, that Downing street informally discussed the question with the Spanish ambassador, suggesting that as the time might come when Britain would have to raise this issue formally, Madrid might want to start thinking about it early.

It is expected Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian delegate, will send the league a note tomorrow protesting the action described in the memorandum and stressing the British fleet movements last summer.

NAZIS CLAIM RIGHT TO DISSOLVE MARRIAGES IN STATE'S INTEREST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—The right of the state to dissolve marriages even against the will of a husband or wife will be incorporated in forthcoming Nazi divorce legislation if the proposals outlined today by the German law academy are adopted.

The new German code, it was argued, must disregard "bourgeoisie" and religious conceptions and be based on the Nazi theory that marriages concern the community and are not merely a personal relationship. The state must be given the right to dissolve matrimonial partnerships which in the view of the divorce judge are a danger to "the biological and cultural existence of the German people."

It is contended that marriages in which, in the public prosecutor's opinion, there is moral "disintegration" —as when a husband and wife carry on communist propaganda—should be dissolved. Married persons should also be divorced when a wife, "without good reason," refuses to bear her husband children, it is held.

SCHOOL BOARD STENOGRAPHER IS TRIED AS UNFIT

After hearing evidence against Mrs. Mary Conroy, 36 years old, suspended school board stenographer, the board of education yesterday took under advisement the question of her discharge from the employé civil service roll.

Mrs. Conroy was suspended last November after pleading guilty to charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. J. Edward Gordon, 4441 Lowe avenue, a church organist, testified in the Municipal court that he paid Mrs. Conroy $1,000 on her promise to get him a job as music supervisor in the schools, a job which never materialized. Mrs. Conroy was placed on probation by Judge Joseph B. Hermes.

The hearing yesterday, marked by hysterical outbreaks on her part, concerned charges that Mrs. Conroy indulged in conduct unbecoming a school board employé. She admitted the conviction in the Municipal court, but denied three other charges—that she was repeatedly late for work, refused work assigned to her, and was absent too often from her desk. The decision of the board is expected to be given next Wednesday.

EGYPT'S CABINET RESIGNS AFTER BRITISH THREAT

London Demands Action on Nationalist Issue.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 22.—Egypt's sphinxlike, disillusioned Premier Nessim Pasha today handed King Fuad I. the resignation of his cabinet over which he had presided for fourteen months. The resignation was accepted.

Nessim has been weary of his job since the anti-British riots started Nov. 13. He found it exhausting to keep an equilibrium between the conflicting forces of the throne, the British residency, the nationalists and their compatriots. But the final blow, dealt him by the British government at London, was the thinly veiled ultimatum to Egyptian nationalism delivered yesterday.

Nationalists in Turmoil.

The ultimatum immediately threw the Egyptian nationalists into a turmoil. It was in the form of verbal instructions for negotiations of an Anglo-Egyptian treaty. It was communicated through the British high commissioner, Sir Miles Lampson, to King Fuad, Premier Nessim and Nahas Pasha, chief of the Wafd [nationalist] party and leader of the National front.

This verbal note surprised the Egyptians by specifying that the Sudan question must be resolved immediately, whereas they had signified a willingness to accept temporarily the status quo.

The sting to Egyptian pride was in the final warning that if the present negotiations fail, the British consider their hands will be free and will revise their Egyptian policy.

Called Tool of British.

Premier Nessim has been steadily accused of being a tool of the British and it was believed the decisive factor in his resignation was his desire to clear himself in the eyes of his compatriots.

In addition, it is known that Nessim is not in favor with his royal master, King Fuad, who made no effort to detain him.

The general belief now is that King Fuad will form a coalition cabinet headed by the Wafd chief, Nahas Pasha, which will rule until the March elections and meanwhile pursue treaty negotiations.

Increasing tension, marked by more student agitation, spread with news of the British threat. Exasperation is rising with every report of British military activity which, until the present, has been accepted as a bona fide precaution against Italian attack. It now reminds the Egyptians, however, that the British have sufficient men and armaments in Egypt to subdue any revolt and refasten the British yoke on Egypt.

The latest military activities were the transfer of 2,000 more British regulars from Cairo to the western front and the announcement that Saturday night all lights at Alexandria must be turned out for an air raid practice.

Search Continues for Air Liner Lost with 6 Aboard

MARSEILLES, France, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Search continued today for a Marseilles-Tunis airliner which vanished with six persons off the coast of Corsica after sending out a call for help. A woman and two men together with a crew of three were in the plane. The last word from the ship late yesterday was "Motor failed. Landing in sea. Help."

FOUND HANGED IN HOME.

George Saraz, 65 years old, 5929 South Racine avenue, was found hanging from a rope tied to a rafter in the basement of his home yesterday. Police said he had been despondent over the death of his wife four years ago.

AGE LIMIT RETIRES VETERAN INSTRUCTOR OF BLIND CHILDREN

Retirement of 12 teachers and John B. Curtis, 65 years old, 6827 Ridgeland avenue, was announced yesterday at the board of education meeting. Mr. Curtis had been dean of the blind and sight saving department of Chicago public schools for 35 years, Supt. William J. Bogan said. The retirement, like those of the teachers, is compulsory due to the age limit of 65 years, and is effective Feb. 2.

Mr. Curtis, an authority on mathematics and social science studies for the blind, developed the Braille slate for teaching mathematics to blind students. His successor has not been announced.

Don't Stake Your Child's Life against a Few Pennies

Don't Try to "Save" by Not Calling a Doctor or Risk Giving Unknown Remedies Without First Getting his Opinion

NOT seeing your doctor, when illness threatens your child, is not economy — it's a mistake upon which life itself often has depended.

By the same token, giving your child unknown remedies—"bargain close-outs" and "just as good" as standard remedies is staking a child's health against a few pennies.

Mothers are becoming more and more conscious of this every day, and acting accordingly . . . accepting no remedy they don't know all about without asking the doctor first.

Do This If Your Child Takes "Milk of Magnesia"

If your child takes "milk of magnesia," ask your doctor, in your interest as well as ours, about Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

He will tell you, we are sure, that doctors, for over 60 years, have said "Phillips" for children. A remedy time has proved SAFE for your child . . . one of the finest products known to modern science; the kind you want your child to have.

Safety for You and Yours

You can assist others by refusing to accept a substitute for the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Do this in the interest of yourself and your children — and in the interest of the public in general.

Any druggist will be glad to give you the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, if you ask for it by name. It now comes in tablet form, as well as liquid. Little, peppermint-tasting tablets that contain the exact equivalent of a teaspoonful of the liquid — and that children like to take. A large box, only 25¢.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25¢.

The Sensible Treatment of A COLD:

Method takes several hours, but it works

To relieve a cold, let your first effort be to clear the head, dry the secretions, reduce the fever and keep the bowels open. This will take time, and medicine of more than one kind.

You can get the necessary medicines of your druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

To relieve a "new" cold, take two of these little tablets; chew them up, drink some water.

Some colds may require additional treatment. If so, follow directions on the package. The relief thus afforded and the comfort it brings you are well worth the time.

Nothing else that would be safe for you to take will relieve a cold more quickly than Pape's Cold Compound.

AAA SUBSTITUTE BILLS ARE FILED IN BOTH HOUSES

Sponsors Are Dubious of Constitutionality.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Admitted by its own sponsors to be of dubious constitutionality, the New Deal's substitute for the AAA was introduced in both the senate and house today, together with a companion measure seeking the appropriation of 440 million dollars for the payment of farm bounties.

Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, called a meeting of the Democratic steering and policy committees for Friday to determine the course of procedure with the new measure.

The farm plan evolved by department of agriculture and AAA officials and approved at a White House conference last night consists of amendments to the 1935 soil conservation act empowering the secretary of agriculture to make grants to farmers if they regulate production according to his orders. The Agricultural Adjustment administration with its horde of non-civil service pay rollers would be continued in effect to administer the "soil conservation and domestic allotment act."

Says It Cannot Be Attacked.

Senator John H. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.], who introduced the bill in the senate, said the constitutionality of the measure was doubtful in the light of the Supreme court's recent decision demolishing the AAA but that it could not be attacked in the courts. No taxes are levied and no one wishing to challenge the legislation will have a cause of action, he explained.

"Personally, I think the bill is constitutional, but it is not constitutional under the Supreme court's last legislative act," said Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.]. "I'm willing to pass it and try it."

Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Republican leader and former chairman of the agriculture committee, regarded the new bill with "suspicion," as did Republicans generally.

"I'm not sure this proposal comes clear of constitutional complications," McNary declared. "I hope some plan may be evolved that will be permanent and free from unconstitutional suspicion."

Chairman Smith Silent.

Senator Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.], chairman of the agriculture committee, conferred throughout the afternoon with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and AAA Administrator Chester Davis, but refused to make any comment on the bill. Smith is expected to oppose many features of the measure, just as he opposed many features of the AAA.

It was the plan of the Democrats to steamroller the new bill through both houses of congress without holding committee hearings, but Republicans in the senate let it be known that they would demand hearings. Smith's committee will meet tomorrow to consider this question.

Admittedly the bill is designed as a stop-gap measure—it would expire Dec. 31, 1937—to permit the continuation of crop reduction bounties, but its title states the purpose "to make further provision for the conservation and the proper utilization of the soil resources of the nation."

Preamble Tells Purposes.

The purposes are set forth in the preamble as "[a] preservation and improvement of soil fertility, [b] promotion of the economic use of the land, [c] diminution of exploitation and unprofitable use of soil resources, [d] provision for and maintenance of a continuous and stable supply of agricultural commodities adequate to meet domestic and foreign requirements at prices fair to both producers and consumers thereof, [e] reestablishment and maintenance of farm purchasing power."

The act would empower the secretary of agriculture to "make payments or grant other aid to agricultural producers based upon [1] their acreage of soil improving or erosion preventing crops, [2] their acreage of crop land, [3] changes in the use of their land, or [4] a percentage of their normal production of any one or more agricultural commodities designated by the secretary which equals that percentage of the normal national production of such commodities required for domestic consumption."

Allotment Plan Favored.

The last alternative, which is the one the AAA officials contemplate using, is the so-called domestic allotment plan. For example, if 80 per cent of the normal national production of a given commodity were required for domestic consumption, the individual farmer would be allotted a quota of 80 per cent of his normal production in that commodity and would receive a bounty for complying with the scheme.

The act would prohibit the secretary from making contracts with producers or acquiring land through lease or purchase, but the grants would be conditioned upon "the maintenance by the producer of such acreage of erosion preventing or soil improvement crops, or such acreage or production of agricultural commodities designated by the secretary or upon such utilization of land as the secretary finds had tended to further the purposes of this act."

Authority Is Questioned.

Senate lawyers declared that such a sweeping and unfettered delegation of legislative authority to the executive branch of the government would never be upheld by the Supreme court in the light of its NRA decision. They also expressed doubt that congress could properly exercise its right to appropriate money for the general welfare if the purpose of such an appropriation is to regulate agricultural production.

The supreme court held in the AAA decision that congress cannot invade the right of the states to regulate agriculture. Although the AAA officials say there is no compulsion in the scheme, this was their contention respecting the AAA contracts. The court held that such contracts were not voluntary.

440 Million Dollars Asked.

Senator Bankhead offered the bill to appropriate 440 million dollars as an amendment to the independent offices act pending in the appropriations committee. However, that committee, headed by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], violent foe of the New Deal, told Mr. Bankhead that he would have to get his main bill passed before the appropriation would be considered.

No provision is made for raising the money to pay farm bounties. Since the government is obligated to pay 237 million dollars on contracts entered into under the AAA and must refund about 200 million dollars in processing taxes impounded by the courts, the appropriation sought will mean a total cost of 877 million dollars for the new farm program. This led to widespread speculation in congressional circles as to whether President Roosevelt will demand additional taxes at this session.

Senator Robert M. La Follette [Radical, Wis.], let it be known that if the subject of revenue is opened up, by request for excise taxes or in any other manner, he will fight for the adoption of his drastic income tax increases proposed and rejected last year.

With a smug smile Secretary Wallace said he is willing to accept the broad powers vested in him by the new bill. He asserted a belief that the plan is constitutional and jubilantly declared that it "might work out even better than the AAA."

Wallace, who professed not to have seen the bill until it was handed to him by a reporter at his press conference, spoke glibly of its sections. Asked if he was prepared to assume the dictatorial powers the bill would give him, he said because he had lived with the AAA for two years he thought the new program could be worked out easily.

The secretary was embarrassed when questioners asked him to detail the ways in which the new bill cures the unconstitutionality of the AAA. He began by saying that it was obvious there was no processing tax in the bill and ended lamely by saying he was no lawyer and therefore shouldn't be called upon to answer the question.

"The plan is based on an increase of land planted to legumes as advocated by former President Hoover," he continued. "It would have to be constitutional."

Wallace declined to discuss the question of whether new taxes would be necessary to finance the plan.

Finalists in Tribune Golden Voice Contest

Six young women who survived in tests broadcast over W-G-N last night to select three want ad-visers for The Tribune, with Quin Ryan, announcer. Left to right: Lucille, Eleanor, Carol, Marjorie, Nancy, Ruth, and Announcer Ryan. Telephone switchboards were flooded with voters' calls at the completion of last night's broadcast. The deadline for votes by mail is Saturday. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Three Get Jobs

Shortly after the finals in the second golden voice want ad-viser competition broadcast over W-G-N last night THE TRIBUNE switchboard was a mass of lights as eight switchboard operators and eight special operators on other phones strove to record the public's votes on the girl entrants. Out of town listeners may mail their votes by postcard, with 2 o'clock Saturday the deadline. The three winners will be announced in the columns of THE TRIBUNE.

The three girls with the winning voices will be given full time positions as members of this newspaper's telephone ad taking staf. Each of the twelve girls heard over W-G-N last night received $25 in cash. The group of twelve, who had been chosen from more than 1,000 entrants, was narrowed to a field of six girls, and they again spoke to their radio audience before the voting began.

Although the contest is not yet decided, awaiting out of town votes, the unseeing radio audience picked a girl with the fictitious name "Carol" as its first choice, according to tabulation of 50 minutes of telephone calls. Five hundred and forty-six votes of the total vote of 2,231 cast in this manner were recorded in favor of "Carol."

Other votes given the entrants, each of whom spoke under an assumed name to assure fairness in balloting, were: Marjorie, 496; Ruth, 394; Eleanor, 323; Lucile, 270, and Nancy, 202.

16 IN HOSPITAL AFTER TRUCK AND TROLLEYS CRASH

Six Others Sent Home; Many Escape.

Sixteen of the 22 persons injured yesterday morning in a collision of two street cars and a truck at 47th street and Kedzie avenue were still in the Southtown hospital last night undergoing treatment for lacerations, bruises, and sprains. Although none was reported to be in a serious condition, it was said some might have to be in the hospital several days.

Six other victims of the accident were released from the hospital during the day after being given medical treatment. Many others, who were shaken up and slightly bruised by the headon crash of the crowded street cars, nursed injuries at home.

Truck Driver in Custody.

In their investigation to determine responsibility for the collision New City police took into custody Clifford Stockwell, 38 years old, of Des Moines, Ia., driver of the ten ton truck that figured in the crash. The vehicle is owned by the White Line Truck and Transfer company.

A charge of reckless driving was lodged against Stockwell after a complaint against him was signed by Mathew Thelen, 51 years old, 5126 South Latrobe avenue, motorman of the southbound Kedzie avenue street car that was struck by the truck.

Driver Blames Icy Pavement.

Stockwell insisted he was driving slowly when he approached the intersection of Kedzie avenue and 47th street but that when he tried to stop the big truck skidded on the icy pavement and smashed into the Kedzie avenue street car. The car, which was halted to unload passengers, was knocked off its tracks and into the path of a moving northbound trolley.

The impact smashed in the front ends of both the cars and sent their loads of passengers crashing to the floor and against seats. Many of the injured were cut by flying glass as windows were shattered. The automobiles of passing motorists were commandeered to take the injured to the hospital.

Widow Fatally Injured.

Mrs. Ida Engelhardt, 52 years old, a widow living at 3714 Palmer street, was struck and fatally injured by an automobile yesterday as she crossed Markham avenue at Milwaukee avenue. She was taken to a nearby drug store where she died within a few minutes from a skull fracture.

Joseph Kaluch, 30 years old, 5600 Milwaukee avenue, was the driver of the car. He told the police he was a tavern operator.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 64 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. During the same period 55 were killed and 860 were injured within the Chicago city limits.

TELLS DIETETIC TREATMENT FOR DIABETES CASES

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 22.—(AP)—A new dietetic treatment for diabetes, which has restored some patients to unrestricted diets with no further need for insulin, was described to the St. Louis Medical society tonight by a pioneer research scientist.

Dr. Michael Somogyi, director of the biochemical laboratory of the Jewish hospital here, reporting a joint study with Dr. Jerome Cook of the hospital staf, readily assented that the treatment would not apply to all diabetic cases, although he indicated from his own experiences with 274 cases that about 85 per cent might be aided.

Dr. Somogyi departed so radically from present dietary regimens that his treatment permits a more liberal use of sugar for diabetic sufferers.

Dr. Somogyi asserted instead that "observations on diabetic patients, accumulated during the past five or six years, led us to the conclusion that diabetes, in the vast majority of cases, is not due to insulin deficiency."

He reported his studies and research led him to conclude that in the majority of cases liver function had been impaired. He connected that with the dieting system and decided that in most cases too much fat and too little carbohydrates appeared in the diet.

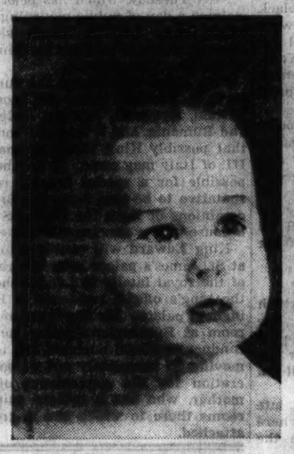
I'll never be bald



WE are all born with the scalp structure necessary to grow hair and to keep it growing. That structure continues to produce a normal growth of hair until (1) some local infection attacks it; or (2) neglect and improper care chokes and stunts the growing hair.

Even when the hair disappears from your scalp, your hair-growing structure is still alive and ready to function. To make your hair continue to grow normally you must first remove local scalp infections and then stimulate and nourish the tiny glands which are asleep in your scalp.

Thomas treatment accomplishes these ends quickly and surely. Dandruff disappears; hair-fall stops; and new hair starts to grow on the thin, and bald spots. Come in today and find out more about this reliable, proved scalp treatment. No charge is made for a complete scalp examination at any time.

For Bad Cough, Mix This Better Remedy, at Home

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, yet it is far more effective than ready-made medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This home-mixed remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous for its effect in stopping coughs quickly. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

BRITAIN SALUTES KING EDWARD IN COLORFUL RITES

New Ruler Is Proclaimed with Medieval Pageantry.

BY LLOYD FANGEL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Londoners witnessed the first pageantry of the new reign this morning when Edward VIII. publicly was proclaimed the British king and emperor in a colorful medieval ritual. Four times, in the presence of the king's heralds and officers at arms, clad in gorgeous uniforms, the anciently worded proclamation was read.

Similar proclamation ceremonies were held throughout the empire.

In London, the proclamation was read first from the scarlet covered balcony of St. James's palace, in the presence of a huge crowd. Trumpeters sounded a fanfare, a guards' band played the national anthem, and a salute of forty-one guns, one for each of the new king's years, was fired in St. James's park.

The Procession Begins.

Then a procession of five landaus, escorted by household cavalry, set off for the historic square mile known as the "City," which is presided over by the lord mayor of London.

The proclamation also was read at Charing Cross and again at Temple Bar. Finally it was read at the Royal Exchange.

Along the route of the procession 10,000 troops with draped colors lined the streets.

It was the first time in nearly twenty-six years that London had seen such a ceremonial and tens of thousands turned out, filling every vantage point for a sight of the medieval costumes and heraldry.

The great crowds seemed subdued and silent. A majority of the people wore mourning for the late King George. The flags which yesterday were at half staf were raised to the peak today for the accession of King Edward, but tomorrow they will drop again to half staf.

Across the balcony from St. James's palace, overlooking Friary court, was stretched scarlet velvet, making a brilliant bar against the brown brick of the ivy covered courtyard, with the gray battlements and arched colonnades.

Heralds Appear.

Exactly at 10 o'clock the golden line of heralds spread along the scarlet of the balcony and four trumpeters, clad in heavily laced tunics and blue jocky caps, advanced to herald the climax of the picturesque pageant. On their silver trumpets, hung with splendidly embroidered tassels, they blew three ringing blasts. It was the signal for the Garter Principal king of arms, Sir Gerald Woods Wollaston, to step forward carrying a parchment scroll bearing the royal proclamation.

At the right stood the young duke of Norfolk—the earl marshal of Britain—dressed in a simple uniform of scarlet and black. His somber dress contrasted with the mantles worn by the high officers of state grouped on either side of him—the Norroy king of arms, the Clarenceux king of arms, the heralds of York, Windsor, Somerset, Lancaster and Richmond and the four pursuivants: Rouge Dragon, Rouge Croix, Portcullis and Blue Mantle.

Microphones Used.

The voice of the Garter Principal king of arms rang out clearly as he recited the ancient form of the proclamation. Anachronistic twentieth century microphones lifted it above the booms of the guns firing the salute in nearby St. James's park.

When the recital ended he cried, "God save the king," and trumpeters sounded once more three blasts on their silver trumpets. The king's guards presented arms, the colors were trooped and the guards' band crashed out the national anthem. Then there was silence as the heralds and pursuivants left for other proclamation points.

At Charing Cross the Windsor herald, Alfred Trego Butler, with the same ceremony, read the proclamation. There was a fanfare and then "God Save the King" was played by the band and all heads were bared. The procession reformed and moved off along the Strand to Temple Bar.

Across Temple bar was stretched a scarlet cord symbolizing the ancient days when a barrier separated the city of London.

Not even a new reign can change the jealously guarded rights and traditions of the city. The first arrival at Temple bar was the lord mayor of London, driving in state, preceded by the city marshal, brilliant in scarlet and plumes and followed by sherifs, aldermen and officers.

"Who Comes There?"

From the approaching proclamation procession came a triple fanfare which was answered by a triple fanfare of four city trumpeters. Blue Mantle, pursuivant of arms, riding forward alone, was challenged by the city marshal who called: "Who comes there?" The pursuivant replied: "Officers of arms who demand entrance into the city to proclaim his majesty King Edward."

The pursuivant, being led to the lord mayor, delivered the order in council directing the reading of the proclamation and the lord mayor ordered the removal of the barrier. The procession then came fifty yards within the city where the Norroy king of arms, Algar Howard, read the proclamation to the crowds assembled in Chancery lane.

Read Fourth Time.

Then the procession continued to the Royal Exchange, on the steps of which the proclamation was read for the fourth and last time.

After the fanfare of trumpets, the lord mayor called for a greeting to the king and a mighty burst of cheering came from the crowd which broke forth again and again.

From the tower of London came the final ceremony—the firing of sixty-two guns—forty-one for the king's years and twenty-one for the royal salute.

FORMER KAISER NEARS 77; VISITOR FINDS HIM LOOKING ONLY SIXTY

DOORN, the Netherlands, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Wilhelm II., exiled former kaiser of Germany who will be 77 next Monday, is spending his declining years as a recluse.

Because of the death of his cousin, King George V. of Great Britain, he postponed observance of the birthday today until Jan. 31. The exercises will be restricted to members of his family and household.

The mental agility of the white-haired, white-bearded, healthily tanned former monarch, who looks only 60, is such as always to evoke expressions of surprise from visitors.

VILLAGERS PAY TRIBUTE TO KING, THEIR 'SQUIRE'

Place Violets at Foot of George V.'s Coffin.

and the crowds again were filing by the coffin, they noticed a large wreath of red carnations had been left at the foot of the bier.

All accommodations at Sandringham were crowded to capacity tonight in anticipation of tomorrow's procession from Sandringham to Wolferton station whence the king's body will be taken to London. Hotels were packed, people were sleeping outside in their cars, and many were staying up all night, walking along the lanes and roads to keep warm.

The royal family and a few of the oldest servants on the estate will attend a short religious service to be conducted at the parish church by the rector, the Rev. A. R. Fuller, at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Procession to Station.

Fifteen minutes later the cortège will begin the slow procession to Wolferton station two and a half miles distant.

Before the coffin will walk ten tall grenadier guardsmen in black busbies and gray overcoats. The coffin will be placed on a gun carriage of the royal horse artillery and drawn by six horses.

Immediately behind, in a high black hat and black overcoat, will walk alone King Edward. Behind will follow his brothers, the dukes of York, Gloucester, and Kent, and behind them the earl of Harewood, husband of the princess royal.

Then will follow two carriages drawn by horses, the first with Queen Mother Mary, the princess royal and the duchess of York, and the second with the duchess of Kent and the duchess of Gloucester. Bringing up the end of the procession will be guards, tenants, and foresters of the king's estate.

Station to Be Barriered.

At Wolferton station, around which the police will throw barriers, the coffin will be placed on a purple funeral train with two coaches for the royal family. There will be in all ten coaches in the train.

At noon it will start on the late king's last journey to London where it will arrive at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Thousands will line the streets between King's Cross station and Westminster hall, over which the funeral procession, without pomp or ceremonial, will slowly pass. Women of the royal family will go to Westminster immediately by carriage, but King Edward and his brothers will again walk the three miles behind the gun carriage carrying the coffin on which the imperial crown will be placed.

At Westminster hall, which was being prepared tonight for the king's lying in state for four days, the coffin will be met by the archbishop of Canterbury and members of parliament, who will assemble in the great hall after meeting earlier in the afternoon to approve the addresses to the king and queen mother and make speeches of condolence.

The body will lie in the hall between four high candlesticks, guarded by grenadiers in black busbies and with drawn swords.

During the four days a constant stream of people is expected to file past the king's coffin, several walking abreast on each side. It was estimated tonight that about 1,000,000 persons will file by at the rate of 18,000 an hour.

Funeral Tuesday.

Next Tuesday, which has been proclaimed a day of public mourning, the king's body will be taken slowly through miles of soldiers to Windsor to the royal mausoleum.

Five kings will attend the funeral services Tuesday. They are those of Britain, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, and Rumania, and it was said tonight that possibly King Victor Emmanuel III. of Italy may come. It will be impossible for a special funeral representative to be sent from the British dominions or from the United States because of the shortness of time.

King Edward will continue to live at St. James's palace after the return of the royal family to London though the king's official residence is Buckingham palace. He has taken over a room at Buckingham palace for the conduct of official business, but is not moving in completely out of consideration for the convenience of his mother, who has a private suite of rooms there to which she is greatly attached.

NORMAN DAVIS NAMED AS SPECIAL ENVOY OF U. S. AT ROYAL BURIAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today designated Norman Davis, ambassador at large and head of the naval delegation to the London conference, to be a special representative of the United States at the funeral of King George V.

The President also designated Capt. Walter S. Anderson, senior naval attaché at London, and Lieut. Col. Raymond E. Lee, senior military attaché, to serve as aids to Davis.

Ambassador Robert W. Bingham is now on his way to this country. Because of the time set for the funeral, it was impossible for the President to send special representatives across the Atlantic.

COMMONS BARRED FOREVER NOW TO KING EDWARD VIII.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Just one place in his entire kingdom—a place he keenly enjoyed visiting—was closed forever today to Edward of Windsor. That place is the house of commons.

Never again will the former prince of Wales, who became King Edward VIII. on the death of his father, sit in the special gallery seat facing the speaker.

Tradition dictates that the sovereign must not enter the precincts of the house of commons.

Only one monarch, Charles I., ever dared violate this regulation, in order to arrest five members of one of his rebel parliaments. The outraged commons sent the king away without the prisoners and decreed that the "black rod," the king's messenger, should have the door slammed in his face whenever he came to commons to make known the royal will.

CANADA JOINS IN RITES TO MAKE EDWARD VIII. KING

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 22.—(AP)—While King Edward's accession to the British throne was announced in London today by heralds, Canada's procedure was confined to a special issue of the Canada Gazette, firing of royal salutes at noon and hoisting of flags from half to full staf.

Orders issued at London called for hoisting of flags at military stations for six hours after first reading of the accession proclamation at St. James's palace at 10 a. m. [4 a. m. central standard time].

Canada was unable to comply with the letter of that order as it was still dark, and no flags may be flown in darkness.

NEW BRITISH KING TO CAUSE AMENDMENT OF ENGLISH PRAYER BOOK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—A special memorial service for the late King George V. will be held in every parish and benefice in the country within the next two weeks.

King Edward VIII. tonight signed an order in council bidding the clergy, through the archbishop of Canterbury, to use a special form of service either on his father's funeral day or in the course of the following eight days. Relays of printers will work night and day to produce copies of the service, demand for which will exceed 2,000,000.

The accession of Edward VIII. and the altered precedence of the royal family necessitate the amendment of the existing Anglican prayer book. Special printing staffs are being held in readiness by three authorized firms of prayer book printers who expect to receive an order in council within the next few days detailing the changes. Meanwhile the printing of the existing prayer book was suspended.

BLOATED ALL THE TIME, CAN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never felt better."—Mrs. Jas. Piller.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too-frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. RIVAL LEADERS OF G. O. P. HOLD HARMONY MEET

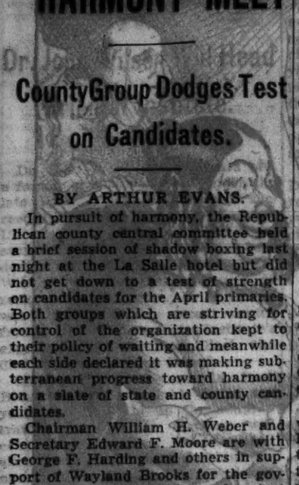
County Group Dodges Test on Candidates.



BY ARTHUR EVANS.

In pursuit of harmony, the Republican county central committee held a brief session of shadow boxing last night at the La Salle hotel but did not get down to a test of strength on candidates for the April primaries. Both groups which are striving for control of the organization kept to their policy of waiting and meanwhile each side declared it was making subterranean progress toward harmony on a slate of state and county candidates.

Chairman William H. Weber and Secretary Edward F. Moore are with George F. Harding and others in support of Wayland Brooks for the governorship nomination. Arrayed against them are a number of committeemen, some of whom are for H. Wallace Caldwell. Some others are friendly toward the candidacy of John G. Oglesby, some toward Oscar Carlstrom, some toward Elmer J. Schnackenberg.

A vote at this juncture, it was maintained, might rip things open, and both sides held that more time might bring the honey pot closer.

"Conference Group" Meets.

Earlier in the day, one group of committeemen, designating themselves the "conference committee," met at Henrici's restaurant. This was the group which first met last week on a call signed by 34 ward committeemen. It was said that 26 were present yesterday.

A resolution from George F. Barrett proposed an open forum on candidates and candidacies. It called for a conference at some early date to which would be invited citizens "interested in the defeat of Roosevelt and the New Deal," committeemen, party leaders from downstate and Cook county, and Republicans who have announced candidacies for state offices.

The proposal stipulated that endorsement of any candidate should be prohibited at this conference, but instead the gathering should be an open forum for the expression of views and presentation of policies. It is to be voted upon today.

A Start at Slate Making.

Meanwhile there were indications that slate making is being taken up at least tentatively among the "reorganization" group, which had collected 260,000 pledge cards to vote against Horner, Roosevelt and the New Deal, under direction of Fred Lundin.

The "reorganizers" insist they have not yet picked any individual candidate for governor. Mr. Lundin last week declared he believed a downstate man should be the Republican candidate but that he would support anyone upon whom the county committee harmonized under the "80 per cent" resolution.

However, there were persistent reports that some groups in the anti-Harding-Weber-Moore camp are working on a slate which at present is said to propose reducing the number of governorship candidates, if they prove willing, and listing some of them for other state offices. This proposed ticket of the "reorganizers" is said to be in the following tentative form at present:

GOVERNOR—John G. Oglesby.
LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR—Elmer J. Schnackenberg.
AUDITOR—Earl Searcy.
ATTORNEY GENERAL — Wayland Brooks.
SECRETARY OF STATE—William J. Stratton.
AUDITOR—J. Paul Kuhn.
TREASURER—H. Wallace Caldwell.
CONGRESSMAN AT LARGE—Chauncey McCormick.

This slate is also said by insiders to propose indorsing Charles S. Deneen for United States senator.

Mr. Oglesby was in Chicago yesterday. He called upon Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, Republican candidate for U. S. senator in 1930. Oscar Carlstrom and Otis F. Glenn, candidate for senator, were also among the callers. Mrs. Simms, who spent the day in conference with the staf of her Rockford newspaper, declared that her tours indicate to her that Roosevelt and the New Deal can be beaten in November.

"Are you for any candidate for governor?" she was asked.

"Not yet. It's too early," replied Mrs. Simms. "I'm interested in the political situation and have been seeing all of my friends." Mrs. Simms left last night for Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Another session of the county committee is to be held tonight.

Headquarters for Otis F. Glenn for senator were opened yesterday.

Courtney's Name to Be Put on Democrats' Slate Today

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The controversy over the slating of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney for renomination in the Democratic primaries moved towards its ultimate settlement late yesterday. Pat A. Nash, head of the county Democratic organization, telephoned Mr. Courtney and invited him to attend a meeting of the slate making committee at 11 o'clock this morning at the Morrison hotel.

The Courtney camp reported that Mr. Nash added that the organization was going to indorse the state's attorney.

Incumbents to Get O. K.

Indications last night were that the slate makers will indorse all Democratic incumbents of county offices who are up for reëlection this year, except County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill, who is to run for his old office of clerk of the Municipal court.

On the county treasurership there was growing likelihood yesterday that Horace G. Lindheimer, now assistant treasurer, may be named for the position. With the treasurership unsettled until the meeting, insiders said the rest of the regular slate will be as published in THE TRIBUNE yesterday.

CONGRESS CANDIDATES

Democratic interest in the congressional contests centered largely yesterday on Edward V. Champion of Peoria and Lewis Long of Sandwich, candidates for congressmen at large in the April primaries. Both were indorsed on the slate of the Illinois and Cook county Democratic organizations. Both are natives of Illinois and both attended the University of Illinois.

Mr. Champion, who is state's attorney of Peoria county, was born in Mansfield, Ill., Sept. 18, 1890. After his graduation from Illinois law school in 1912 he hung out his shingle in Peoria.

He entered the army in May, 1917, and went overseas with the 86th division. He returned in February, 1919, with the 49th infantry, with the rank of captain.

For six years Mr. Champion served as chairman of the Peoria county Democratic committee. He has been president of the Peoria Bar association, the University club of Peoria, and the Illinois State's Attorneys' association. He was elected state's attorney of Peoria county in 1932, and his most important prosecution was that following the arrest of Gerald Thompson, rapist-slayer of Mildred Hallmark, which resulted in Thompson's confession, conviction, subsequent execution in the electric chair.

Mr. Champion's hobbies are sports. He enjoys hunting, fishing, golf, baseball, boxing, and wrestling. During his high school and early college days he was active in semi-pro baseball. He is married and has no children.

Lewis Long's Record.

Lewis Long is mayor of Sandwich, in De Kalb county. He is 53 years of age, a native of Grundy county. He did not take an active part in politics until two years ago when he was an unsuccessful candidate for county judge in De Kalb county. In the primary he was unopposed for the nomination and in the November, 1934, election he was defeated by about 1,000 votes out of total poll of 15,000.

Six years ago Mr. Long was admitted to the bar, and has since practiced in Sandwich. Before that he was the station agent of the Burlington railroad at Sandwich, a town in which he has lived for 25 years. He obtained his pre-legal education at the University of Illinois, and completed his law studies at John Marshall law school, Chicago, being graduated in 1929. He is active in the Masonic order and a member of the Order of Railway Telegraphers.

Urge Honest Election Law.

The Hamilton club, through Oscar E. Carlstrom, its president, yesterday wired Gov. Henry Horner at Springfield asking him to urge the passage of a permanent registration act for honest elections, a measure which the governor is considering as an item for another special session of the legislature.

DEMOCRATS PASS COUNTY BUDGET OF $20,633,983

4 Head Men Get Raises Despite Opposition.

The county board yesterday adopted the $20,633,983 corporate [operating] budget for 1936 with the ten Democratic members of the board furnishing the two-thirds majority vote necessary to passage. The five Republican commissioners voted against adoption of the appropriations bill on the basis that all possible reductions had not been made in proposed expenditures.

The two-thirds vote was possible only through the attendance of two Democratic members of the board who have been ill. Peter M. Kelly was at his desk for the first time since undergoing a major operation in December and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey has been confined to her home due to illness for the last week.

Raises for Four Engineered.

Although the budget supposedly was closed at a meeting Tuesday when the finance committee refused to allow further changes, four "head men" in the office of Assessor John S. Clark were given salary raises. The finance committee had voted against these raises specifically.

Maurice F. Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee, "explained" that it was decided at the last moment that the employés were entitled to the 7½ per cent pay restoration provided for in the budget.

In approving the pay restoration several weeks ago commissioners restricted the increase to those positions which were in effect in 1931. It was not to apply to positions created since or to those having had raises in the interim. The four positions in question in the assessor's office were not in existence in 1931 and on that basis the increases were eliminated Tuesday.

Amount of Raises.

The four employés are H. Gordon Bollman, John M. Bates, Alexander V. Capraro and John E. Battle. Bates' salary is increased from $4,440 to $4,625 a year, and those of the other three from $5,100 to $5,550 each.

The $20,663,983 budget is $1,339,927 above that for 1935, but actually the appropriations for this year for the 36 departments of the county are $2,274,311 higher. The larger figure is accounted for by a $934,384 decrease in corporate fixed charges. About $375,000 of the increase is due to the salary restoration. The budget also provides $200,000 to cover the cost of refunding the county bonded debt and $190,000 for installation of a new accounting system in the treasurer's office.

The county highway fund budget of $4,057,674 was adopted by the same ten to five vote. This fund is $251,353 above the 1935 appropriations.

Later, in adopting the 1936 Forest preserve district budget, however, all 15 commissioners voted approval. Total operating appropriations for the forest preserve are $1,003,945, an increase of $63,550 over the 1935 budget.

G. O. P. BODY TAKES DR. BUTLER'S NAME OFF DELEGATE SLATE

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, for years a leading figure at Republican national conventions, has been refused the support of his local G. O. P. organization for election as a delegate to the Cleveland convention this June.

The Eleventh assembly district organization, led by Robert P. Levis, left the name of the president of Columbia university off the slate at its meeting last night, Levis said today.

In his place the organization put the name of Prof. James C. Egbert of the Columbia university faculty. The other designee is former United States Attorney George Z. Medalie.

The delegates would go uninstructed to the convention.

ADMITS HE SHOT AND KILLED GIRL SEATED IN HOME

Fresno, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Sheriff George J. Overholt tonight announced Elton Stone, 30, ex-convict, had confessed he shot and killed Mary Louise Stammer, 15 year old daughter of a wealthy Fresno attorney, last fall.

Stone was arrested late today at Northfork, about 50 miles from Fresno, after his finger prints, discovered in files here, had been checked with a print, the sheriff said, found on a piece of glass at the scene of the crime.

Sheriff Overholt and District Attorney Dan Conway said he made a complete confession and reenacted the slaying for them.

Miss Stammer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Stammer, was shot last Nov. 24 while seated in a first floor room of the family home in the exclusive residential district just outside the city limits. Other members of the family were away at the time.

The sheriff said Stone told him that he had decided to "get" one of the Stammers. He gave no reason for his decision. The Stammers said they do not know him.

ARMS INQUIRY GROUP TO ASK FUND OF $7,500

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The senate munitions committee which precipitated a sensational controversy last week by "smearing" the war record of President Wilson, decided today to request an additional appropriation of $7,500 to complete its investigation and make its final report.

Many Democratic senators have declared that they would not vote another dollar for the inquiry, but Senator Gerald P. Nye [Radical, N. D.], chairman of the committee, believes the additional sum will be forthcoming.

440 Home Owners Ready to Pay $400,000 Taxes

County Treasurer Gill announced yesterday that he had received applications on Wednesday from 440 home owners for payment of delinquent taxes totaling $400,000, under the statute which provides that penalties on taxes for 1932 and prior years be waived if the payment is accompanied by the tax and full penalties on the property for 1933. The county board yesterday passed a resolution urging property owners to observe next week as "Pay Your Taxes Week." The provision for payment without penalties expires Feb. 1.

FOOL'S LUCK.

"I don't believe in banking on fool's luck as applied to the public finances in spite of the fact that it has come to the rescue of some communities and some divisions of government in this nation in times past. . . . This depression is today's problem. . . . We cannot and must not borrow against the future to meet it."—Franklin D. Roosevelt, prior to his election, criticizing President Herbert Hoover.

As a candidate for the presidency Franklin Roosevelt had a financial policy that was all that was to be asked for. He was for cutting down expenditures. He stood for broadening the base of taxation. He was for sound money. When Carter Glass, with whose views the President's present ones are diametrically opposed, discussed finances during the campaign Mr. Roosevelt said, "Them's my sentiments." Later he invited Senator Glass to be secretary of the treasury. Many thoughtful people were impressed by Franklin Roosevelt as a candidate for office. The country needed the kind of a President Mr. Roosevelt said that he was going to be. It didn't get that kind. The product wasn't as advertised.

It would be difficult to find a subject on which Roosevelt the President has been consistently in agreement with Roosevelt the candidate. Take the subject of taxation. The statement quoted above and similar statements led people to believe that Mr. Roosevelt as President would be irreconcilably opposed to spending in excess of government revenues. But as President Mr. Roosevelt has indicated that a deficit was something to be sought after rather than spurned. He can say at one time, "we cannot and must not borrow against the future to meet the current needs," and at another time that borrowing against the future will bring "immeasurable benefits" and is essential to recovery.

In his budget message to the previous session of the present congress the President said that he saw no reason for proposing new taxes. And at press conferences and in consultation with his political advisers the impression had been conveyed that the President desired no tax legislation last year. But on June 19 he completely reversed himself and took the country and the leaders of his own party by surprise by calling upon congress to pass a revolutionary tax bill.

It might appear that he had become remorseful about his old pledge of a balanced budget. But that was far from being true. The tax bill was designed not primarily to raise revenue but to harass certain groups. Although the tax plan boosted rates up to 79 per cent on the largest income and up to 70 per cent on the largest estates and though record breaking and discriminatory taxes were imposed upon corporations the aggregate revenue to be produced by the new taxes was only 7 per cent of the deficit. If the taxes should be as productive as he believes, 93 per cent of the deficit was unprovided for.

It is this series of confusion, contradictions, and inconsistencies which makes it impossible to attach any large significance to the statement which the President made in his recent over-the-radio message to congress that "no new taxes over and above the present taxes are advisable or necessary." What he says is perfectly true if there is no longer to be a reliance on what he once called "fool's luck" to bring us out of the depression. Business planning for the future cannot be carried on with confidence when there is no telling when the President will change his mind. It cannot be forgotten that he failed to keep his word about no new taxes last time.

MINNESOTA ON TRIAL.

In the Liggett murder trial the burden of proof in more senses than one rests upon the prosecution. Walter Liggett had fearlessly denounced in his newspaper the alliance of racketeers and public officials which he found in control of Minnesota. Liggett was assassinated.

The state must prove in court beyond reasonable doubt that Kid Cann Blumenfeld, charged with the murder, was the assassin. At the bar of public opinion the state must prove that it is wholeheartedly determined to find and punish the killer.

In view of the very high probability that Liggett was murdered to silence him, suspicion inevitably rests upon those who might have had an interest in so doing. Racketeers and politicians are alike suspect. They have not abdicated their control in politics and government.

The trial will be watched closely and with plenty of skepticism. In a very real sense the government of Minnesota is the defendant.

THE GOSPEL OF FEAR.

Four days after the Supreme court in a unanimous decision declared the National Recovery act unconstitutional, President Roosevelt summoned the representatives of the press to a conference. In the course of his statement to the reporters, lasting more than an hour, Mr. Roosevelt stated that by the rule laid down by the Supreme court in the NRA decision AAA must also be unconstitutional. Continuing he said, "If we abandon crop control, wheat would immediately drop to 36 cents a bushel and cotton to five cents a pound."

On Jan. 6 last the Supreme court did declare AAA unconstitutional, thus nullifying the control of crops by the government. As two weeks have now passed since the decision, wheat must be now selling for 36 cents and cotton for five cents, if there was any basis of fact for the President's alarms. But wheat for delivery next September, after this year's crop is harvested, sold on Tuesday at 87 cents per bushel. Wheat is no lower than it was on the day the President made his ominous forecast. And cotton for delivery next December, when all the cotton to be grown this year will be available, sold yesterday for 10¼ cents.

Mr. Roosevelt said that a collapse would follow the nullification of NRA, but instead there occurred the broadest and best sustained rise in many years. Mr. Roosevelt said that farm prices would collapse immediately after the nullification of AAA. But two weeks have passed and there has been no such disaster. Mr. Roosevelt preaches the gospel of fear while accusing his opponents of the offense. But his dour preachments have no affect upon free industry or free markets.

STEALING A WATERWAY.

The federal government has turned a deaf ear to the proposal that it purchase the Chicago sanitary district canal for seventy-seven million dollars. The stated basis of the refusal is a report of the army engineers that in the purchase of the property the United States would "acquire only liabilities and costs in the maintenance and operation of bridges." For his guidance every voter in Chicagoland embraced within the 488 square miles of the sanitary district should review the story that led up to this decision.

With the full knowledge and consent of the federal government the canal was built at a cost of 115 million dollars by the citizens of this area to serve as a drainage artery. On complaint of states bordering the Great Lakes that the canal was injuring them by lowering lake levels the United States Supreme court ordered the flow of the Chicago river and drainage canal reduced to a point below that at which the canal could perform the office for which it was constructed. The only alternative was the erection of sewage treatment works at a further cost of 200 million dollars to the citizens of the district.

But while it is true that the canal will remain in service to carry off the water that is discharged from the treatment plants, its primary office for the future will be that of a link in the lakes to gulf waterway. It will be observed that Chicago's citizens are not asking the federal government to assume the full construction cost of the facility, but only that part which may be directly charged to its usefulness as a navigable waterway. That the canal is used in interstate commerce cannot be denied. The government's own creature, the Federal Barge line, has established service on its waters and is taking great credit for the alleged benefits of that operation. Now the public is informed that the federal government will neither pay rent nor buy the property of the sanitary district which it utilizes with all the sangfroid of absolutism and the brass of a squatter or parasite.

The voice is the voice of the army engineers, but the hand is the hand of President Roosevelt. While millions are being spent on national projects in other states he has decreed that Illinois and the middle west are to be allowed the irreducible minimum.

UNFIT HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS.

[Dallas News.]

Dr. John L. Tildsley, who is the assistant superintendent of schools in New York City, created a sensation recently in an address on "The Mounting Waste of the American Secondary School."

He charged that the city was wasting $6,000,000 a year in trying to give to pupils an education "for which they are unfitted and for which they never can be fitted." The graded schools are sending too many pupils of inferior capacity into high schools, which should be reserved for intellectually capable students. The average high school pupil, he asserts, is more interested in "getting by" than in doing his best, a lazy habit developed in the lower schools. School systems, he charged, are so eager to show a steadily increasing high school enrollment that "misfits" have increased in twenty-five years from 5 per cent to 20 per cent. This is done under the plea of democracy.

Properly a democracy, he thinks, needs above all things to educate the best brains of the nation, using capable teachers, not the average sort turned out by professional schools of education which, in his opinion, unfortunately tend to stress methods rather than "comprehensive scholarship, a broad cultural outlook, an enriched personality and a human and permanent interest in the well being of boys and girls."

Dr. Tildsley is, of course, voicing one aspect of the revolution that is going on in the educational world. Colleges, high schools, the grades, and all forms of curriculum are under fire, along with the methods of teacher preparation. There is, in general, an agreement that democracy does not imply an equal education for all pupils alike. Some children have talent, others are mediocre, others again are born stupid and can never be otherwise.

Every child may rightly be given an opportunity to demonstrate capacity, but the larger education should be the reward of the intelligent and the industrious student, who in later years will make his contribution to the nation's welfare.

Dr. Tildsley would have special high schools for the talented, preferably in the country, taught by cultured and well informed teachers, so that from these schools would come leaders in practically every vocation in life. Why waste the city's money on the unfit, he argues. These, by no possibility, can be made into citizens of high grade.

JUST A HAPPY FAMILY.

NOW WHAT ABOUT CINNAMON?

Cinnamon is the lynx caracal that was presented to President Roosevelt and which is now a boarder in the national zoo. I feel sorry for Cinnamon, for no matter how sore he may get at the New Deal and the administration generally, he can't resign and get all over the front page. They've got him behind bars out at the zoo because the President didn't want to keep a lynx caracal in the White House; he might tree a lot of New Dealers just when the President wanted to talk to them. And then Jim Farley might carelessly step on Cinnamon's tail. I have never seen a lynx caracal, but from Cinnamon's picture he looks like a cross between a police dog and an alligator. Anyhow, I don't think he would be nice if Mr. Farley stepped on his tail. It would not do at all for Mr. Farley to run down the middle of Pennsylvania avenue with a lynx caracal hanging to his coat tails. So Cinnamon was banished to the zoo.

Up to date Cinnamon is the only New Dealer put in the zoo, but if you want to believe the Republicans there are a great many who should be kept there with pleasure and profit to the country at large. There are even some Republicans who insist that the taking away of Cinnamon was all a mistake. Some attendants at the zoo were sent into Washington to bring back an animal very destructive to grain and domestic animals. Now that would mean that almost any member of the AAA which ordered the plowing under of wheat and cotton and the burying of little piggies. But by mistake the zoo people grabbed Cinnamon, who was peaceably gnawing a bone out in the kitchen at the time. So Cinnamon was taken to the zoo, but he has sent for a lawyer and he wants to go into court and prove that gnawing a bone is a very gentle and lamblike action compared to plowing under wheat and cotton and burying the little piggies.

But Cinnamon hasn't a chance. He'll probably be used by the boondoggiers. They've counted all the leaves and doorknobs in the country, but Cinnamon offers an entirely new field. They can count the hairs on his fur and after they get through that, which will take them some time because Cinnamon may not enter into the spirit of the thing and register decided objections, then the boondogglers can count the fleas on Cinnamon's back. And counting fleas is no joke; you're so liable to count the same flea twice or even fifty times, they move about so fast. Anyhow, even if Cinnamon is detained at the zoo, he can probably be a great help to the administration. Especially if he is kept in his cage. It is only when Brain Trusters run wild that they become a public menace.

NEWS OF THE LITERARY WORLD.

MISS EDNA ST. VINCENT MILLAY HAS A BAD RELAPSE.

Love has departed and left me alone
(Children, children, go play in the park),
My cake is dough, and my bread is stone,
And I cry for the light and I pray for the dark.

Love has departed, I can't think why—
(Children, bring me a pint of ale);
My heart is a sick and struggling fly
Drowning itself in a half-filled pail.

Love has departed, I don't know where (Children, why were you ever born?)

MR. ROBERT FROST IS TERRIBLY EXCITED.

Something's about to happen here, I think,
Or if it doesn't, probably it will Sooner or later. Nine times out of ten Things happen when you least expect them to Being prepared for what you least expect
Is more than half of wisdom, and the rest
Is taking time to eat your meals in peace.
Hiram is milking early—that's as well;
I shouldn't wonder if it snowed by night.

MME. DOROTHY PARKER IS STRUCK BY A NEW IDEA.

Love is laughter, loud and long;
Love's a joke, a dream, a habit;
Love's what poets feel for song,
And what rabbit feels for rabbit;
Love's a question and a prayer;
By its wiles our wits are cozened;
If it comes we cry and swear,
Aye, and ditto if it doesn't;
And I dare not venture nearer,
Fearing greatly, as I do,
That this love, O daily dearer,
Is the thing I feel for you.

HEALTH HINT. Keep in the shade as much as possible and don't drink too much ice water. Sit down and rest if you feel the effect of the sun. Wear loose, light clothing and a straw hat. Do not run around too much in the heat of the day. Chicago is a delightful place as a winter resort, but be careful to avoid sunstroke.

WHAT IN THE WORLD has become of Mussolini? Or maybe he has to rest his voice now and then like a grand opera soprano. It must be a great strain on the vocal cords to holler at all Europe as much as the Duce does.

AND MORE CIGARETS were sold in this country last year than in any year preceding. Which proves either that prosperity has returned or that we're so poor we can't afford cigars.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE GALL BLADDER.

As most of us know, the gall bladder, which lies close to and beneath the liver, is a hollow sack-like affair which can hold nearly two ounces of fluid. Its walls are quite thin, although there is enough muscle tissue present to permit emptying of the organ as a result of contraction. It serves as a reservoir or a storage space for bile.

Because of disease that may exist along the digestive tract [of which the gall bladder is a part] the structure may become infected and in many cases stones will form, largely due to the fact that a substance called cholesterol crystalizes from the bile. This phenomenon may be accelerated by inflammation when a secretion rich in lime salts is poured out, and the result is the deposit of masses of lime, bacteria, cells, and cholesterol [gallstones]. Once formed the stones tend to increase in size and after a time give trouble because they are too large to pass through the duct that leads from the gall bladder into the intestine.

As a rule, what we call a gall bladder attack is occasioned by one of these stones crowding down into the outlet duct. Under rest and the influence of some hypnotic drug the spasm gradually passes and the patient may go along fairly well until the next attack. When repeated instances of pain occur surgical removal of the gall bladder must be considered.

In some circumstances infection within the gall bladder leads to the presence of pus and we say then that the gall bladder is acutely inflamed. The thin wall may become gangrenous and as a result perforation may take place, permitting escape of the contents into a neighboring structure such as the stomach or the duodenum. This is followed by the development of an abscess about the gall bladder or occasionally pus may invade the peritoneal cavity. While such an accident is not the usual outcome of gall bladder disease it sometimes occurs, particularly among elderly persons.

In any acute state of the gall bladder itself it is wise to wait until the inflammation has subsided before attempting operation. On the other hand, delay should not permit or invite rupture with its serious consequences. Fine discrimination is demanded between a waiting policy and that which calls for bold surgery.

We must regard the secretion from the liver as important. Furthermore, good hygiene will enable most of us to go through life with little personal knowledge of the symptoms of jaundice—liver or gall bladder disease. Sometimes the mucous membrane of the bile ducts may be so swollen as to cause obstruction. This is the condition commonly known as catarrhal jaundice. It is rarely of any great significance and the symptoms disappear within a week or so. Following infections, however, such as pneumonia or influenza, or in the presence of pus producing bacteria, organisms may be carried to the gall bladder by the blood or work their way into this area from the intestine. We may then expect acute pain, with marked tenderness in the region of the gall bladder. Nausea, vomiting, fever, and distension of the upper abdomen are characteristic.

We may avoid gall bladder disease by adherence to a balanced diet that does not contain an excess of fat, by guarding against overweight, by moderate exercise, by reasonable attention to the digestive tract, and by making certain that infections have completely disappeared before we are up and about carrying the normal load of work.

Foods that contain an excess amount of cholesterol, such as egg yolk, pork products, fat meat, and fried foods, are prohibited.

MASTITIS.

Miss T. writes: About fifteen years ago I received a blow on one of my breasts and I have had pain there ever since, although it may go away for two or three months at a time. I also have lumps in that breast. I have been to different doctors and they all tell me I do not have cancer, but a condition known as mastitis.

You stress the fact that if cancer is caught in time it can be cured. What I would like to know is this: If I haven't cancer now, why is it that nothing can be done to prevent my developing it?

REPLY.

Cancer of the breast occasionally develops following mastitis. If the lumps increase in size, become hard, or are painful a microscopic examination of the tissue is advised. Many women have small inflammatory areas in the breasts that are not cancerous.

There is probably no cause for alarm, but the state of affairs should be watched by a skilled physician.

EXCESS WATER.

G. M. Writes: So often we hear "drink eight glasses of water a day." It is foolish to insist upon that quantity for everybody. I have talked with many persons who have the same unpleasant symptoms as I do when more than two glasses of water a day are taken. I know that in some conditions, such as infections, water is necessary, but it seems to me the thing is overdone.

REPLY.

We have written several articles emphasizing the soundness of your point of view.

Thirst is an excellent guide. Many persons do not realize that much of our food is 90 per cent water.

Many individuals embarrass the heart with excess amounts of fluid and some become waterlogged.

ANEMIA.

P. S. writes: My wife has been suffering from anemia for eight years. The physician injects liver. Has the cause of this disease been found?

REPLY.

Anemia is due to a deficient production of red cells or of hemoglobin [the red iron material in the cells] or both. There is a lack of material essential to the development of blood cells or some failure in the activity in the bone marrow.

The most essential blood building substance is found in liver. Another vital nutrient is iron, and it is also thought that copper and thyroid secretions are necessary. A deficiency anemia results from too little of these materials or from their faulty absorption in the intestinal tract.

In prescribing liver your physician is following the standard procedure for treatment of this disease.

From Across the Sea

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO.—The long and somewhat complicated negotiations between the French ambassador in Rio de Janeiro and the president of the Banco do Brasil, concerning the liquidation of all commercial frozen debts, some of which are pending since 1933, appear to have reached an understanding.

Negotiations were started in April of last year when a French trade delegation came to Brazil and insisted that a prompt and complete liquidation of the frozen commercial debts, amounting to about 60 million francs, was advisable.

The Banco do Brasil, after much discussion, agreed to put at the disposal of the collecting banks a first instalment of exchange of 10 million francs. That instalment was to be delivered last October. However, exchange was available only in the latter part of November. Remittances of proceeds have since been started.

Collecting banks are now periodically supplied with contracts of exchange by the exchange control board.

The cancelation of all the French commercial frozen debts is working on a minimum basis of 5 million francs per month, and all bills are liquidated with exchange at sixty days' date. Apparently the arrangement is working quite satisfactorily and it is expected that the whole of the French frozen commercial debts will be fully liquidated by the end of next November.

Regarding the cancelation of the American commercial frozen debts, President Getulio Vargas has just signed a decree approving a resolution voted by congress which gives the government the necessary power to arrive at some understanding with the American creditors for the settlement, as soon as materially possible, of all commercial outstanding debts. The agreement will not exceed 30 million dollars and it will work more or less on the same lines as the Brazilian-British agreement signed in London at the beginning of 1935 by the Brazilian financial delegation.

It is expected that as soon as the arrangement now under examination will be finally signed American trade in Brazil will once more enjoy a fair turnover. For the time being it is evident that American manufacturers and exporters are quite reluctant to send their goods to Brazil on the usual credit terms. Ninety per cent of American imports are now being settled cash against documents, and it is evident that America is losing to Germany or other European countries who still grant Brazil 90 or more days' credit considerable of its trade.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGES.

Wichita, Kas., Jan. 15.—The administration's New Deal recovery program of experiments in state socialism seems to have at last been completely demolished by the Supreme court's decision. But regardless of their constitutionality these measures were to have been condemned because they violated the democratic principle of "equal rights for all; special privileges to none." In true Robin Hood style they robbed the consumer in order to give subsidies to favored classes. To illustrate, a wealthy Wichita man who owns a nearby farm was paid a subsidy of about $3,750 as a reward for raising 750 hogs instead of 1,000, and in a neighboring town a farmer who had two new automobiles in his driveway told his visiting brother from Wichita that one of these cars was a reward for not raising hogs, the other for not raising wheat!

For the good name of the state of Kansas it should be understood, as shown by the Literary Digest poll, that our people do not approve of these experiments. The reported approval of the farmers themselves of the AAA was only about 50 per cent and the vote was palpably unfair. Mr. Dan Casement of Manhattan voices the sentiment of those Kansas farmers who were not willing to sell their birthright for a mess of pottage as follows: "I look upon the decision as freeing agriculture from the threat of socialism. Not only has that threat been removed but the whole country is assured that the menace of the New Deal is destroyed." The political farmers at Washington do not represent the legitimate farmers of Kansas.

HENRY WARE ALLEN.

YOUNG BLOOD.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Truer words were never spoken than your editorial "Warning to Illinois Republicans." The old gray wolf [Len Small] should retire to his farm in Kankakee and not try to disrupt the party at a time like the present, when the party has a golden opportunity. He and all of the old timers should be encouraged to stay in the background and let the Republican party go forward in the state of Illinois with young blood and good talent.

To head this state ticket in the primary and election should be none other than Wayland Brooks. What we need is young blood and new faces. G. J. LEVINE.

SALARIES.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—The press is to be commended for publishing the salaries of bankers and industrial leaders. Let the people know who the plutocrats are!

I'll wager my last dime every one of these gentlemen with their bloated salaries is squawking because they think Mr. Roosevelt is spending too much money to help the unemployed.

GREG CHRN.

THE NEW ARISTOCRACY.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—This morning as I was driving to work, going south on Ashland avenue at Foster, there was a green light for me to go ahead. A man who looked like a laborer of some kind, with about four overcoats on him and a red flag in his hand, jumped out in front of the traffic and waved the flag as if there was a fire. I stopped and saw five or six men looking like the one with the flag. I said something that you can't print to him; he, in turn, said to me: "Don't you know I am working for the government?

FORD DRIVER.

THE RIGHT TO CALL NAMES.

Knox, Ind., Jan. 15.—I have just read Dr. Smith's suggestion in his article "Methodist Reds" that said "Reds" emigrate to Russia if they believe that the American people are "stupid, cruel and superstitious." To a Methodist up a tree it appears that, on the contrary, it is those who cannot stand to hear the people find fault with who should go to Russia, because it is there that one is not allowed to speak against the existing order. If the "Methodist Reds" can stand it to be called "Reds," other Methodists can stand it to be called "stupid, cruel and superstitious." If we are to lose our right to call each other names, what's the use of living?

REX S. WHITE.

GOV. HOFFMAN'S PUBLIC.

Fairfield, Ill., Jan. 16.—For President I nominate Gov. Hoffman of New Jersey. He will get the solid vote of our sob sisters, male and female; the vote of our large and powerful criminal class, and the vote of all crafty mystery story readers. How could he lose?

PROPERTY DISPOSAL.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a person contemplates a trip and before leaving draws up a statement, bequeathing all moneys, property, etc., to near relatives, but not legal heirs, and heads it "emergency will in case of accident or sudden death," and signs and dates it, but leaves it unwitnessed [1] would this be considered valid in case said person got home safely and lived fourteen months longer before he died a natural death? If not valid [2] what steps should be taken by legal heirs? This is in Kansas. V. J.

1. No.
2. If there is no valid will, then presumably the estate should be probated under the intestate laws. Employ an attorney for this purpose. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FORMER STUDENT OF BREASTED IS HIS SUCCESSOR

Dr. John Wilson Will Head Oriental Institute.

Dr. John A. Wilson, 36 years old, a former graduate student under the late Prof. James H. Breasted, succeeded him yesterday as head of the University of Chicago's oriental institute. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the university, announced Dr. Wilson's appointment as acting director of the institute. Dr. Breasted was stricken on his recent return from a tour of the oriental institute's expeditions in the Near East, and died in New York on Dec. 2.

Charles Breasted, son of Prof. Breasted, who joined his father ten years ago to build up the administrative phase of the institute, will continue as assistant director until about Oct. 1, President Hutchins announced. Mr. Breasted informed him two years ago that he intended to withdraw from university work as soon as possible, said President Hutchins.

Trace Rise of Civilization.

In tracing the dawn and rise of civilization the oriental institute has sponsored research expeditions in sections of the Near East which Dr. Breasted called "the cradle of civilization."

Dr. Wilson last fall inspected the institute's expeditions at Sakkarah and Luxor in Egypt, at Megiddo in Palestine, Rihaniech in Syria, and at Tell Asmar in Iraq.

In addition the institute operates a research expedition at Persepolis in Iran. In the year ending July 1, 1935, according to figures released by the controler of the university, the oriental institute spent $629,000.

3 Years' Study Under Breasted.

Dr. Wilson was scientific secretary of the institute during the last year. He received a Ph. D. degree in Egyptology from the University of Chicago after three years of study under Prof. Breasted, 1923-'26; served as epigrapher of the institute's epigraphic expedition at Luxor, 1926-'31, and has been a member of the Egyptology faculty since.

In 1920 he received an A. B. degree at Princeton university, and obtained an A. M. from the American university of Beirut, Syria. He has studied at Berlin and at Munich.

INFANT DEATH RATE REDUCED TO RECORD LOW

Welfare Society's Rate Only 6 Per 1,000.

The lowest infant mortality rate ever achieved in Chicago was announced by the Infant Welfare society at its 25th anniversary meeting yesterday at the Drake hotel. This is a record of only six deaths for each thousand infants cared for by the society during 1935, as compared to 39.9 deaths a thousand for the Chicago area as a whole.

The announcement was made by Dr. Heyworth N. Sanford, medical director of the society, in his annual report before 400 members of the society. The lowest previous record of the society, he said, was 8 deaths per thousand in 1933.

Low Maternal Death Record.

In addition, Dr. Sanford reported, the society achieved a maternal mortality rate of only one death per thousand live births, as compared to 4.3 deaths per thousand, the maternal death rate for Chicago as a whole.

Of especial interest, he commented, was the fact that both records were made "in sections of the city where economic status and living conditions are least favorable to health," for it is to the congested poorer areas of the city that the welfare society confines its activity.

Analyzing the causes of infant mortality, Dr. Sanford reported that 46.5 per cent of the deaths in Welfare society cases were due to respiratory disturbances, and 35 per cent to contagious diseases. Gastro-intestinal disturbances, however, once the greatest cause of infant mortality, caused only three deaths in the entire infant group.

Outlines Society's Growth.

Philip D. Armour, reelected president of the society, outlined the group's twenty-five year service to the children of Chicago, pointing out that the staf had increased from twenty-seven in 1911 to ninety-eight in 1935. The number of welfare stations increased from ten to eighteen, the number of infants under its care from 2,120 to 14,739, and its home visits increased from 16,706 to 109,858.

Donald B. Douglas, reelected treasurer, reported a total revenue of $162,421 in 1935, with total expenses for the year of $162,753.

Lynn A. Williams was reelected first vice president; Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot, second vice president, and Erskine Wilder, secretary. Mrs. Elias Lyman Jr. was elected president of the woman's auxiliary. The latter group raised $93,704 during 1935 toward the support of the welfare stations.

JURY THREATENS TO 'CRACK DOWN' ON MINNEAPOLIS

Council's Bow to Felons Angers Foreman.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—As selection of jurors crawled along today in the trial of Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld for the murder of Walter W. Liggett, the foreman of the county grand jury announced that the jury will "club" the Minneapolis city council into cleaning up liquor law laxity. It was this situation against which the slain publisher had crusaded in his newspaper and one generally considered the cause of his machine gun murder Dec. 9.

The jury is in the midst of an investigation handed it by the last grand jury, which in its concluding report warned this city it was in danger of being "dominated by organized crime."

Seek to Broaden Licenses.

The declaration today was in reaction to a movement of an aldermanic committee to amend the city's liquor control ordinance to permit convicted felons to hold licenses. Investigation subsequent to Liggett's murder revealed the truth of assertions in his paper, the Mid-West American, that former bootleggers and known hoodlums and racketeers had control of or interest in many bars and night clubs, contrary to law.

The grand jury foreman, Clive T. Naugle, today said: "It is my opinion the council has a public duty to perform and that it is recalcitrant in the attitude taken by the committee yesterday.

"If the council took the attitude that it would see the liquor situation cleaned up, it would simplify matters considerably. But if it does not do so, the responsibility becomes the grand jury's.

"Grand jury action can be used as a club over the council.

"I'm sure the jury will go the limit, unless the council does something in the right direction."

36th Prospect Selected.

The fourth juror was chosen in the trial of Kid Cann today. He was Armand L. Evans, 24, a hardware clerk. He was the thirty-sixth examined and joined Harry Young, WPA worker, and Edward E. Pettit, electrician, chosen yesterday and Mrs. Myrtle Rydell, selected Monday, in the jury box. Examination of ten others later in the day failed to increase the number.

The only suggestion of the interest the trial is receiving was found in the large number of spectators who braved 26 below zero weather to fill all available seats and stand in corridors waiting for a chance to enter the courtroom of Judge Arthur W. Selover.

Most of the veniremen excused during the day showed apparent reluctance to sit as jurors in this case, stating that they were biased either because of Cann's conviction on prohibition law violations or because he is Jewish or because of a definite opinion concerning his guilt or innocence in the murder of Liggett.

DIET OF BREAD AND WATER WILTS 'RIOT' AT ALCATRAZ PRISON

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 22.—[AP.]—Alcatraz prison's first "revolt" began to wither today under severe discipline and bread-and-water diets, but Warden James A. Johnston said 75 of the dangerous prisoners still were in a rebellious mood.

The warden reported 25 of the 100 prisoners who "struck" Monday for more privileges had given up the idea and agreed to obey prison rules.

"Conditions are considerably improved," said Johnston. "We are attempting to get the ringleaders. We expect to sort out more men today and probably the rest by tomorrow."

Transbay ferry passengers reported seeing more than the usual number of guards about the fortresslike federal prison for incorrigible criminals but Warden Johnston said he had not called for any additional personnel to deal with the situation.

COURT DIRECTS O'CONNOR FREED IN IOWA TRIAL

Sioux City, Ia., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Judge F. H. Rice this afternoon directed a jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the second gambling conspiracy trial of Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor of Iowa.

The jury, hastily drawn, thus wrote a successful ending on the attorney general's fight against the charge that he was implicated in a giant protection pay off ring for slot machines in northwestern Iowa.

O'Connor's first trial resulted in a hung jury after six weeks of hearings.

More than 40 other persons, including State Treasurer Leo J. Wegman, still are under indictment on gambling conspiracy or perjury charges.

What Can Be Done to STOP Automobile Accidents?

Must we subject every driver to rigid periodical examinations? Must we thoroughly inspect cars at regular intervals? Must we deny licenses to motorists once judged guilty of reckless driving? Must we elevate highways? Will a standard drivers' license law help?

Whatever the answers may be, they are the deep concern of every one of us. CHICAGO LLOYDS is doing everything in its power to help find the correct answers and to excite public opinion against the dreadful toll of reckless driving.

Meanwhile accidents will continue to happen—lives will be lost, children will be crippled, property will be destroyed. Every motorist, including you, owes it to himself and his family—and the "other fellow"—to have adequate protection against these devastating possibilities.

You can get this needed protection only from full-coverage insurance on your car. CHICAGO LLOYDS writes such insurance in one convenient policy, protecting you against liability for personal injury, property damage, collision, fire, theft and other minor hazards.

Moreover, when you become a CHICAGO LLOYDS policyholder, you further our campaign for Careful, Accident-Free Driving and do your bit to make the streets safe fo. yourself, your family and others.

LEROY GODDARD, RETIRED BANKER, DIES AT AGE OF 81

With Chicago Institutions Nearly 40 Years.

Leroy A. Goddard, 81 years old, 1419 North State parkway, who retired as chairman of the board of the old State Bank of Chicago in 1929 after more than 50 years devoted to the banking business, died at the Passavant hospital yesterday. He had been ill for two years.

LEROY A. GODDARD.

Mr. Goddard, who began his banking career at Marion, Ill., where he was born, came to Chicago in 1892, when he became a cashier with the old Fort Dearborn bank. He later became associated with the State Bank of Chicago and was made president of that institution in 1909. He served as president of that bank until 1919, when he was elected chairman of the board.

Head of Clearing House.

In 1911 Mr. Goddard was elected president of the Chicago Clearing House association and also served as an officer of the Chicago Stock exhcange, the Illinois Bankers' association and other institutions. He was also a life member of the Chicago Academy of Sciences and the Chicago Historical society.

Before beginning his banking career Mr. Goddard devoted several years to politics and was elected mayor in Marion when he was 23 years old. He served four years as mayor. Before coming to Chicago he organized the First National bank at Mount Carmel, Ill.

Long the Dean of Bankers.

For years he was considered the dean of bankers in Chicago and was noted for his kindly and genial philosophy.

He was a member of the Union league, Bankers, Racquet and Chicago clubs.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Breidenthal Goddard, whom he married in 1888. Funeral services will be held by the 33d degree branch of the Masonic order at the Scottish Rites cathedral Saturday afternoon. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

DANNY STANTON SEIZED IN HUNT FOR N. Y. KILLER

Danny Stanton, 35 years old, 8329 Elizabeth street, south side gangster of the prohibition era, was seized yesterday by department of justice agents and Chicago detectives in their hunt for a man, identified only as "Nick the Jew," said to be wanted in New York and New Jersey for murder, kidnaping, and bank robbery.

Accompanied by six squads from the detective bureau, the federal operatives raided five south side saloons, cabarets, and hotels, frequented by Stanton, in their vain hunt for "Nick the Jew." No arrests were made.

JAMES P. O'NEILL, POLICE HERO, DIES IN RETIREMENT

James P. O'Neill, 57 years old, a retired policeman, died yesterday of heart disease in his home at 213 Keystone avenue, In January, 1923, Policeman O'Neill won THE TRIBUNE'S monthly hero award by the capture of a bandit after the robber had shot him twice, wounding him seriously. His widow, Mrs. Catherine O'Neill, and six children survive him. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning in St. Mel's Roman Catholic church, Kildare avenue and Washington boulevard. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Don't Kid the Public

HAROLD TEEN—DELIVERY GUARANTEED

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Inspired by Mr. Hodgson, Horace Heidt has been going round and round and now comes out here with the announcement that he will play the smash hits of the last decade on his sponsored show over WBBM-CBS at 9 tonight. Now that's the Heidt of something!

The charge of the Heidt brigade will start off sentimentally enough with "My Blue Heaven," the hit tune of 1927. The others are: 1928, "Sonny Boy"; 1929, "Pagan Love Song"; 1930, "Maine Stein Song"; 1931, "Good Night, Sweetheart"; 1932, "Paradise"; 1933, "The Last Roundup"; 1934, "Love in Bloom," and 1935, "Red Sails in the Sunset."

This announcement set your reporter to wondering what the biggest popular sellers of all time were. Well, inquiry revealed they weren't "Yes, We Have No Bananas" or "Perfect Day." "Silver Threads Among the Gold" is said to be the biggest sheet music seller, more than 6,000,000 copies having been marketed. Last year's ace song is reported to have sold about one-tenth that.

Mention of "Perfect Day" recalls an incident affecting Carrie Jacobs Bond, its composer. Mrs. Bond is a follower of Joan Blaine in the CBS serial "The Story of Mary Marlin." When she travels she carries with her a portable radio in order to miss no episodes. Other day she called local CBS offices, complained that her receiver had broken down and she had missed three episodes. She just had to find out what had happened before proceeding on her cross country journey.

Business is so good in radio that WIND has just sold a four hour block of time nightly from midnight to 4 a. m. to a beer manufacturer. This Milkman's matinée, which will start Feb. 1, will feature cabaret celebrities, variety entertainment, and recordings. A possible boon to restaurant employés, filling station attendants, morning newspaper men, and other all-nighters. Though the sponsored period will run until 4 a. m. the station plans to stay on the air with similar entertainment straight through to dawn. It would thus become the first station in this area to operate on a 24 hour a day schedule.

Joe Sanders has recovered from a bronchial attack and has rejoined his band touring the southland. . . . Wendell Hall's song book, "My Old Fashioned Scrap Book," named after his morning radio show, has just been released. . . . Fred Waring will present three radio shows from Chicago the week of Jan. 31 when he will be playing at the Chicago theater.

One of the nation's so-called "liberal" thinkers, who gets many a mention in the literary columns, was engaging in small talk with friends one evening, according to this New York story, when the topic of conversation drifted to radio.

"Bowes, Maj. Bowes?" the would be Aristotle pondered. "I have never heard of the man."

Then his wife cut in. "Oh, yes," she recalled. "I saw something about him in the 'New Masses' the other day. But as soon as I saw major in front of the name I thought it was just another one of those boring army scandals, so I skipped it."

John F. Hylan's Estate Revealed Under $5,000

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—John F. Hylan, mayor of New York for 8 years, who died on Jan. 12, left an estate of less than $5,000 in personal property and no real property, it was revealed today when his will was filed. The testament directs that all of his estate go to his widow, Mrs. Miriam L. Hylan of Forest Hills.

Policeman James Welsh Dead as Result of Fall

Policeman James Welsh, 31 years old, 5426 South Maplewood avenue, assigned to the Marquette station, died in the Southtown hospital last night of complications resulting from a fracture of his right leg suffered on Dec. 29 when he slipped and fell down a flight of stairs in his home.

NIECE OF FARGO DISPUTES ESTATE CLAIM OF 'WIDOW'

An answer disputing the claim of Lucille Camden Fargo that she is entitled to share in the estate of Livingston Wells Fargo as his common law wife was filed yesterday in the Probate court by Mrs. Edith Andrews Sturgis, niece of Fargo and administratrix of his estate.

Fargo died in 1934, at the age of 74, at the Chicago club, where he had lived for 30 years. He was a member of the family which founded the American Express company and was a former vice president of the company, but had retired 20 years before his death. Lucille Camden Fargo asserts that she became his common law wife in 1906 in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Sturgis' reply, filed by Attorney Frank B. Gilmer, denies the existence of any marriage, and styles the plaintiff "Lucille Camden." The answer also recites that Fargo was always a resident of Illinois, in which a statute of 1905 outlaws common law marriages, and that Miss Camden's residence at the time of the supposed marriage was in New York.

L. F. BURKHART, OSWEGO BANK FOUNDER, DIES

Leonard F. Burkhart, founder of the Oswego State bank and member of a pioneer Kendall county family, died yesterday at his home on Main street in Oswego. He was 76 years old. Mr. Burkhart was born near Oswego. In 1905 he founded the Oswego State bank. His wife, Otillia, was fatally burned Aug. 27, 1927, when her clothing caught fire in a naphtha explosion in their home. Surviving him are seven children: Oliver A., federal commissioner and former state's attorney of Kendall county; Clinton L., Ralph M., Walter J., Mrs. E. H. Hahnestein, Mrs. W. W. Keine, and Mrs. Herbert Papenhausen.

Edward Menkin, Attorney, Dead at 70; Hunt Relatives

Edward Menkin, 70 years old, an attorney with offices at 19 South La Salle street, died last night, apparently of a heart attack, in his apartment at 162 East Superior street. Chicago avenue police started a search for his relatives. Among his effects was found a deposit book on a loop bank showing deposits of more than $6,000. Joseph Clarke, the janitor, told police Menkin had been ill for several days.

Louis E. Pollock, 80, Dies; Food Broker for 46 Years

Funeral services for Louis Edgar Pollock, 80 years old, who died Tuesday night in the Hyde Park hotel, 1511 East 51st street, where he resided, will be held this afternoon in the chapel of St. Paul's Episcopal church, 4945 Dorchester avenue. Mr. Pollock was a grocery broker in Chicago 46 years. He was survived by his widow, Florence, and a brother, Charles, of Los Angeles. Burial will be private.

DR. H. S. FLETCHER FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for Dr. H. S. Fletcher, 63 years old, who died on Monday in the Augustana hospital, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the chapel at 929 Belmont avenue. Dr. Fletcher, whose home was at 5734 Winthrop avenue, had been a general practitioner in Chicago for twenty-nine years.

He was born in Bristol, England, and came to Chicago in 1904. He studied at Oxford university and King's college in England, and served in the Boer war. He attended the Dearborn Medical college in Chicago and was graduated in 1907.

Dr. Fletcher became a staf physician at the American, Edgewater, and Welles Park hospitals. He was a member of the American Medical association and the Chicago and Illinois Medical societies. He was president of the staf of the Salvation Army clinic and was interested in charitable and philanthropic work. He is survived by his widow, Lillian. Interment will be in Rosehill cemetery.

JOHN ROSE DIES; AN ATTORNEY IN CHICAGO 54 YEARS

John Alexander Rose, 82 years old, an attorney in Chicago for fifty-four years, died yesterday in his home at 4364 Grand avenue, Western Springs. At the time of his death he was a partner in the law firm of Rose & Symmes, 69 West Washington street.

Mr. Rose was born in Washington, Ill. He graduated from Northwestern university in 1882, was admitted to the Illinois bar the same year, and immediately began his practice in Chicago. From 1895 until 1911 he was attorney for numerous local traction companies.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nellie Arnold Rose, and a daughter, Ruth Ormsby Rose, who lives in Massachusetts. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the residence. Interment will be in Bronswood cemetery, Hinsdale.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Use of a good pomade helps keep her lips smooth and glistening. The pomade heals and prevents chapping and can be used beneath the usual lipstick.

Chapped lip sufferers are great ones for their own pet remedies, and we have one that we absolutely swear by. It's a lip pomade that is, to our way of thinking, the tops when it comes to efficiency—and efficiency is what counts at such times. There's not much one can do in the way of beautifying a pair of lips that look as though they had had a recent encounter with a nutmeg grater. Concealment just isn't possible. Lipstick only makes the rough edges more visible, so that healing them is the only salvation.

This pomade is a very old and respected product and was probably used by our grandmothers for just this purpose back in the days when a touch of color was a scandal. It's colorless, has a very faint but pleasant scent, and you can wear it in the daytime without looking as though you had just devoured a piece of buttered toast. At night it is well if you slather it on without restraint. Let it be as thick as possible, for the thicker the better. Its consistency is waxy rather than greasy, yet it heals in absolutely record time, and one such application generally does the trick.

Not only does it do its good work rapidly, but it is very soothing in the process. A bad case of chapped lips can be extremely painful, as most of us have found out at one time or another, and many of the healing balms have a way of stinging a bit by way of starting in on the curing process. This pomade, however, has a faintly cooling effect, doesn't sting at all, and immediately softens the lips so that you're no longer afraid to smile for fear of splitting them wide open.

Of course, as always, an ounce of prevention—and so on. Get over the habit of biting your lips. It's not a very pretty habit to start with, and is particularly disastrous during wintry weather. Be sure your lipstick is on the greasy side, if you wish to play safe, and get in the habit of keeping it fresh, both from the standpoint of appearance and by way of guarding against the dryness which leads to chapping.

But if it's too late for prevention this remedy is neither expensive nor inaccessible. ELEANOR NANGLE.

[For information concerning this lip pomade call Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100.]

Good Morning!

He was a timorous fellow,
Quaked if you looked at him!
Inferiority complex—
Constantly out on a limb!
Then—his life changed completely!
What was the change's source?
Why, young Eddie Pink, the jittery gink!
Took a correspondence course!
The course, it taught of COURAGE
And how to QUELL—with a look!
Of the STANCE and POINTED FINGER
Guaranteed to make a crook
Quake in his evil brogans
Or a girl gaze with lovelorn eye
On the looker-stancer-pointer
And sigh to possess the guy.
Thus—Eddie grew bold as a lion
And forth he went to beard
The difficulties of which
Before he'd been afeared.

Yes, sir! That's what a correspondence course in bravery did for little Eddie Pink, tailor and butt of all jokes to a bunch of college boys.

The elaborate "musical" at the United Artists' was suggested by Clarence Kelland's serial which ran in a weekly publication.

"Dreamland" is an amusement park owned by a doughty old lady who runs the place "clean," and for years has been having her troubles with racketeers who are hell bent on installing crooked slot machines on her playground.

Eddie Pink, after his entirely successful encounter with the correspondence course, becomes her manager. . . .

Much crazy water runs under a lot of screwy bridges before the finale—which spells health and happiness for Eddie, "Ma Carson" and her pretty niece Claribel, and a whole lot of what the law allows to criminals caught in the act, to the gang who have been exercising pressure.

The picture is plummed with good songs, snappy dances and bright dialog. There are several elaborate and eye-taking ensemble numbers.

Production high lights:

Ethel Merman singing "First You Have Me High," with a colored chorus.

Eddie and his radio stooge, Parkyakarkus, in the balloon episode.

Eddie, in perilous flight on a roller coaster, passionately protecting the victrola record which contains the confession of the leader of the gang.

Mr. Cantor's billowy orbs perform in their usual eccentric fashion. So does the rest of him. If you're a Cantor fan you'll probably be crazy about the boy this trip. Other players are what the scenario cried for. Laurels to the ladies, Ethel Merman, Rita Rio, Sally Eilers and Helen Lowell. Miss Rio can sure tap dance!

The action moves at a fast clip.

If you go for "musicals"—no reason why this expensive, expansive and really rather clever one shouldn't entertain you immensely.

See you soon.

Ormandy Real Showman in Good Music

Minneapolis Symphony Plays in City.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Eugene Ormandy and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra arrived in Chicago along with the cold wave, but succeeded in drawing a goodly audience to the Civic Opera house despite the handicap the weather imposed. Those who came saw a dapper and polished musician lead a meticulously trained orchestra through a program of standard and modern works.

This 36 year old maestro from Hungary [via New York and Minneapolis] is a showman in the best sense of the word. He has a unerring ear for effect, and is able to make a Bach Passacaglia physically exciting as well as emotionally exalting. The remote, other worldly beauty of an organ diapason was reproduced very cleverly.

Ormandy has worked so painstakingly on the Beethoven Fifth Symphony and has brought such infinite care to an exhaustive analysis of its every phrase that the listener catches himself wondering, once or twice, if the conductor is not getting out of the work more than the composer put into it. This refers, of course, to those passages in which Ormandy has singled out an eight or a sixteen bar group for some special dynamic effect, usually one of haunting and original loveliness. He is good at finding such opportunities in the score and makes brilliant use of them. Other of his ideas take the form of slight eccentricities of phrasing or tempo.

This is all a rather round-about way of saying that last night's interpretation of the Fifth Symphony departed from the traditional in several ways. There is no doubt, however, that Ormandy's highly developed sense of contrast and vivid talent for emphasis made the performance an absorbingly interesting one. Also, the man's taste and musicianship are ample guaranty that his freedom will always stay within well recognized bounds.

The leader's enthusiasm and fanatical carefulness are contagious. His men play with precision and accuracy and tonal purity that give point to all the experiments in subtle dynamic effects. The orchestra is a much better instrument for these latter purposes than for the expression of great passion, for its sonority in powerful and headlong passages leaves something to be desired.

Rudolph Ganz played the solo part of the Liszt A Major Concerto for piano, and received a remarkable ovation. It was fully deserved, since his playing of the work had the usual engaging Ganzian combination of poetry and power.

A suite from Eugene Zador's ballet, "The Machine Man," came to its first Chicago performance during the program. The music is much less abstract than you would expect, and possessed of genuine entertainment value. The "Automobile Ride" is an exciting one of the Harold Lloyd variety, with much zigzagging between girders and motor trucks. The waltz in the suite has an almost romantic loveliness in its principal theme, although the composer certainly intended nothing of the sort. The concluding "Dance of the Machines" turned out to be a strident and excitable piece of writing that managed to command interest if not induce delight.

The Minneapolis Symphony is a good orchestra, stamped with the personality of its gifted leader. He leaves it after this season to conquer other fields, but the results of his three years' work should be permanent if his successor is a man whose musical ideas are similar in type.

I talked to Ormandy during the intermission and found him an affable person very willing to tell about his enthusiasm and his interests. There is nothing narrow about his musical likes; he sees no inconsistency in the combination in one person of a passion for Bach and a progressive policy in contemporary music. In response to a question or two about his ideas on répertoire he reeled off the names of several living American composers whose works he had introduced and was still playing.

Front Views and Profiles

A VISITOR in cold Chicago this week-end will be Hawaii's "No. 1 Pineapple Man," Atherton Richards, the handsome, youthful, dark eyed successor to James D. Dole as president of the islands' pineapple industry. Chicagoans who have met Mr. Richards have found him modest, an excellent conversationalist, and a superlatively good dancer. College friends call him "Fij" because, his home being on the islands, they said he was a Fiji Islander. He was born on the islands, to which his grandfather and grandmother went from New England as missionaries. A tennis player of merit, Mr. Richards won the insular tennis championship in 1925. He is fond of music and an excellent accompanist. Interesting data, perhaps, about a man whose company made about $1,000,000 in 1934 and nearly a million and a half last year, besides paying off a $5,000,000 note, according to published statistics.

THIS little tale comes from New Harmony, Ind., but concerns a teacher in one of the lower grades of a school in Greencastle, Ind. One cold Monday morning she found that all the flowers in the window boxes had frozen during the week-end. She asked how many children could bring plants from home to refill the boxes, saying that every-day bloomers were fine to have. One little girl raised her hand for permission to speak.

"I haven't any every-day bloomers, but I have a nice black Sunday pair," she said.

AN excellent example of oriental politeness was demonstrated recently by a Chinese laundryman in Chicago. The laundryman was roused at 6 a. m. by a loud knocking at his door and the voice of a man demanding his laundry. The laundryman opened the door to admit his customer, and at that moment the man whipped out a knife and slashed at the oriental's throat. He stepped back in time to prevent his jugular vein being cut, but his throat received a deep slit. These details came from a Chicago doctor at whose office the Chinese presented himself at 1 o'clock, seven hours later, to have his throat sewed up. Asked by the doctor, on the way to the hospital, why he had not called him immediately, the Chinese answered that he knew his office hours did not begin until 1 o'clock and that he hated to bother him earlier.

IRENE CASTLE McLAUGHLIN appeared at a recent Blackhawks game at the Stadium with her husband, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, Blackhawks owner, wearing a snappy new hat model, held on by a back strap, with a feather thrust jauntily through the strap. A friend who saw her was reminded of the last occasion when she had appeared at a hocky match, wearing a tall grenadier's hat with trimming at the front, a full and handsome adornment. A confused fellow in a nearby box, observing it, murmured:

"I'll bet she has to water that every night."

* *

WHEN the musical revue for which he was acting as advance man folded in Cincinnati, Jack Garber had to wait around in town until his laundry came back. He was reminded of a sign on the backstage bulletin board of a theater in Wheeling, W. Va. The sign read: "Don't send out your laundry until we've seen your act."

Patent Lether Will Be Style Rage of Spring

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The striking fashion success of the coming spring and summer season will be patent lether.

Gleaming hats of patent lether come in wickedly shining black and combines of scarlet and black. These are cut and fashioned into the smallest bits of headgear any frivolous hat lover slapped on the very tip of her head. There will be wide toreador sailors of patent lether with straight brims, a small crown, and all the dash imaginable.

From Paris, and what could be more significant, comes news that if you are to be high fashion, you'll use patent lether with a lavishness you'd never think possible.

We have told you about the many white, pastel, and high colored patent lether slippers, the swanky black patent lether shoes to match bags, belts and patent lether trimmed gloves, and even the glistening patent lether bountoniere you tuck in your suit lapel.

But the hats are certainly new; just the different sort of a new hat you need now. Too much cannot be fanfared about this obliging material. It goes out rain or shine, snow or sleet, and keeps its original swank and shine long after the hats of fabric wilt and wither.

Patent lether makes the best kind of a hat for the slim man-tailored suits and one piece dresses you are wearing nowadays, trying to fool yourself that spring is hiding round the next turn of weather.

If you wear patent lether as an alternate for shiny straw you escape the jeers of the less adventurous males who fail to understand your capriciousness; who can't fathom the fun you get out of wearing straw in blustery, snowy January, and that alone ought to make this slicker wave of bright and shiny patent lether tops and costume accessories the best buys of the next few weeks.

Lutherans Ask Support for Army Chaplains

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The National Lutheran council in annual meeting today adopted a resolution recommending that its churches aid in supporting chaplains in the army, the navy, and CCC camps.

"We may be very much opposed to the war spirit," said Dr. Emmanuel Poppen of Columbus, O., during the discussion, "but so long as our country has an army and navy the Lutheran church has a duty to perform through its chaplains."

The council also recommended a survey of CCC and transient camps to ascertain the number of Lutherans enrolled "and the opportunity of worship and spiritual care afforded them."

Dr. Carl Hein, Columbus, O., was reëlected president; Dr. Niles O. Carlson, Blair, Neb., vice president; Dr. M. Roy Hamsher, Mechanicsburg, Pa., secretary; Ernest F. Eilert, New York, treasurer, and Dr. Ralph H. Long, New York, executive director.

Miss Talbot, T. A. Cochran Wed in East

Ceremony Is Surprise to Their Friends.

BY JUDITH CASS.

DR. AND MRS. EUGENE S. TALBOT JR. of 62 East Division street announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to Thomas A. Cochran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Cochran of 6923 Euclid avenue, is the surprising announcement that heads our column this morning. Surprising because it is a wedding announcement, for all their friends have been expecting Miss Talbot's engagement to young Mr. Cochran to be announced. The wedding took place in New York yesterday afternoon, at 5:30 o'clock, at the Little Church Around the Corner.

Mrs. Talbot was the only one of the parents at the wedding, for Dr. Talbot and the senior Mr. and Mrs. Cochran were not able to go east. Mrs. Talbot and her daughter went to New York last week for a change of scene after the busy holiday season and it was anticipated that her engagement to Mr. Cochran would be announced soon after their return.

The young man, however, discovered the other day that he could have a vacation from business now and he did not know when he would have another, so he hastened to New York and persuaded Miss Talbot—and her mother—to have the marriage at once.

Couple Will Return to City Within Week.

The bride and bridegroom will be back in Chicago in about a week and Mrs. Talbot will arrive at home the end of this week. The bride made her debut at a tea at home a year ago last November. After finishing at Dobbs Ferry she went to Smith for a year. Her younger sister, Elinor, who is at the Concord academy in Massachusetts, was not able to go down to New York for the wedding because, like many of the girls who were in Chicago for the Christmas holidays, she is suffering with that childish ailment, measles. Probably she is one who is disappointed at her sister's sudden marriage, for if previous plans had been carried out she would have been an attendant at the wedding during the Easter school vacation or in the early summer.

Mrs. Talbot was Miss Della Conover and her family and Dr. Talbot's are among Chicago's old and distinguished ones. They have two sons, Eugene III. and Conover. Mr. Cochran, who has been a popular member of the smart younger set for several years, was educated at St. John's Military academy and the University of Chicago.

Junior League Art Show to Be Today.

Only the most unforeseen event ever would prevent the appearance of Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, head of the Chicago Junior league's arts and interests committee at the committee's annual exhibit today at the Casino, but the unfortunate burning of the Cramers' Lake Forest house yesterday and the frostbitten nose that Mrs. Cramer suffered while she helped her husband salvage furniture are keeping her from the exhibit today.

Miss Helen Bell, the league's president, will take Mrs. Cramer's place and introduce Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, the former Emily Otis, who will talk on "Boats, Bugs, Baboons," at 3:30 o'clock at the show.

Mrs. Cramer's committee has had rather a hectic time arranging the exhibit. Because of the Gerlach-Mc-

Lovely Service in Chapel of St. Chrysostom's

"And it was one of the coldest days Chicago had experienced in years," Mr. and Mrs. Glendon T. Gerlach will be able to tell their grandchildren years hence when they tell about their wedding day, Jan. 22, 1936. "But it was a lovely wedding, just the same," they can add, for the ceremony that made Miss Caroline McNair the bride of the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gerlach was a charming one, and society seldom has seen a handsomer bride.

Only relatives and a few friends were in the chapel at St. Chrysostom's church to see Frank McNair give his younger daughter in marriage, but more of their friends had the chance to wish them happiness, for the reception at the Casino was a large one.

Cybotium and pines separated the chapel from the rest of the church and white freesias, the bride's favorite flower, and Easter lilies decorated the church. The bride, tall and dark and stunning, wore the wedding gown of her sister, Mrs. Frank S. Sims, who yesterday was the only bridal attendant. Betty McNair and young Mr. Sims were married in the evening at St. Chrysostom's church on June 17, 1930, with a reception following at the Blackstone.

The gown is of mellow off-white satin with a five-point train. Lace is set in around the V neck and in the sleeves from the elbows down to the pointed wrists. A pointed coronet of pearls held in place a long, billowing tulle veil, and the bridal bouquet was of valley lilies.

Mrs. Sims wore a lovely gown of amber colored crêpe, with a matching jacket trimmed with broad revers of mink, and a brown crêpe off-the-face hat. She carried a bouquet of gold color tea roses encircling violets.

Norman Gerlach was his brother's best man, and ushering were Mr. Sims and Proehl Jaklon, husband of the former Mildred Gerlach. Mr. McNair, with his new son-in-law and daughter and the senior Mr. and Mrs. Gerlach, received in the Fountain room at the Casino.

Marie Iturbi, Daughter of Pianist, Weds His Protege

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The marriage of Marie Iturbi, 18 years old, daughter of Jose Iturbi, Spanish pianist and orchestra conductor, and Stephen Hero, 20 years old, violinist, became known today. The couple disclosed they were married yesterday in Bedford Hills, N. Y. They telephoned the bride's father, who is on a concert tour. They said he expressed himself as "delighted." Hero has been a protégé of Iturbi for a number of years. He began his concert career as a prodigy at the age of 8. His father, Simon Hero, also a musician, came to this country from Poland in 1914.

WEDDINGS

I'll Never Tell

By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

Julius Saranack is murdered in his home, Hillfoot, in Callingham, England. Two days previously, Torrance Esdale, childhood sweetheart of Gerald Saranack, the murdered man's nephew, had appealed to her American employer, Hartland Massiter, to give Gerald an engineering job in Mexico. Gerald is to return from Spain in two days. Though they had quarreled before he left, Torrance writes Gerald, in care of his uncle, her plans for their marriage. Then Torrance learns that Gerald has married an English girl in Spain. She secretly gains entrance to Hillfoot and retrieves the letter. Then she hears voices, hides, and watches as a girl secretes some jewels behind a brick in the fireplace. When the girl and her companion leave Torrance calls the police, then leaves, not wishing to explain her presence. When Gerald brings his bride to see her next day she recognizes Annabelle, his wife, as the same girl she had seen in Uncle Julius' house and at the hour it was later discovered he was murdered, though she keeps silent about it. Alone with Torrance Gerald confesses he still loves her. He married Annabelle out of pity and thinks she needs his protection. Massiter unearths a motive for the crime. In his youth Julius Saranack befriended John Ellister, who was accused of theft. Later Prof. Ellister grew enormously wealthy through Mexican mines and made a will leaving everything to Uncle Julius. Through the American consul in Paris Mr. Massiter learns that Prof. Ellister has disappeared. Torrance tells Mr. Massiter about Annabelle. They fly to Paris. There Torrance is followed by a rat faced man with a falsetto voice and huge hands. Prof. Ellister they discover has also been murdered. Torrance rushes back to warn Gerald who is next in line to inherit the fortune.

INSTALMENT XVI.

INTO THE LION'S DEN.

"Your Mr. Massiter doesn't approve of me!" Torrance was startled as the birdlike voice seemed to carry on her train of thought. "I'm not stern enough for him—I could feel it while we were talking. And he's not at all sure I'm not a regular adventuress who has snapped up poor Gerald."

Neither Massiter nor Torrance approved of Annabelle, and so they both thought her an adventuress. "I've made myself think I saw her that night," whispered Torrance's conscience. Aloud she said:

"Of course, you aren't his type. But I wouldn't worry about it."

"I'm worrying about it for Gerald's sake. I shall never forgive myself if he loses that splendid post through me. Don't say a word—let's go in to lunch."

You could persuade yourself of almost anything if you desperately wanted to believe it. Without being a certifiable lunatic you could be positive you had seen things which you could not possibly have seen.

As she was positive that she had seen Annabelle.

"In Paris," said Annabelle over lunch, "they have an interpreter for the English talkies who shouts it through one of those horn things. It was awful. So I went round and hunted for a theater that was only giving French films. And I had to come out in the middle of that or Gerald and I might have missed the boat train."

There it was again! If Annabelle had been to two films and was waiting for Gerald in the hotel before midnight she could not have been in Callingham at 9 o'clock. Already Torrance was repenting of her offer to stay in the house. Well, after lunch she must go back ostensibly to get her things and would wire that she had been called out suddenly on another job. Massiter would see her through that lie if she were to ask him.

In the middle of the afternoon she was with him at the Parnassus.

"It was unlucky I missed you this morning," he told her. "But I was connecting up with a solicitor and getting the legal slant on what has happened. And that man can move."

He was lost for a moment in admiration of the solicitor's promptitude.

"Well, if I haven't forgotten tea!" he exclaimed ruefully. "I flatter myself it's the one thing that tells people I'm not British."

"Mr. Massiter, I wanted to ask you——"

"What the solicitor said—and I'll tell you. In a nutshell, the testimony of those Frenchmen will stand with your courts. I'm referring, of course, to the time of death. Prof. Ellister was killed at approximately 5 o'clock in the afternoon. That's the time of his death in English law, just the same as if he'd been killed in London. I see the inquest was adjourned until today week. We can forget that. Now do you think you can convey a tactful hint to that young man to keep out of a lawyer's office in the meantime?"

"It's too late—he has made a marriage settlement!" said Torrance and gave details.

Mr. Massiter took out a cigar and contemplated it.

"They're not letting the grass grow under their feet."

"The moment I knew it I got the wind up," continued Torrance. "Of course, at present he thinks it's only the four hundred a year and the house—so does the solicitor."

"I was waiting to hear that," said Mr. Massiter unblushingly. "The will's in his favor then?"

"Yes. But the solicitor doesn't know about the Prof. Ellister business. I saw that nothing could be done about the documents. And I—I suppose I got the idea that she might put poison in his coffee or something, so I said I would stay there—in the house—I'm supposed to have come up for my things and to go back there this evening in time for dinner."

"But you're not going to do that?"

"No. I don't think so. When I took another look at her it—it somehow seemed absurd to link her up with it. I thought I'd invent a business engagement—and I thought perhaps you'd help me out."

"Sure!" said Mr. Massiter, and spoilt it by adding: "I'd gladly perjure my immortal soul to prevent you going back to that house. If anything happened to you I'd never forgive myself."

"But do you think it's dangerous?" asked Torrance in surprise.

"Dangerous! Of course it's dangerous!" said Mr. Massiter.

"Then that settles it. I must go back."

"You must not. I'm convinced it would be unhealthy."

"Then you still think she really does plan to kill him?"

"Not with her own hand. And not that poison-in-the-coffee stuff. Poison is the easiest thing in the world for the police to pick up. She wants you as cover—impartial witness. You'll be playing her game by staying there."

"All the same, I must go back," said Torrance firmly. Gerald is likely to be in danger from these people. I only wanted to back out because I thought he wasn't."

"Yes. Maybe you're right. Maybe I'm exaggerating the whole thing."

"Too late, Mr. Massiter," smiled Torrance. "I'm going back."

Massiter stood over her and took the teacup from her hand. For a moment she felt helpless and a little uncomfortable. For the first time in their acquaintance he looked steadily into her eyes.

"Of course—you would!" His voice betrayed his deep sense of failure. "Somehow I've never thought of being tactful with you—or I'd have put it round the other way. I don't want you to go back there. . . . O, don't say anything—I know your mind's made up!"

He reached behind him and a moment later a small pistol lay in the palm of his hand.

"What about taking hold of that? It isn't loaded and I carry it from force of habit. I've got shells in one of my grips."

"O, no, thanks!" Torrance laughed, and Massiter scowled.

"That's just it!" he exclaimed. "You still think the idea of murder is funny. Although you've been up against it twice in the last few days. What is there funny about a gun?"

"Only the thought of my using it," said Torrance. "Surely it needs practice! I should hit the wrong person."

Massiter replaced the pistol in his pocket.

"What do you think you're going to do in that house, anyway? Stick around and see that he comes to no harm? O, Torrance! Why, they'll be counting on just that! They'll make their plans on the assumption that you'll be waiting for them and they'll feed you the evidence so that you'll say just what they want you to say when the police come along."

She shivered a little. Melodramatics grew so real in his forceful presence.

"Then what do you advise?" she asked petulantly.

"You don't know it," said Massiter, "but you're putting a very severe strain on friendship, Torrance."

"I'm sorry——"

"Don't be sorry! I'm doing that part. It's the way my luck's always run. Pretty good along most of the course, but bucking just when I want it most."

GASOLINE ALLEY—ERASING THE PAST

OF COURSE I'M HAPPY, CASSIUS, BUT I'M SORRY I TOLD THE JUDGE THERE WAS NO CHILD.
NONSENSE. THE DECREE WAS GRANTED. IT WAS BEST FOR EVERYBODY.
BUT IT IS LIKE DENYING HER VERY EXISTENCE.
LISTEN, HONEY, IN AN HOUR WE'LL BE MARRIED AND THAT PART OF YOUR LIFE WILL BE GONE FOREVER.
I WANT TO BE HAPPY, CASSIUS.
YOU'VE NEVER KNOWN WHAT HAPPINESS IS, DARLING. AND YOU'RE STARTING RIGHT NOW TO FIND OUT.

Nair wedding reception at the club yesterday afternoon they have not been able to hang any of the pictures. However, Mrs. Shreve C. Badger and Mrs. Huntly H. Gilbert spent several hours sorting the exhibits yesterday in the Casino's basement, and this morning when the club opens at 9 o'clock they will rush to complete the arrangements by 11 o'clock, when the exhibition opens. Mrs. Harold Stark, Walter S. Brewster, and Shepard Vogelgesang are the judges for today's show, which is the largest the league ever has held, and in which many new artists will be represented.

More Plan Parties for Miss Schweppe.

Miss Jean Schweppe and her mother, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, will arrive at home tomorrow from a trip to New York where they have been trousseau shopping since Sunday. Invitations to several more parties for Miss Schweppe and A. Watson Armour III., who will be married on Feb. 22, have been issued.

On Friday, Feb. 7, the John P. Kelloggs and the junior John T. Piries will give a supper and roller skating party and the next night the Gordon Kelleys and the John Simpsons will give a dinner dance at the Shoreacres club.

Young Mrs. Simpson will be an absent hostess, however, for she left last night for Vero Beach, Fla., where Mr. Simpson will join her in mid-February. Her cousin, Miss Eleanor Coonley of Great Barrington, Mass., will spend part of February at Vero Beach.

The Gordon Kelleys are giving a dinner dance this Saturday night at the Onwentsia club. It is for Miss Jean Stevens and James O. Heyworth who are to be married the next Saturday.

The party the Kelloggs and Piries are giving will be a gay one, without a doubt, for all the young people like to roller skate, especially in the great drill hall of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, where there is skating every Friday night. Supper will be served at the Kelloggs' house in Lake Forest.

Give Cocktail Party for W. F. Dillingham.

Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter had a small cocktail party yesterday for the very good friends of Walter F. Dillingham, who arrived yesterday morning from Boston to join his wife in Chicago. They both left last night for San Francisco to sail for their home in Honolulu.

At the usual Thursday afternoon causerie of the Alliance Française this afternoon Mme. M. M. Sorson will speak on "A Voyage to the Land of Silk." Mrs. William M. Scudder will be hostess at tea following Mme. Sorson's talk.

Mary Garden to Give Recital in Winnetka.

The women in charge of the recital Mary Garden will give under the auspices of the Winnetka Woman's club on Monday evening, Feb. 17, in the New Trier auditorium in Winnetka very wisely have set the starting hour as 8:45, thus allowing time for dinner hostesses and their guests in other north shore towns to reach the auditorium in time. The recital will be preceded by many dinner parties.

The proceeds of the recital will be used to buy a new piano for the club, the members of which particularly enjoy two piano recitals. Robert Wallenborn will assist Miss Garden.

Mrs. Rollin D. Wood is chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, and is ticket chairman for Winnetka. Mrs. Ralph H. Poole is Lake Forest ticket chairman, Mrs. Cloud Wampler the Highland Park one, and the Evanston Woman's club is selling tickets in that city.

Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno Jr., of Boston is here for a brief visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Chapman, in Lake Forest. Mrs. Chapman and her daughter, Miss Elinor, will be among the Chicagoans sailing Feb. 11 for a six weeks' cruise around Cape Horn. Other Chicagoans in the party will be Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor and Miss Caryl Bloomingston.

Bernard F. Rogers Jr. left yesterday for Washington. Later he will go to Florida, stopping in Georgia for some quail shooting. The date for his return to Chicago is indefinite.

Mr. Rogers' brother, James Waller Rogers, who is vacationing in the south with his wife, the former Jane Linn, will return home Feb. 1, but Mrs. Rogers and the children, Mary Jane and Bernard III., will remain in St. Petersburg until April. Mrs. Rogers' mother, Mrs. James Weber Linn, will join them in March.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Rogers Sr. will leave on Feb. 1 for Ormond Beach, Fla.,

Hale Holden Gives Party in N. Y. for Winfield Scott Linns

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Hale Holden, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific railroad, gave a dinner tonight at the River club for his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Scott Linn, who were married on Dec. 20 in Chicago. Mrs. Linn is the former Miss Eleanor Holden.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Long Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Munson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Cushing, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wildman, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Whitlock, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Prindeville, Mr. and Mrs. Hale Holden Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Greer, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Forgan, Mrs. Huntington Lyman, Mrs. Eugene Thayer, and Messrs. Philip Holden, Alfred Hoyt, and Muscoe Garnett.

Mr. and Mrs. Linn depart tomorrow for Chicago, where they will reside at 311 Fullerton parkway.

Mannishly Tailored for Chic

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This simple frock with infinitely tailored details is perfect for business wear and for active days on campus or in classroom. The "tuxedo" bodice is smartly in line with the mannish trend in fashions. The plaited skirt affords plenty of freedom in walking.

Prints with small figures on dark backgrounds would make up attractively in this model. Dark blue wool crêpe also would be charming, with light blue crêpe silk for the vestee and tied collar. A favorite and perennially popular ensemble, that of black and white, would be perfect for this frock, with the dress of wool crêpe or heavy silk, and the vestee and collar of white pique or silk with black buttons marching down the vest.

Style No. 2533 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Clever Recipes Glorify Plain Dried Fruits

BY MARY MEADE.

Yesterday found us just nicely warmed up to the subject of dried fruit—without room to tell you about several particularly good recipes. If you don't know these three, it's virtually your duty to treat yourself and your family to them soon.

One is a peach nut bread, and it's as delicious as it is unusual! Chopped, cooked, dried peaches add color and rich flavor to the bread, while the peach juice makes up part of the liquid. The recipe goes like this:

Peach Nut Bread.

1 tablespoon shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup peach juice
1 cup sour milk
2 cups graham flour
1 cup all-purpose white flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups chopped cooked dried peaches
½ cup broken nut meats

Blend the softened shortening with the sugar. Mix with the well beaten egg. Cook the dried peaches by covering them with water, boiling for 5 minutes, removing the skins, and simmering for 45 minutes longer. [Do not sweeten.] Combine a half cup of the resulting juice with the sour milk, and add to the egg and sugar mixture. Add the graham flour and mix well. Sift the white flour with the baking powder, soda, and salt, and stir into the above mixture. Combine with the chopped cooked peaches and nut meats, beat thoroughly, and pour into a greased loaf pan. Bake one hour in a moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F.

A fig and banana filling for a white layer cake is another dried fruit charmer you shouldn't miss. The quantities here are for a large three layer cake, but may be reduced if you prefer a two layer structure.

Banana Fig Filling.

2 egg whites, unbeaten
1½ cups sifted sugar
5 tablespoons cold water
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
Few grains salt
1 cup sliced bananas
2 cups chopped, cooked, dried figs
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Combine the egg whites, sugar, cold water, cream of tartar, and salt in the top of a double boiler over boiling water. For 7 to 10 minutes whip the mixture briskly with a rotary egg beater, or until the frosting is stiff enough to stand in peaks. Remove from heat, and take out one cup of the frosting. Combine this with the sliced bananas, chopped cooked dried figs, and lemon juice. Spread the fig mixture between layers of a plain white cake. Cover the top and sides of the cake with the remaining fluffy frosting, flavored with one-quarter teaspoon lemon extract.

One of our favorite ways of using dried pears, with their elusive, sunny flavor and fragrance, is to put them into a deep dish pie. Here's how to do it:

Pear Apple Deep Dish Pie.

1 cup dried pears
4 large apples
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup water
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter
Pastry

Cover the pears with water, after removing the cores, and simmer for 45 minutes. Peel the apples and slice thinly. Combine the fruits, sugar, and cinnamon in a deep baking dish. Add the water and dot with butter. Cover with an unbaked pastry crust, and bake at 400 degrees F. for 45 minutes. Serve while warm, with cream if desired.

According to CULBERTSON

PRINCIPLES OF PLAY.

Broad principles of play govern the proper technique of both the declarer and the defenders. There is a great number of these principles—to the novice, a bewildering number—and sometimes it is difficult to choose the right avenue to the desired goal. Conservation of honors, promotion of honors, suit establishment—these are not flowery phrases; each is a terse description of a vital process.

Confining our observations to the problems of the defenders, it must be pointed out that a skilful defense rests on the players' ability to visualize the best plan of declarer and to render it either impossible or difficult of accomplishment. Thus, if an opportunity arises in which an advantage can be gained only at disproportionate sacrifice—such as cashing one trick that will set up two for declarer—the canny defender will resist temptation.

A Case in Point.

West, in the hand shown below, saw the opportunity to force the ace of trumps by using his measly three spot. He drove a poor bargain by doing so.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	2 diam'ds	3 clubs	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no tr'p	Pass	4 spades	Double*

*Final bid.

The diamond seven was opened; East won and continued the suit, South ruffing the second round. Double-dummy play, involving the immediate lead of trumps and forcing out of West's king, would, of course, have returned eleven tricks by the successful club finesse against the queen. But this wide-open play certainly would have been exceedingly dangerous—had the club queen been "offside" the declarer would have made only one club trick.

Playing more conservatively, the declarer led to the king of clubs and back to the ace, following with a third round which he intended to ruff with dummy's ace, playing either for a 3-3 trump break or a minimum penalty on a non-break. But West, seeing no farther than his nose, thought that dummy's deuce of trumps would be used on the club unless he prevented it, and kindly stepped in with his three. Declarer's problem was solved—he ruffed with the ace and returned a trump. Now, when West put him in the dummy with a heart lead, he had trumps enough to ruff a heart and draw West's remaining trumps for his contract with an overtrick.

A heart discard by West on the third round of clubs inevitably would have defeated the contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Please give the proper bidding of the following North and South hands. Both sides were vulnerable and the opponents could make no bid.

Be Stingy with Directions to the Small Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Did you ever have anybody around in your family who was always offering suggestions, giving advice, and volunteering directions about the doing of everything, big and little, you wanted to undertake? Even if you haven't, you can certainly imagine how annoying it would be. You can also imagine how, if you were a certain type, it might destroy your initiative or rob you of confidence in yourself.

Mothers who are with their children all day long—and especially those who are of the managing or efficient type—are likely, with the best intentions in the world, to fall into the habit of constantly directing a child.

Of course grownups know better ways of doing things—of course they can see shortcuts that a child cannot—of course they can save a child from mistakes and from hurts—and of course the result may be a better tower of blocks, a safer journey down the hall stairs, a better carpentry job.

But this is not nature's purpose for a child. Perfection is not the end and aim of a child's activity. And usually by all this adult interference the doing has been spoiled. Often the child has been robbed of the sense of personal and independent achievement.

That the result of work or play isn't good according to an adult's standards is not important. That a mistake has been made or a minor hurt suffered is not important, nor is it sufficient justification for constant, detailed supervision.

We need to talk less and stand back more when the children are doing things. We need to let them alone more.

Plenty of interest, but only enough advice to prevent discouragement, is a good motto.

Sir Hamilton Harty Guest at Informal Tea

English Speaking Union Entertains.

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

Guests who gathered in the lofty headquarters of the Cliff Dwellers yesterday afternoon at a tea the English Speaking union gave for Sir Hamilton Harty, noted British conductor, turned their backs on the huge windows overlooking frozen Grant park and concentrated on the warmth and chatter in the room, glad to be inside.

The atmosphere was informal and gay, set partly by Sir Hamilton, who is genial, humorous and understanding, and partly by the attractive tea table in the middle of the room. It was set with a huge center piece of golden mimosa on a cloth of rose and gold brocade, and lighted by several candles in two bronze candelabra.

Among those who blew in with pink noses and glowing faces, proving that cold weather is quite becoming to most people, were Miss Frances Whedon and an attractive young lady from Boston, Miss Margaret Adams, who has come to Chicago to give a program of monologs at the Fortnightly this afternoon. Miss Adams, who charmed Chicagoans when she stayed here last year visiting in turn Russell Tyson and Miss Gwethalyn Jones, will spend her spare time on this brief trip with Mrs. Harold C. Smith and Mrs. Morrison Waud [Anne Smith].

Mrs. Langdon Pearse, wearing a smart caracul hat; Miss Margot Attin in something warm in checks; Victor Elting, Donald P. Welles, the union's new president; C. Rupert Whitworth, the secretary; Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, who did not remove her mink coat; Mrs. Arthur A. Small and Mrs. John Winslow, who presided at the tea table, and John B. Morse, one of the union's newest members, who looked very English in a dark suit with a chalk stripe, were among those who drank a cup of tea and chatted with Sir Hamilton.

Style Show Features Women's Suits Cut on Masculine Lines

Tailored suits of men's fabrics and cut along masculine lines were one of the features of the women's style show presented yesterday at the monthly luncheon of the Women of Rotary in the Hotel Sherman. These distinctly masculine innovations were advocated for present wear under fur coats and future wear under spring topcoats of monotone tweed.

Mannequins modeled spring and summer wear selected from the present winter season in Miami and Havana. Evening dresses of glazed chintz, exactly like window curtain fabric, drew much applause, as did other creations of chiffon, taffeta and prints of blazing color combinations.

Among the novelties was a bathing suit of sea satin, a lastex weave supporting the figure of the wearer.

Field Museum Displays Specimen of 'Blue Sheep'

A specimen of a rare animal which inhabits the high mountains of western China, the "blue sheep," known also as the bharal or burrhel, will be placed on exhibition today in George M. Pullman hall of the Field Museum of Natural History. The sheep, of special interest to zoölogists because it has characteristics of both sheep and goats, was shot at about 14,500 feet in the Himalayas by Col. Theodore Roosevelt when he led the recent William V. Kelley-Roosevelt expedition to eastern Asia for the Field museum.

Cubic Measure.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Prints take the stage in the arrangement of patches in this clever, unusual, and simply pieced design, entitled "Cubic Measure." This is one of those quilts which are most attractive yet most confounding to the person who endeavors to fit the patterns to the title. The history of this design is obscure and, as far as is known, it is not among the ancients. Green, red, and white form a gay color combination.

"NO. 8"
She is easy to identify

MOST readers of this newspaper number among their acquaintances at least one woman who is never at a disadvantage, never breaks engagements, never declines dances (unless she wants to!) and whose spirits never seem to droop.

She is apt to be that eighth woman who uses Midol!

Eight million women once had to suffer every month. Had difficult days when they must save themselves, and favor themselves, or suffer severely. But a million have accepted the relief of Midol.

Are you a martyr to regular pain? Must you favor yourself, and save yourself, certain days of every month? Midol might change all this. Might have you playing golf. And even if it didn't keep you absolutely free from all pain for the entire period, you would get a measure of relief that's well worth while! Midol is effective even when the pain has caught you unaware and has reached its height. It's effective for hours, so two tablets should see you through your worst day. And they do not contain any narcotic.

You will find Midol in any drug store—usually right out on the toilet goods counter. Or, a card addressed to Midol, 170 Varick St., New York, will bring a trial box postpaid, plainly wrapped.

PENSION CONTROL PUT IN HANDS OF COUNTY JUDGES

Horner's Forces Routed; Entire Cost on State.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Republicans and Cook county Democrats joined forces today and easily defeated the adherents of Gov. Horner in a session of the conference committee on house bill No. 32, which sets up the county machinery to administer old age pensions.

Then, by a vote of 110 to 12, the house adopted the conference report in which the governor's ideas on the county pension units were rejected. A few minutes later the senate followed suit by a vote of 37 to 0, and the rout of the Horner partisans on this bill was completed.

In both houses members pointed out that a veto would only serve to delay payment of the pensions, which an estimated 40,000 eligible had expected at one time would start coming to them on Jan. 1, this year.

Payments Believed Near.

The only remaining hurdle is house concurrence in an amendment to the pension appropriation bill. Predictions were made that when that is out of the way, and if there is no veto, there should not be much more delay in making pension payments. Pensioners over 65 years of age, who fulfill a number of other requirements, will receive up to $15 a month from the state and another $15 a month out of federal funds when congress makes an appropriation for that purpose.

Little debate attended adoption of the conference report in either chamber, but the fight was furious in the conference committee, which met for over two hours. At one time Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton], Horner leader on the senate floor, quit the conference in disgust, exclaiming against the lineup opposing his proposals for ironing out the differences between the house and the senate over the bill.

State Must Bear All Costs.

But with large majorities the conference committee voted to authorize County judges to appoint the county welfare commissions that will supervise pension affairs and placed the entire cost of administering the pension on the state. These were senate amendments to the house bill that the house refused to concur in and from which the senate refused to recede, thus forcing the appointment of the conference committee.

The governor's men were in favor of permitting the state welfare department to appoint the county welfare commissions from nominations submitted by the County judges. They also fought unsuccessfully to force the counties to bear half of the administrative costs. The state, however, will be able to limit the number of employés of the welfare commissions.

Breaks Up Political Machine.

Each welfare commission will have three members, two only from one political party. Had the governor's ideas prevailed, he would have had an opportunity to build up at least a skeleton political organization in each county through his state welfare department. As it is the party to which the County judge belongs will reap whatever political advantage may come from the pension payments.

There was complete agreement among the conferees on only one major change. This provides that employés of the county welfare department must have lived in the county in which they are to work for five years, which was adopted to keep professional social service workers from getting all the jobs. This requirement originally had been one year, but through the efforts of Senators Martin B. Lohmann [Dem., Pekin] and George Dixon [Rep., Dixon] it gradually was shoved up to the five years that was approved.

Only Three Votes Oppose Plan.

Williams, Senator J. S. Mundy [Dem., Marshall] and Representative F. W. Lewis [Dem., Robinson], were the only ones of the 14 conferees that voted against the conference report. Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, Democratic majority leader in the house, was conference chairman, and Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's spokesman in the legislature, was secretary.

This bill applies only to downstate counties. Immediately after adopting the conference report, the house passed a bill that would put Cook county's existing department of public welfare in the same position as the other counties' welfare commission insofar as the pension is concerned. The senate will act on this measure next week.

Move to Kill IERC.

With the pension matter out of the way, attempts were made in both chambers to abolish the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The efforts were unsuccessful, but consideration of the measures was postponed, which will give the proponents of this movement another opportunity later.

Before the roll call was suspended in the house, Lewis had obtained 65 of the 102 votes he needed to pass his bill abolishing the commission and authorizing the governor, lieutenant governor and state auditor to distribute sales tax relief money directly to county boards.

Senator John W. Fribley [Dem., Pana], had 18 out of the necessary 34 votes in the upper chamber before he suspended his efforts.

The senate also adopted the house bill which eliminates jail sentences in the new state trafic code for certain trafic violations, leaving fines as the only penalties. This was done, according to Senator Richey V. Graham [Dem., Cicero], to permit justices of the peace to pass sentence for those trafic violations instead of sending all violators into courts of record.

TWO JAILED ON DRUG CHARGE.

Judge Gibson E. Gorman yesterday sentenced Frank Goretz, 25 years old, 4864 Kenmore avenue, to one year in the county jail, and Goretz's companion, William Rathbun, 32 years old, 821 Wilson avenue, to 60 days in the county jail when both were found guilty of possessing narcotics.

STATE WON'T INSIST ON DEATH PENALTY FOR MRS. DAISY ROOT

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Nine of twelve jurors to try pretty Mrs. Daisy Alexander Root on a "jealousy murder" charge were selected today and both prosecution and defense indicated the question of responsibility of a woman who suspects her husband of faithlessness would be an issue in the case.

Mrs. Root is accused of killing her 32 year old husband, Brenton Root, son of a Chicago clergyman, in a tiff over a cigaret girl.

Questioning prospective jurors today W. T. McLain, district attorney general, remarked "I assume there will be a great deal of stuff brought out about the 'unwritten law' and probably a little adultery."

He asked if they would "turn her loose because a fellow cheated just a little."

McLain said the state "is not insisting on the death penalty," adding he would offer the defendant's purported confession to the jury.

In it the young widow was reported to have said she shot Root because she was jealous over his asserted attentions to Lucile Underwood, red haired "cigaret girl," at a night club.

DR. BUNDESEN TO LEAD CANDIDATES IN TOUR OF STATE

'Slate' Meets, Plans Start of Drive Next Month.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—With Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, organization candidate for governor, present, plans were made today to open the Democratic state campaign early next month.

In the first meeting of most of the candidates on the slate backed by the Kelly-Nash organization in Chicago and the state central committee, it was decided to open the campaign with a "comprehensive" downstate tour.

State Chairman Bruce A. Campbell of Belleville said the various candidates will visit each of the 101 downstate counties before the primary on April 14.

Candidates Confer.

Dr. Bundesen, who is president of the Chicago Board of Health, conferred with Campbell, State Treasurer John Stelle, candidate for lieutenant governor; and Secretary of State Hughes, Attorney General Kerner and Auditor Edward J. Barrett, who seek reelection.

Chairman Campbell announced that campaign headquarters will be opened shortly in the St. Nicholas hotel here, which has been the Democratic gathering place for years. In these headquarters will be a representative of most of the candidates. Manly S. Mumford, Campbell's executive assistant, will be in charge and will be assisted by E. J. Coyle of Barrett's office, Harry J. Wernsing of Hughes' office, Howard Ashton of Stelle's office, and William G. Worthey of Kerner's staf.

Bundesen Meets Legislators.

Dr. Bundesen spent part of the day at the statehouse, meeting Democratic senators and representatives and visiting the offices of his running mates.

Gov. Horner still was confined to the executive mansion today, his bad throat and influenza causing worry among his friends. Last night his temperature was 102 degrees, brought that high, his doctors believe, by visits from a number of people during the afternoon and evening.

The governor's physicians would not permit any visitors today; a nurse was obtained and it was announced that the governor's temperature was lower. He still is a sick man, it was said, but there was less cause for alarm.

MARGARET BUDD LOSES FOURTH HUSBAND VIA COAST DIVORCE COURT

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. Margaret Budd Corbett, daughter of Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, was divorced at Redwood City today by her fourth husband, Mario Corbett, San Francisco architect.

The couple married in Reno in 1934, separating seven weeks later, in October. It was not until after their separation that their marriage became known.

Corbett in his suit charged desertion.

Mrs. Corbett first married John C. Campbell, lumber magnate of Duluth, Minn., from whom she separated in a year. Her second husband was Willis Osborne of Minneapolis. This marriage ended in six months. Her third husband was Wirt Morton, Chicago millionaire salt manufacturer. She was married to him less than a year, a Mexican decree being granted at Juarez.

SEEK DOWNSTATE REPUBLICAN FOR GOVERNOR'S RACE

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—House Republicans, in conference tonight, resolved to appoint a committee of three members who, with two senators to be named by a senate conference next week, will discuss state candidates with the Cook county central committee.

Minority Leader Leroy M. Green of Rockford was charged with naming the house committee.

Candidates were not discussed at tonight's executive session, it is understood, but the purpose of the conference, as reported earlier today, was to further the contention of some members that only a downstate candidate should receive organization support for governor.

DENTISTS TO HEAR DISCOVERER OF NO-PAIN FORMULA

A special meeting of 2,500 Chicago dentists will be held Monday at the Stevens hotel to hear Dr. Le Roy L. Hartman, professor of dentistry at Columbia university, expound a new formula which he claims will make all dental treatment completely painless. Announcement of the meeting was made last night by Dr. Edward J. Ryan, president of the Chicago Dental society.

Dr. Hartman made the first public announcement of his discovery Tuesday in New York. His formula, which any pharmacist can compound cheaply, is a local application in place of the usual injection of novocaine or other anesthetic.

ELEVATORS HALT AS 2,000 STRIKE IN N. Y. BUILDINGS

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—A strike of building service employés in the midtown area of Manhattan went into effect at noon today as thousands of office and factory workers in the garment center were entering or preparing to leave for the lunch hour. Elevator service in all buildings in which the strike was called was suspended.

An hour later James J. Bambrick, president of the Building Service Employés' union, announced that union workers in 194 buildings were out, involving some 2,000 employés.

Landlords were swamped with telephone calls from tenants who threatened to break their leases as a result of the inconvenience caused by the strike. Thousands of workers were marooned on the upper floors of high buildings and thousands of others were prevented from reaching their offices.

COMPLETE THE "HAIR CYCLE" AND HAIR LOSS STOPS

says Charles Nessler

Charles Nessler, pioneer in modern hair research ...inventor of Permanent Waving, author of the books "Story of Hair", "Our Vanishing Hair" and many scientific papers.

No. You can't stop hair from falling out with Charles Nessler's Pro-Ker Treatment. Nor with anything else, for that matter. Nature intends that hair should fall out; and should be constantly replaced with a growth of new, healthy hair.

The trouble is following unscientific advice, we go at the proposition backwards. We fail to help Nature replace fallen hair. In fact, we often hinder the natural replacement of hair.

Pro-Ker, Charles Nessler's latest achievement, helps the scalp perform its natural function—to replace falling hair with new hair.

RELIEVES EXCESS OILINESS, DANDRUFF, ITCHING SCALP

These are secondary symptoms relieved by the healthful application of the Pro-Ker Treatment. Start today to use Pro-Ker. Quick, pleasant and easy to apply—an excellent hair-dressing too, for men and women. Not sticky or greasy; free from alcohol. Get Pro-Ker at any drug counter. $1 and $1.50 the bottle.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the bowels with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and mild instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless "no good" feeling, dull complexion caused by constipation.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound, known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with constipation and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two at bedtime for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Wind Wrecks Barn.

January 22, 1936.

HIGH winds blew down one of the big horse barns at the Tribune Experimental farm near Wheaton early yesterday morning. The blasts of the blizzard were so violent that the barn, 24 by 66 feet, was twisted into splinters and left scattered over the barnyard. At the time the building was blown over the temperature was about 9 degrees below zero and the air was dense with swirling clouds of snow.

Fortunately the barn was empty. It was in the process of being moved away from one of the highest spots on the farm where a new modern tool shed is to be built in the spring.

A few minutes before it was wrecked, the farm manager had gone to the barn with a crew of men to start the work of mounting the barn on sleds. One man was in the barn when the timbers began cracking under the force of the high winds, but escaped without injury. The posts were snapped off at the level of the second story.

The manager had planned to move the barn to a new location about a quarter of a mile away, where it was to have been used to house the Wheaton farm flock of sheep in winter. The plan was to place three pairs of sled runners under each side of the building and then with a winch, give the barn a slow "sleigh ride" down the gentle slope over an alfalfa field to the sheep farm.

Howard Clegg, a farmer near Dana, La Salle county, tells in a letter printed below how he raised a ten acre field of hybrid corn that yielded 121.54 bushels an acre, enabling him to win the honor of being the best corn grower in the state in 1935. He was one of the four hybrid corn producers to win in the recent Illinois Seed Grain and Utility Corn show held at the University of Illinois. His letter follows:

"The type of soil on which my contest field was located is brown silt loam. It is tile drained and fertilized with one ton of lime phosphate and two tons limestone to the acre.

"In 1932 we had this field in corn. In 1933 we seeded to alfalfa and got a thin stand. In 1934 we sowed sweet clover which we disked in lightly and pastured about the middle of the summer. In 1935 we plowed about the middle of April, worked once with tandem disk and three times with spring tooth harrow. We planted on May 20 and 21 with Funks Hybrid No. 215. It was checked three feet each way, planted three kernels to the hill and cultivated three times with a shovel cultivator.

"A representative of the Illinois Crop Improvement association husked ten small plots, one from each acre. This was weighed and samples were sent to the University of Illinois, where a moisture test was made and all moisture over 15.5 per cent [which is the content allowed for No. 2 corn] was deducted. This makes the yield figured on a basis of No. 2 corn."

Taking into his own hands that long deferred reprisal, Maroon against Marquette, Capt. Bill Haarlow, brilliant University of Chicago scorer, last night contributed 22 points to his team's 45 to 40 victory over the Milwaukee Hilltoppers at the Midway fieldhouse. Not for several years had Chicago been able to overcome the Marquette quintet.

All of Haarlow's ambidextrous skill at pivot shots was required to return the Maroons winners. After they had coasted along comfortably ahead for three quarters of the game the Maroons found themselves tied at 38 all by the aroused Marquette team, with five minutes to go. Haarlow promptly poked in a pivot shot, his seventh field goal of the game, followed that with two successful free throws on O'Keefe's foul, then raced the length of the floor for his eighth basket. Then he personally controled the ball for the last 45 seconds of the game as Chicago went into a stall.

Eirich Scores 16 Points.

Charles Eirich, Marquette center, who made 16 points during the evening, matched Haarlow point for point, keeping Marquette in the game, until that final outburst.

Chicago took an early lead of 12 to 4, Haarlow contributing six points and Bill Lang the same. Chicago led at half time, 24 to 13, with Eirich being credited with nine of Marquette's points in the period.

Marquette began to close the gap shortly after the final period opened. Successive baskets by McMahon, Eirich, and Sokody brought Marquette's deficit to 36 to 34. Haarlow pivoted for a shot. Then Rubado and Sokody made good on long tries to knot the score. At this point Haarlow went into his heroics, cheered on by the 500 fans that had braved the Midway blasts.

Amundsen Stands Out.

Very useful to the Maroons was Paul Amundsen, 6 feet 5 inch center, who had the edge in the jump and under the basket. Chicago made good on 15 of its 18 free throw opportunities, Haarlow and Lang sinking six each. Marquette was successful in 12 of 21 chances.

FORMER GRAND CIRCUIT DRIVER DIES AT REINS

Beaver, Pa., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Lyman G. Dodds, former Grand circuit driver, died suddenly today at the age of 70 with a horse's reins in his hands. Dodds, a drayman, slumped in the seat of his wagon. Physicians attributed his death to a heart attack.

Friends said Dodds once owned a string of trotting horses which he entered on Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio tracks. In the string was Jim Fenton, a brown gelding, which once trotted a mile in 2:10 at Cleveland, O.

Dodds retired from the track in 1908, and since has conducted his drayage service.

GABBY'S DOTTED LINE ACT STOLEN BY CAVARRETTA

Phil First of Cubs to Sign 1936 Contract.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Phil Cavarretta, youngest of the Cub regulars and one of the two Cubs who make Chicago their year around home, yesterday scooped Gabby Hartnett, oldest Cub regular and the other 12 months a year Chicagoan. Phil became the first Cub to get his signed contract to Cub headquarters.

As many Cub fans know, the ceremonial signing of Hartnett as No. 1 of the contentment boys for many years has ranked with the chirp of the first robin and the bloom of the first anemone. There have been times when other players thought their contracts had been received ahead of the Hartnett fountain pen pageant for photographers, only to learn that their documents had become lodged in a mail chute or something.

Contracts Mailed Jan. 17.

The fact that the edge has been taken off the Gabby tableau, if there is to be a Gabby tableau, is not yet an indication that the veteran catcher, who had one of his best seasons in 1935, is pondering the Wrigley offer unduly.

The contracts, which, Manager Grimm announced some time ago, would go out on Jan. 10, as a matter of fact were not mailed until the close of business Jan. 17. Some of them probably haven't reached destination, what with snowbound roads and one thing and another. Hartnett's contract is in hand, however.

Cavarretta, boy wonder from Lane Tech, who made good at first base last season with such certainty that Manager Charley Grimm went on the inactive list as a first baseman May 15, faded a bit in the closing weeks of the season and during the world series, but finished the regular season with a batting mark of .275 and a fielding percentage of .986, seventh in the league in the matter of fielding.

The Manager Is Back, but—

Manager Grimm, who batted .000 and fielded 1,000, has gone back on the active list, but is fluctuating in his decision as to whether he will try to reclaim his job as regular first baseman.

Two other signed contracts came in shortly after Cavarretta's arrived. Harold Sueme, a catcher, and John Hutchings, a pitcher, expressed with their signatures a willingness to accompany the Cubs to Catalina 26 days hence.

Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis and Ticket Manager George Doyle ran around the bases at Wrigley field at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon just to show they could take it. No one was arrested.

GERMAN TEAM WINS BIKE RACE AT MILWAUKEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 22.—The German team of Gustav Killan and Heinz Vopel won Milwaukee's fifth international six day bicycle race tonight by scoring the majority of points in the final sprints of the race. The Crossley-Walthour combination was second and Audy and Peden were third in the point rankings, although all three teams had covered 2,515 miles and 8 laps. Final standings:

Canzoneri's Punches Stop Garcia in 9th

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, gained a technical knockout over Brecio Garcia of Mexico in the ninth round of their ten round nontitle fight at the Star casino tonight. The bout was halted after a minute and 39 seconds of the ninth. Canzoneri weighed 138 pounds, Garcia 137.

Canzoneri, opening a series of tune-up fights in preparation for his next title defense, floored the Texas born Mexican once in the seventh round, twice in the eighth, and sent him to the canvas two more times in the ninth before the referee intervened.

Garcia made a good showing in the early rounds, but in the latter part he was no match for the champion. His principal weapon was a darting left which landed frequently but did little damage.

In the third round Garcia jolted Tony with a right to the body and in the fourth he smashed a stiff right to the head. One of his left jabs opened a small cut on Canzoneri's chin.

Canzoneri contented himself with holding off Garcia's attacks through most of the first six rounds, opening up with occasional flurries in which he drove the Mexican around the ring and pounded him hard. The first really damaging blow came in the seventh, sending Garcia down for a nine count and cutting his mouth.

Apparently badly hurt, Garcia then was an easy victim of Tony's hard right crosses.

BARTELL SIGNS CONTRACT WITH GIANTS FOR 1936

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Secretary Jim Tierney of the New York Giants announced today that another member of the cast had come into the fold for 1936. The No. 3 signer was Dick Bartell, shortstop, whose accepted contract came in the afternoon's mail from his home in California.

Bartell did not receive an increase over his 1935 salary. However, he also did not receive any reduction because of Manager Bill Terry's recent edict that no Giant player would be cut.

The Michigan Daily, student newspaper at the University of Michigan, is trying to bring about resumption of athletic relations between Michigan and Notre Dame. . . . "It seems illogical," writes Fred De Lano in a column entitled "The Hot Stove," "that another great educational institution should exist barely 150 miles from Ann Arbor, in the heart of the midwest, and yet due to alleged differences between the athletic administrations of the two schools they do not meet on the athletic field. A Michigan-Notre Dame rivalry would be one of the greatest in athletics, what with the two schools practically neighbors and both standing on top of the heap. For those always glancing at the pecuniary angle there is little doubt but what the two mammoth stadiums of the two schools would be nearly, if not completely, filled whenever their football teams would meet. De Kalb Teachers and St. Viator Postpone Game

De Kalb, Ill., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—De Kalb Teachers, scheduled to play St. Viator at Bourbonnais tonight, were compelled to postpone the game when snow blocked roads prevented the trip. The Teachers started but were forced to turn back six miles after leaving De Kalb. On Saturday night of this week De Kalb will entertain James Millikin university's basketball team.

Freddie Miller Suspended for Failure to Fight Smith

San Jose, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Freddie Miller of Cincinnati, recognized as world's featherweight champion by the National Boxing association, was supended today from California rings for 90 days for failure to appear for a fight here last night against Angus Smith, Santa Barbara colored boxer. Shortly before the fight he telephoned from Los Angeles that he had hurt his hand.

HAWKS BATTLE CANADIENS ON MONTREAL ICE

Chicagoans Seek Fourth Straight Victory Tonight.

New York, Jan. 22.—The Chicago Blackhawks, in second place, not only in the American section, but the league as well, after their 1 to 0 victory over the New York Rangers last night, remained in New York today to take advantage of the Rangers' ice for a couple of hours practice. They then departed for Montreal and their scheduled battle with the Canadiens tomorrow. After the Canadien game they will return to Chicago to meet the Rangers again Sunday.

Much of the reason for the crowd of 13,000 at last night's game was occasioned by the controversy over the relative merits of the two defense stars, Earl Seibert and Art Coulter, who recently figured in a Hawk-Ranger trade.

Hawks Profit by Trade.

Based upon the performances of the Rangers since the trade and also upon the play of the two in their first meeting on opposite sides of the fence, it would seem that the Blackhawks got the better of the deal. The Rangers, since acquiring Coulter, have played three games, winning one. The Blackhawks have played the same number of games since Seibert became a Hawk, winning all of them. His play in last night's contest was a revelation to New Yorkers.

Mike Karakas' feat in holding the Rangers scoreless kept the acrobatic goalie in the lead among the league net minders. Karakas also leads in shut-outs with six to his credit.

Paul Thompson, the Chicago team's leading scorer, showed what an important cog he is in the Blackhawks' machine by returning to the game after a week's absence to score in the first period for the only goal last night.

Lead in Games Won.

Although the Blackhawks have won more games than any other team in the league—thirteen—the complexities of the hocky method of computing standings has them in second place, not only in their own section, but in the league as well. Detroit is leading the Hawks by one full game.

An indication of the tenseness of the Rangers-Blackhawks clash can be gleaned from a glance at the summaries. Among those listed as serving penalties appear the names of Frank Boucher and Doc Romnes. A Ranger-Hawk game must be a hard one to see either in the penalty box, but when both are banished in the same night, it is something for the fans to comment upon. For Romnes it was the second rule violation of the season, for Boucher the first.

YOST'S ABSENCE DELAYS RULING ON IRISH SERIES

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Any negotiations for a Michigan-Notre Dame football game will have to wait at least a month. The reason is that Director Fielding H. Yost, out of town now, will not be back until late in February or early in March.

The Michigan Daily, campus newspaper, indicated that it would continue its campaign for a renewal of the relations broken off a quarter of a century ago. The Daily believes that such a game would be a "natural" and should be arranged, regardless of past differences.

Bill Brydge Is Released by New York Americans

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The New York Americans of the National Hocky league today handed Bill Brydge, defense veteran, his unconditional release. Brydge, who came to the club from Detroit in 1929, was the second oldest member of the club in point of service, ranking behind only Goalie Roy Worters.

STEER SERVES AS SPARRING MATE FOR THIS FIGHTER

Peoria Golden Gloves Candidate Practices in Stock Yards

BY FRENCH LANE.

And now, ladies and gentlemen, comes the awe inspiring name of Slaughter House Sallus to be enrolled in the Golden Gloves fighting army.

GEORGE DUNGEY.

Picture him in the pen at a Peoria packing plant where Kenneth Jones, sports editor of the Peoria Journal-Transcript, found him.

Kenneth might have passed right by Slaughter House had it not been for the fact that at that particular time the packing plant heavy man was having a little altercation with an argumentative steer.

Not for him to seek help from the customary club or bludgeon. Slaughter House went after the steer with his bare fists.

Now in Kenneth's own words we will finish the story.

"There was a knockout and it wasn't Slaughter House."

So Slaughter House, who weighs 235 pounds, immediately became one of the more than 1,000 boys from 100 cities, towns, and villages in downstate Illinois who are either fighting or getting ready to fight for Golden Gloves this year.

It is a record entry list for that particular section of Golden Glove territory due largely to the fact that each sectional center has so thoroughly organized its own sectional meets that a boy who has a desire to get into the competition doesn't have to go far from his own back yard to find a lad in a similarly belligerent mood.

The Peoria Journal-Transcript tournament attracts teams from Galesburg, Monmouth, Pekin, Canton, Macomb, Chillicothe, and other population centers along the Illinois river valley.

The Bloomington Pantagraph's tournament attracts entries from Decatur, Clinton, Champaign, Lincoln, El Paso, and also the pick of the boxers from Illinois Wesleyan and Illinois Normal universities. In the Bloomington tournament will also be teams from St. Bede college at Peru and from St. Viator college at Bourbonnais.

Returning to the Bloomington tournament this year are Welterweight George Dungey and Heavyweight Tom Neill, both of whom won championships last year.

At Rockford Harry Milne, sports editor of the Rockford Star, has also been doing a little scouting on his own behalf and has come up with a

FIGHTERS KEEP ENROLLING; SEE TOTAL OF 3,500

Hold 2d Physical Exam Tonight.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

More than 2,500 applications from Chicago Golden Gloves boxers have been received. This establishes an all time record. Last year approximately 2,200 boys sent in applications to compete in the annual amateur boxing tournaments sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

This number will be increased. It will exceed 3,000 and may reach 3,500 for entries will be accepted until midnight, Jan. 31.

Hold Second Exam Tonight.

Tonight the second physical examination will be held at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. Seven hundred boys have been assigned to this examination. This exceeds the number assigned to the first examination by 100. Four hundred letters, consent cards, and envelopes have been delivered to the Catholic Youth organization. These boxers, who will register as the C. Y. O. team, will be examined on Jan. 29. Eight hundred boys will be assigned to the examination on Jan. 30 at Trafton's gymnasium. Five hundred of these letters were mailed yesterday and the remainder are now being prepared. Application for this number are in the office.

Because of the rush an additional examination date has been named. There will be an examination at Trafton's gymnasium on Tuesday, Feb. 4, and within a few days letters for this date will be sent out.

Final Test Feb. 5.

The final examination will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 5. This will be the last opportunity, for, between this date and Feb. 10, there is barely sufficient time to prepare the program for the west section. At the same time the program for the south section, which opens on Feb. 11, must already be prepared for the printers.

The unprecedented entry for the three Chicago Golden Gloves sectionals is reflected throughout the 13 states in which 43 center cities are located. Without exception all report more entries. Last year 9,500 boys entered Golden Gloves. This year, because nine more centers have been added, and most of these are large cities, the number would be larger without increase. It is safe to predict that 15,000 boys will take part in the tournaments.

Novices Top Open Field.

The novice division fighters far outnumber the open division. This is to be expected, but the boys who gain experience in the novice class are those who in two or three years will be fighting for diamond studded golden gloves.

An excellent example is Joe De Pasquale, a featherweight, who last year reached the finals of the west section novice tournament. Joe was defeated by George Rasof, a brother of Barney Ross, former Golden Gloves champion and present holder of the world's welterweight title. The boys were bantamweights a year ago. Rasof went on to win the novice championship at the Stadium. De Pasquale now is entered in the open division, and his coach, Dick Mastro, a former contender for the Golden Gloves featherweight title in 1931 when Don Gonzales of Cleveland won the title, believes he has an excellent chance to qualify for the Tournament of Champions.

Wins 45 Bouts, Loses 6.

Other entries submitted by Mastro are Louis Esposito, open division welterweight, and Alex Wilcop, a novice division lightweight. Since last year De Pasquale has had 45 bouts and lost only six.

Tonight's examination at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, will be held between 6 and 8 o'clock. No boxer will be examined who does not bring a card from his parent or guardian permitting him to compete in Golden Gloves. These cards were mailed with the letter of instruction giving the time of tonight's examination.

GOLDEN GLOVES TICKETS

The mail order sale of tickets for the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions Feb. 24, 25, and 26, and also for the finals March 6, has opened.

These fights, bringing together the greatest amateur boxers in 13 states, will be held at the Chicago Stadium.

The thousands of regular Golden Gloves fans who attend these bouts every year know the value of obtaining tickets early. And here's a tip to new Golden Gloves fans who are due for their biggest boxing thrill—Tickets are distributed on a first come, first served basis.

Prices for the Tournament of Champions are 40 cents, 66 cents, and $1.10. For the finals they are $1.10, $1.65, $2.20, and $3.30. Send check or money order to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

TREEST PREDICTS K. O. VICTORY IN BOUT WITH BATH

Boxers Meet Tomorrow at Stadium.

Billy Treest, 21 year old Batavia, Ill., boxer, is ready for what is conceded to be his most important bout since he defeated Freddy Caserio for the middleweight Golden Gloves championship at Chicago Stadium in 1934. He meets Hank Bath, protégé of Jack Kearns, in a ten round bout which tops the Stadium's heavyweight elimination tournament tomorrow night.

Treest finished hard training for the match, his fourth as a heavyweight, at Madison Square loop gymnasium Tuesday by sparring four rounds. After the drill he weighed 177 pounds, the weight at which he wishes to be for the fight, so he did only loosening up exercises yesterday. He will follow the same procedure this afternoon. Bath boxed two rounds yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium, after which he was pronounced fit. Aside from a long walk the Fort Morgan, Colo., youngster who holds a record of 36 knockouts in 37 engagements, will rest today.

"I realize the importance of a victory over Bath at this time," Treest said. "It will place me in a prominent position in the heavyweight class. My aim is to earn a bout with Joe Louis. I'm confident of winning, probably by a knockout."

Treest has engaged in 19 professional fights. He won all except two. He stopped Eddie Roushkolb in four rounds in his heavyweight debut in the first round of the tourney at the Coliseum Dec. 13. He followed up this triumph with knockouts over Happy Ahlgrim and Smoky Maggard.

Treest made two attempts to win a diamond studded Golden Glove before he beat Caserio, the first time as a welterweight in 1932 and the second time as a middleweight in 1933. He was eliminated by Johnny Phagan in 1932, after qualifying from the north side, in the Tournament of Champions. In 1933 Billy won the Joliet sectional tournament, to qualify for the Tournament of Champions. He got as far as the semi-finals before losing to Caserio.

Treest started boxing when 15 years old as a featherweight. He had approximately 120 amateur matches, winning more than 100. In addition to the 1934 Golden Gloves championship Billy won a Senior A. A. U. outdoor title, and an Illinois Athletic club crown in 1932 and a Central A. A. U. championship in 1933. In his march to the Golden Gloves title he beat Tony Zale of Gary, Ind., in the quarter-finals and Fred Tyus, Peoria, in the semi-finals.

Geno Salvators, La Salle lightweight, and Eddie Zivic, Pittsburgh, will meet for the third time in a ten round topliner at Marigold Gardens Monday. Salvators held Eddie to an eight round draw at the Coliseum Oct. 26, 1934, but a month later Zivic knocked him out in one round at Pittsburgh. . . . Harry Dublinsky showed speed and accuracy in a five round workout yesterday, three with Ernie Kulasik and two with Freddy Kreutzer, in preparation for his scheduled twelve rounder against Billy Celebron at Cicero stadium next Wednesday. . . . Benny Miller will attempt to hand Verne Patterson, Savoy Athletic club lightweight star, his third defeat in about fifty encounters in a feature match at Madison Athletic club tomorrow.

Jack Kearns has rented an office at Trafton's gymnasium which will be his headquarters during his stay in Chicago. . . . Fred Kohler will present the first of a series of wrestling shows at Arcadia Gardens Feb. 5. . . . The complete mat card at Marigold Gardens tomorrow has been announced. Jack Smith will oppose Jack Zeravich, Rudy Hoffman is matched to face Jack Ross, Bill Goelz will oppose Buddy Atlas, Johnny Forman is paired with Jack Rootberg, and Pete Holtz will encounter Ape Scoby. . . . Clarence [Red] Burman, Baltimore heavyweight, will fight Steve Dudas at New York Saturday. . . . Joe Ghnouly, St. Louis lightweight, expects to box Jimmy Garrison at Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 15 for Promoter Frank Gatto. . . . Bobby Burns, Dallas, Tex., who compiled a fine record as a bantamweight from 1911 to 1923, is in town with several boxers under his management. . . . A wrestling program will be offered at Trinity auditorium Feb. 12. . . . An amateur card, involving Catholic Youth organization boxers, will be held at the 132d Infantry armory Saturday. . . . Lee Umbles and Johnny Forman will be opponents in the main event of the mat show tonight at Schultz' arena, 1764 North Larrabee street. . . . Preliminary matches will bring together Rudy Stoll and Stanley Vestis, Carl Schultz, and Fred Landerers, Hank Ross, and Fred Stockholm. F. M.

RUN DEAD HEAT FOR 2D PLACE AT SANTA ANITA

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Orthodox and Golden Ivy, a pair of 2 year olds, finished in a dead heat for second place in the first race at Santa Anita park today.

Numerous dead heats have occurred for first place, but records fail to show a tie between horses running second.

Jocky Charley Kurtsinger was aboard Orthodox and Johnny Bejshak was up on Golden Ivy.

The race, an $800 claiming event, was won by Half Time, which paid $4.20, $2.80 and $3.60 for $2.

Cincinnati Reds to Drop Monessen Club as Farm

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Officials of the Cincinnati Reds said today the Reds will not retain the Monessen, Pennsylvania Association club, as a farm this year. The club will seek to make an agreement with some other club in that league, they said, pointing out that while Monessen won the league pennant, the club played to 17,000 people last season.

HIRSCH JUNIOR QUINTET BEATS PARKER, 19 TO 17

Englewood, Von Steuben Seniors Win.

Hirsch's junior basketball team received a scare yesterday, but it managed to score a 19 to 17 victory over Parker and remain tied for the lead in the south section of the Chicago Public High School league. Two free throws by Manos, guard, gave Hirsch its third consecutive victory in the final minute.

Englewood and Von Steuben remained undefeated in the senior class. Englewood triumphed over Hyde Park, 26 to 25, in the south division, while Von Steuben defeated Amundsen, 45 to 26, in a north section contest. Murphy, forward, starred for Von Steuben, contributing six field goals and three free throws.

In other junior games Kelvyn Park won from Steinmetz, 37 to 29; Englewood handed Hyde Park a 36 to 21 setback, and Marshall defeated Austin, 32 to 15. Kallis and Mundt led Kelvyn Park to victory, the former scoring 13 points and Mundt collecting four baskets and one free throw.

Marshall found little difficulty against Austin. Marcus, tall sharpshooter, starred for the winners with three field goals and seven free throws. Marshall led at the end of the first half, 17 to 4, and held a 23 to 10 advantage at the third quarter. Scores:

Santa Anita's Handicap to Be for $112,500

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22.—The second running of the Santa Anita handicap, to be held at the Santa Anita track on Feb. 22, is listed as a $100,000 race, but officials today predicted that the actual purse will better that figure by $12,500.

Not only is the prize money expected to total $112,500, but it is anticipated the crowd which will see the running of the race will far exceed the 45,000 who saw the inaugural last year.

Eighty-three of the finest thoroughbreds, including every great stake horse in the country, have been nominated for the handicap. The initial running of the rich race last February drew a field of twenty horses to the post, with the reformed steeplechaser Azucar, owned by Fred Alger Jr. of Detroit leading them home to take first money of $108,400, the largest stake in the turf world today.

Cavalcade vs. Discovery.

Azucar is among the nominees for this race also, and only last Saturday demonstrated that he is ready for the difficult competition which will face him by winning the San Felipe handicap. The Detroit entry, however, has been pushed out of the favorite position by Discovery, champion of 1935, owned by young Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt of New York. Discovery will find in the race another chance to even scores with his 1933 rival, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade, which defeated the Vanderbilt horse several times during their three year old career.

Other entries include such as Flamengo, English candidate; Head Play, Ladysman, Time Supply, and Top Row.

Three Year Olds to Meet.

The second handicap is expected to exceed even the inaugural from a racing standpoint, even though last year's race brought together Equipoise and Twenty Grand. A field of 69 3 year olds will have their inning on Feb. 15, when the Santa Anita Derby will be run, and the meeting will close on Feb. 29, when the $10,000 San Juan Capistrano handicap, enlisting several entries in the $100,000 race, will be held.

Miami Police Arrest 14 in Gambling Raid

Miami, Fla., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Miami police in surprise gambling raids halted the play of some 2,000, arrested 14 alleged operators and seized thousands of dollars worth of valuable gaming equipment today.

The authorities, estimating 1,000 were engaged at play in each of the two downtown establishments they visited, declared the raids the largest and most important in several years.

Great confusion resulted when police, swooping down simultaneously on the closely located establishments, prohibited departure of any one until arrests had been made and apparatus seized.

Some of the patrons attempted to escape through windows.

Police said race horse booking outfits, roulette wheels, dice tables, money wheels, and card tables were found in each place.

At the back of the huge room in the first establishment police said they found a large race horse chart, covering the entire width of wall, with ticket windows.

Following entrance by police, there were mad scrambles for the nearest exit. Police said some 12 persons jumped through a side window before it could be closed when they raided the first place.

Another group ran upstairs and leaped from second story windows to adjoining roofs.

All efforts to escape in the second place were balked, however. The patrons were released by police after the arrest of the alleged operators. Each person taken in custody was placed under $200 bond, photographed and finger printed.

SET TUESDAY FOR NEXT INQUIRY IN BADGER TANGLE

It's Battle of Regents and Athletic Board.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Investigation into the University of Wisconsin's athletic department tangle, taken over last week by the board of regents after it had rejected the faculty athletic board's second report, will be resumed next Tuesday. This announcement was made by Harold M. Wilkie, chairman of the regent committee.

Originally a controversy revolving about the circulation of a petition among the football players early in December by Captain-elect John Golemgeske asking the resignation of Coach Clarence W. Spears—a petition which Golemgeske claimed was circulated with the knowledge and sanction of Athletic Director Walter E. Meanwell—the battle line now is definitly drawn between the regents and the faculty board as to which has the authority to unravel the tangle and make whatever changes necessary, if any, in personnel and policy.

Friction All Around.

Behind this open conflict is the undeniable existence of friction between Meanwell and Spears, with the possibility that one or both will be affected before the regents close the books.

The faculty board bases its demand for full and complete authority to settle the controversy on a Big Ten rule providing for faculty control of athletics. The regents base their right to jurisdiction on state statutes, which vest them alone with governing powers of the university.

After rejecting the faculty body's report last week, which virtually absolved both Meanwell and Spears but administered a light verbal spanking to both, the regents voted unanimously to conduct their own investigation.

Will Hold Open Hearing.

Theirs will be an open inquiry, contrary to the star chamber sessions of the faculty board. Members of the committee, which will report its findings back to a special meeting of the regents on Feb. 13-14, are Chairman Wilkie, Attorney Daniel H. Grady, Portage; John M. Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction; Judge A. C. Backus, Milwaukee; and Clough Gates, Superior editor.

On the basis of new testimony which they promise to uncover, the regents will give the faculty board its third, and probably its last, chance to make a definite recommendation as to policy and personnel. If that still is unsatisfactory to the regents, they will proceed as they see fit. That, at least, was their point blank promise last week.

The faculty board held a closed seven hour meeting today, but its members were tight lipped as to what happened. Prof. Andrew T. Weaver, its chairman, refused to say whether or not the board had agreed to take its third strike.

Rumor of Definite Action.

The board's lengthy session, however, gave rise to the belief that it was considering a specific recommendation. It was rumored this afternoon that the board might recommend the dismissal of Spears, but this was admittedly based on past actions of the faculty body.

The athletic board's statement upon adjournment tonight included acceptance of the regents' invitation to sit in on the latter's probe next week. The board also promised a recommendation "on personnel and policy" after examination of the data resulting from the regents' investigation next Tuesday. It was known that the board discussed the dismissal of both Meanwell and Spears.

The board last week recommended to the regents that Meanwell be given complete authority over the personnel and policy of the athletic department "commensurate with his duties and responsibilities" as athletic director. This was unofficially interpreted as giving Meanwell the right to fire Spears.

Student Paper for Meanwell.

Another development today was a page one editorial in the Daily Cardinal, university student publication, entitled "Faculty Control or——?" After pointing to its belief that only "by some definite changes in personnel can the situation be solved," the Daily Cardinal recommended that:

1. Dr. Clarence W. Spears be dismissed as head football coach.

2. Dr. Meanwell be given a definite grant of authority in carrying out the duties of his office as athletic director.

DE PAUL AND WESTERN STATE MEET TOMORROW

De Paul university basketball players will be out to present Coach Jim Kelly with his 100th basketball victory in seven years as coach of the Demons tomorrow night when they meet Western State of Kalamazoo, Mich.

In that period De Paul has lost only 20 games which gives Kelly a percentage slightly under the .900 point for his stay at the north side school.

The Teachers are coached by Herbert [Buck] Read who is in his fifteenth year as head coach. In that time Read's teams have won 195 games while losing only 64.

This year De Paul has won nine of eleven games including four victories over Big Ten teams. Western State has won nine of ten games this year, the only loss being to Purdue which also defeated the Demons.

Oshkosh All-Stars Beat Duffy Florals Five, 31-28

The Oshkosh, Wis., All-Stars defeated the Duffy Florals basketball team at St. Rita High school gymnasium last night, 31 to 28. The All-Stars led at the half, 18 to 12. Preboski and Mullen of the Stars divided scoring honors with 12 points each. Otto Kohler was high for the Florals with nine.

25 Athletes at Michigan State Are Ineligible

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Twenty-five Michigan State college athletes were declared ineligible for participation in winter sports by the college authorities this afternoon.

Not a single winter sport escaped the toll. Eight members of the track team, five each for swimming, wrestling and basketball, and two of the fencing squad were declared ineligible.

Runners Ruled Out.

Johnny Berry, a distance runner from New York; Bob Burhans, a jumper from Lansing; Elmer Burnie of River Rouge, to whom Coach Ralph Young had looked for points in the 880 yard run; Fred Keene of Camden, Me., a 440 yard man, and Tom Reynolds, a fine sprint prospect from St. Clair Shores, are the five ineligible track men.

Coach Jake Daubert, swimming coach, lost three men whom he had planned to use against the University of Michigan in a dual meet here Friday. They are Johnny Kinney and Halsted Richardson of Lansing, and Fred Sell of Monroe.

Wrestling Team Hit.

Two men who were practically certain of places on the wrestling team are ineligible. They are Mike Polimac, a reserve lineman on the football team and the leading man in the 175 pound class, and Bart Collings of Detroit, a 145 pounder. The loss of Polimac leaves Coach Fendley Collins without a man in the 175 pound class and will force him to use a lighter man in that division.

The fencing team lost the services of Robert Bailey of Lansing and Vincent Palmer of Glen Falls, N. Y.

The mystery of why Leo Frizzo, a reserve center who saw service with the basketball team last season, has not reported this season was solved when the marks were posted.

High Marks for Some.

To balance the ineligibility of the athletes several came through with high averages. Taking a "3" average as perfect James Fremont, a freshman cross-country man, came through with a 2.55 average. Nelson Gardner, a star cross-country, has a 2.35 average. John Lacey of Ashland, O., member of the frosh football squad rang up a 2.59 average. Several other members of the athletic teams had better than a B average.

I.A.C. Boxing Tourney On; Finals Tonight

Competition in the featherweight and welterweight divisions featured the preliminary rounds of the fourth annual amateur boxing tournament sponsored by the Illinois Athletic club at the I. A. C. gymnasium last night. More than one-third of the twenty-six battles were fought in these two classes.

Charles Cassola, featherweight representative of Trafton's gymnasium, 1934 novice Golden Gloves champion, defeated Joseph O'Brien in three rounds.

Julius Sutton, Northwest gymnasium, and Darwin Johnson, Mount Vernon, Ill., each won their two fights. Sutton beat Ben Rubin and William Thomas, and Johnson defeated Stan Murczyk, Catholic Youth organization, and George Nelson.

Seventeen bouts will be held tonight, nine in the semi-final round and eight in the final round. Every division will be represented. John Washington, Trafton's gym, and Tony Musto, Dorgan Athletic club, will meet for the heavyweight title.

Results:

FIRST ROUND.

COURT UPHOLDS COMMISSION IN DOG RACING CASE

Tallahassee, Fla., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Florida Supreme court today upheld the right of the state racing commission to require American Kennel club registration for all greyhounds on Florida dog race tracks.

The court, however, said its order would be withheld five days pending amendment of court procedure in an action filed by A. Mason and Ernest McGinnis. It was in this case that the court gave its ruling.

Mason and McGinnis claimed their dogs are registered with the National Coursing association, and that the rule to require American Kennel club registration was merely an effort to give the Kennel club control over dogs raced in Florida.

The racing commission charged that the National Greyhound Breeders and Racing association is the racing division of the National Coursing association, "which racing division is endeavoring to entirely control the racing of dogs in the several states in which the sport is legalized."

Sixty Crew Candidates Report at California

Berkeley, Cal., Jan. 22.—Sixty students marched into the University of California crew headquarters today to sign up for the 1936 rowing season. It was one of the biggest turnouts in the coaching career of Carrol [Ky] Ebright.

Golden Gloves Boxer Works Out on Steer

This fellow's name is Dick Folk and he hails from Polo, Ill. "He's a better man than Adam Smith," reports Milne and Adam, who hailed from Rockford, was quite some heavyweight when he was a Golden Gloves star. The Rockford sectional meet closes at Sterling tonight. On Jan. 28 and 29 a sectional meet will be held at Marengo with the finals at Rockford on Feb. 4.

The Springfield State Register has conducted tournaments at Gillespie and Beardstown and will hold its own finals on Feb. 13 and 14. In this locality a number of rough and ready coal miners are among the leading contenders. Several Illinois college athletes including Abe Feduris, a champion on last year's Springfield team, are also among the Springfield entries.

Search Coal Mines.

Frank Weir, sports editor of the State Register, writes that he has organized a heavyweight searching party which this week is scouring the southern Illinois coal mining territory.

At Danville where the Commercial News conducts its tournament there are no heavyweight worries. Larue Morris, University of Illinois heavyweight, has entered the tournament. Morris was a reserve tackle on the University of Illinois football team. He fought in the Tournament of Champions last year as a member of the University of Illinois boxing club team and has shown steady improvement since that effort according to Carl Davidson, the Commercial News sports editor.

Danville Is Confident.

"Danville hasn't won a Tournament of Champions title since 1930," Davidson writes. "But there more than likely will be a different story to tell this year."

The Centralia Sentinel and Streator Times Press tournaments have also attracted record entry lists this year with more interest displayed in the heavyweight division in those cities than ever before.

At Streator Allen Bovelle has demonstrated such fine punching ability that many shrewd students of boxing have predicted a brilliant future for him. Fred Hess of Dixon and Linto Guerrerri of Cherry, Ill., are other big fellows who are seeking the Streator heavyweight crown.

The Illinois forces must be reckoned with this year, all these reports indicate. At least they don't look like pushovers.

BELLINI OUT AT CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Troy Bellini, last year's national A. A. U. and Golden Gloves bantamweight champion, has been eliminated from this year's tournament. He was beaten by Ted Kara, righthanded slugger, last night to provide the biggest upset of the eighth annual Plain Dealer Golden Gloves tournament.

Drops Bellini In First.

Dropped for no count in the first round and staggered twice in the third session, Bellini, now campaigning as a featherweight, fought a whirlwind battle, but Kara won the unanimous decision of the referee and judges.

Kara, who reached the quarter finals of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE tournament in 1933, is now favored to annex the title in the present tournament. Pat Kelly, winner of the Chicago featherweight crown last year, won his second victory of the tourney tonight and probably will meet Kara in the finals Jan. 31.

Steve Smozy Wins.

Steve Smozy, 1934 Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, continued his advance toward another title by soundly defeating Nick Larich in a slugging match. Eddie Hocevar, runner-up to Joe Bauer in the light heavyweight division of the last two years, turned in another victory tonight to become the favorite in that class. Bauer, a national and Chicago winner last year, is now fighting as a pro.

There are still a number of outstanding contenders in the other divisions and the prospective champions will not be determined until the finals are held Jan. 31. Semi-final bouts will be fought Jan. 30.

King's Funeral Postpones Scottish Soccer Matches

GLASGOW, Jan. 22.—(AP)—In line with the decision of the English Football association, the Scottish association announced today that no soccer fixtures will be played Tuesday, the date set for the funeral of King George V.

Iowa State Teachers to Meet Haskell Eleven Oct. 31

Cedar Falls, Ia., Jan. 22.—(AP)—L. L. Mendenhall, director of athletics at Iowa State Teachers college, announced today he has completed arrangements for a football game with the Haskell Indians here Oct. 31.

Charge New York Promoters with Use of Ringers

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A few nights ago, Patsy Mignone, Bronx lightweight, sat by the radio listening to the bouts in a small fight club.

Suddenly he sat up with a start. He had just heard himself knocked out.

"Ho hum," yawned Patsy. "Guess I must be getting punch drunk." So he stumbled off to bed and forgot about it.

A day or so later, one Bill Rosenthal wrote to the New York State Athletic commission to this general effect:

He had gone up to see his old pal, Patsy Mignone, toss the leather around. Instead, he found a ringer masquerading as Mignone.

"He couldn't have been the real Mignone," wrote Rosenthal, "for he took a dive."

A night or so later, Rosenthal said, he went out to see another of his pals —Nick Sandrine—in action. He was much chagrined to find another ringer impersonating Sandrine. This one also took a dive, he said.

So the much harassed New York State commission finds itself up to its ears in another "scandal."

Chairman John J. Phelan has ordered Mignone to be on hand next Tuesday; also Jess McMahon, matchmaker at the club where Mignone allegedly was impersonated; also one William Stelling who, McMahon says, made the match; also John Chappi, who operates a gymnasium at which Mignone trained and who was the last person known to be in possession of the fighter's license, entrusted to him for safe keeping.

Chappi told the commission today he either lost Mignone's license, or it was stolen from his gymnasium.

Rosenthal's letter said Chappi acted as second for both boxers accused of doing impersonations.

Chappi admits he was in Sandrine's corner, but says the latter was the real thing. He disclaims any knowledge of a bogus Mignone.

New York Will Ignore Cuba's Ban on Jacobs

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Julian Black and Mike Jacobs, two of the guiding directors of the destinies of Joe Louis, may be suspended in Cuba, but that ban will not affect their activities in New York. The state athletic commission made this plain today when it announced that it would not concur with the action of the Cuban boxing commission in suspending Jacobs and Black.

Jacobs, New York promoter, who holds a contract on Louis' services through 1940, and Black, one of the Detroit boxer's co-managers, were barred from Cuba because of Louis' failure to go through with a bout against Isidor Gastanaga, Spanish fighter, in Havana late in December. Jacobs drew a $500 fine in addition to a six months' suspension, while Black was barred for three months.

The New York group stated that it could not agree with the Cuban commission, since neither Jacobs nor Black had received licenses in Cuba.

In addition to settling the status of Jacobs and Black, the commission today also cleared up a controversy which nearly caused a breach between itself and Madison Square Garden. This consisted of issuing a license to Hank Bath, California heavyweight, who is managed by Jack Kearns, former pilot of Jack Dempsey. Bath was refused a license recently on the eve of a battle with Red Burman, now managed by Dempsey, until the commission received further information on the fighter's standing in his home state.

HELEN MOODY IS SILENT ON TENNIS PLANS FOR YEAR

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Helen Wills Moody's poker face puzzled the boys for many years and now her indecision as to whether she intends to return to competition this year has them guessing anew.

The California court queen arrived in New York today and sidestepped any reference to her tournament plans, if any, for next summer.

Except to say her game is stronger than last year, when she signalized a comeback by winning the Wimbledon title for the seventh time, Mrs. Moody was not talkative about tennis.

The purpose of her visit, which will last about five days, was to get some information about painting—one of her principal hobbies—and consult a publisher concerning a book she is writing.

Earnshaw, McCarthy Sign Contracts with Brooklyn

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced receipt of the signed contracts of George Earnshaw, veteran right hand pitcher, and John McCarthy, young first baseman who played with Sacramento in the Pacific Coast league last season

17 Nations to Seek Olympic Hocky Title

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Jan. 22.—(AP)—America's ice hocky team will have to play its way successfully through ten matches if it is to capture the Olympic championship next month.

The German Olympic officials announced today that a total of 46 matches will be necessary to determine the championship. Entries have been filed by 17 nations, including the United States, Canada, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Italy, England, Japan, France, Sweden, Switzerland, Austria, Poland, Hungary, Finland, Yugo-Slavia, Latvia and Belgium.

These contestants will be divided into four groups for the elimination round with 28 matches to be played between Feb. 6 and 10. Within each of these groups all teams will meet each other once.

Eight Teams to Qualify.

The two best in each group—a total of eight nations—will qualify for the semi-final round consisting of two groups. From Feb. 11 to 13 another round robin series will be held to qualify the two best in each of these groups for the final round.

The final series, deciding the championship and the next three places, will be held between Feb. 14 and 16.

The usual hocky system of giving two points for a victory and one for a tie will be used. In case of a tie in points, total goals will decide the placings.

It's a Sellout.

The Olympic committee announced that a capacity crowd already is assured for the final hocky series. All tickets were sold out seven days after they had been placed on sale, the German quota going within two days.

German experts expect the championship to lie strictly between the United States and Canada. Although conceding the fatherland no chance, they expect Germany will qualify for the finals along with either Sweden or Switzerland.

Nancy Meyer, 10, to Appear in Ice Show

A 10 year old girl will compete with the world's greatest professional figure and acrobatic skaters at the third annual Chicago Stadium ice carnival on Friday, Jan. 31, and Saturday, Feb. 1. She is Nancy Meyer of Highland Park, daughter of Dr. Karl Meyer, chief surgeon at the Cook County hospital. Miss Nancy was the star of a recent outdoor skating carnival at the Exmoor Country club.

Many Highland Park and Glencoe residents have reserved seats at the Stadium carnival to watch the young lady, who insists that a crowd of 15,000 spectators won't bother her in the least.

Nelson Sisters to Skate.

One of the featured acts of the Stadium carnival will be the Four Nelson Sisters from Minneapolis, who are daughters of Julius B. Nelson, formerly of the Stockholm Skating club, who introduced the international style of figure skating to the Twin Cities and the northwest many years ago. These four girls will skate two numbers on the Stadium carnival program, a silver dance novelty and the "Janta-O-Ja," a Swedish comedy number.

The opening number of the carnival will be a group skating act designed to please the children, named "In the Cold Arctic," in which the skaters will appear as snow men, penguins, and polar bears.

Sleighs and Skates.

One of the outstanding acts of the program will be a famous group act featuring Evelyn Chandler and Bruce Mapes and twelve assisting skaters. In this ice tableau the stars are pulled onto the ice in sleighs, drawn by dancing skaters with special lighting, scenic, and costuming effects.

LORIMER WINS SUIT TO SHARE BAER'S EARNINGS

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Superior Judge Malcolm C. Glenn held today that J. Hamilton Lorimer, Oakland fight promoter, can share with Ancil Hoffman in the earnings of Max Baer since 1931, a decision estimated to involve more than a million dollars.

The court ruled that Baer, former heavyweight boxing champion, acted without right in terminating a contract when Lorimer was his manager in 1931 and contracting with Hoffman to manage him.

Baer, in breaking the contract, accused Lorimer of mishandling his affairs.

The court indicated that Hoffman, rather than Baer, faced the prospect of settling with Lorimer.

KIT KLEIN WINS 500 METER SKATE RACE IN NORWAY

OSLO, Jan. 22.—Kit Klein, Buffalo speed skater, streaked into first place in the 500 meter race of the international women's contest held at Guvevik today. Her time was 51 seconds.

Nakamura of Japan and Osmund Myhre of Norway tied in the 500 meter dash in the international speed skating competition for men held today at Nododden. Their time was 45.1 seconds. Myhre won the 1,500 meter event in 2 minutes 33 7-10 seconds.

The American skaters will participate in the European speed skating meet Saturday and Sunday.

QUESTIONS ABOUT MEN'S FASHIONS ANSWERED

If you would like expert advice on the correct clothes to wear on any occasion, or additional information regarding articles described on this page, write to the Men's Fashions Editor, Chicago Tribune. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter.

SPRING CLOTHES FOR MEN LEAN TO SPECTACULAR

Expert Stresses Value of "Right" Garment.

More than 500 merchants at the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers' convention at the Palmer house yesterday decreed that the male must become more spectacular than ever before.

Among the new materials for his attire is spun glass, which has already been put into hat and dress materials for women. Now, according to Peter B. Juster of Minneapolis, chairman of the men's style committee of the association, glass fabrics are going into neckties, shorts, and pajamas.

Spring Brings Color Splurge.

More immediate is the definite spring splurge of vivid colors and plaid mixtures in men's garments. "Men will mix their colors as carefully as the ingredients in their cocktails," said Barney Lewin, buyer for a Chicago clothing store.

Even abandonment of the three piece suit, and something to replace it along free and easy lines—like a smock—is to be accomplished by a gradual campaign, it was said.

Air-conditioned fabrics that insulate the wearer are already available.

Assail New Deal Policies.

The clothing merchants closed their convention with unanimous adoption of a resolution protesting against the New Deal administration's encroachment on private business enterprise. The resolution expressed concern at the tremendous increase in public expenditures and opposition to legislation introduced in the house of representatives "designed to control the textile industry by fixing wages and hours of labor and other conditions of employment through a license plan."

Irving L. Wilson of Philadelphia was elected president of the association, succeeding Maurice L. Rothschild of Chicago.

CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN

BY HARRISON HOWARD.

In the beginning man wore clothes for three primary reasons—decency, protection, and ornamentation. All three reasons still hold good, of course, but in the modern business world there is a necessary fourth—to hold one get ahead.

There is no denying the fact that employers today place emphasis on how their employés or prospective employés dress and, other things being equal, the man of more presentable appearance will get the opportunity.

Wearing clothes to look one's best is a recognized phase of a man's business advancement, especially of those whose work requires selling or contact with the public. A canvass of employers of large forces of salesmen in Chicago shows that 25 per cent and sometimes more of a man's general acceptability for a job is rated on the way he dresses.

Clothes Make Impression.

It is from clothes alone that many an employer receives his first impression of the tastes, habits, and fitness of an applicant or worker to represent his name and business. He demands that you be dressed carefully and neatly.

Lawyers, doctors, bankers, and other professional or semi-professional men are quick to admit the value or sartorial impression as a part of the psychology of success. As a matter of fact, well chosen attire has been an earmark of culture and social distinction through the ages.

One has only to browse at random through the writings of various periods to find authors advertising or at least commenting on the necessity of dressing as appropriately as possible.

Buy Wisely, Is Advice.

Often it is not a matter of spending more but spending more wisely. Who is not familiar with Shakespeare's "costly thy habit as thy purse can buy but not expressed in fancy: rich but not gaudy: for the apparel oft proclaims the man"; or with Chesterfield's advice, "next to clothes being fine they should be well made and worn easily, for a man is only the less genteel for a fine coat, if in wearing it, he shows a regard for it and is not as easy in it as if it was an old one."

There are definite reasons why business demands that you look your best lest you be second choice.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION.

Question: Is the fancy tie pin or stick pin out of date? M. E. S.

Answer: On the contrary, it is at the beginning apparently of a new era in popularity and while few are yet in evidence, authoritative shops are showing them.

FASHIONS FOR MEN ONLY

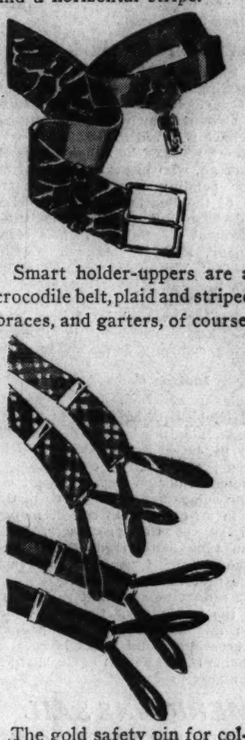
This fashion column for men will appear every Thursday in The Tribune. If you would like information about modes for men write to the Men's Fashion department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Illinois. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter.

WE modest Americans may find justifiable reason for a bit of boasting in the observation that the shoe-shining industry is an indigenous one. England may inspire us in the realms of fashion, but the public shoe shining emporium is our own idea. On the other side of the Atlantic, and particularly in England, a person known appropriately as "Boots" performs the bootblacking ceremony both in household and hostelry. Upon retiring, one's shoes are left outside the bedroom door, and in the morning there they are, properly refurbished. A skeptical American would be hesitant about leaving his shoes unattended, outside the door, in the hope that they'd be there in the morning, and in the average household it's tough enough to find domestic help to shine up the silver, let alone some self-sacrificing individual who'd enter into the position of a "boots" with any degree of enthusiasm. All of which is intended to emphasize the importance of well shined shoes. School now being out, we can divert your attention to a few new and smart accessories. Some of these are merely ornamental; others are both ornamental and practical.

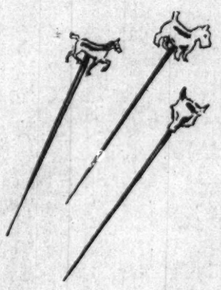
New neckwear consisting of a bold hound's tooth check, a natural ground silk stripe, and a shower spot foulard.

Socks in hound's tooth check, a clocked 6 by 3 rib, and a horizontal stripe.

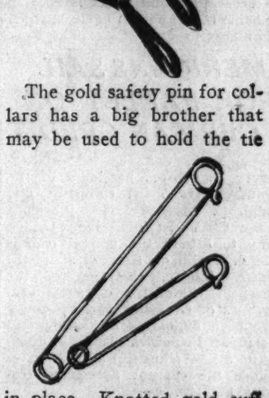
A new wrinkle in collar construction eliminates unnecessary wrinkles in the collar. We've shown here the slotted collar that has a tape on the underside, through which the tie passes. Inside the tape is a celluloid stay that performs satisfactorily its avowed purpose.



Smart holder-uppers are a crocodile belt, plaid and striped braces, and garters, of course.



Newest note in the way of jewelry is the animal figure scarf pin. The designs favor popular breeds of dogs, with fox masks and horses bringing in the hunting and horsey flavor. Cuff links with bits on one side and horses on the other are companion type jewelry.



The gold safety pin for collars has a big brother that may be used to hold the tie in place. Knotted gold cuff links perform their task in a smart manner.

SUIT TO ENJOIN PROCESSING TAX RELEASE IS FILED

Claim Consumer Actually Paid Bill.

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—An application for a temporary injunction restraining Secretary Wallace and Secretary Morgenthau from returning to manufacturers and processors the $200,000,000 in processing taxes which the Supreme court recently decided had been levied illegally, was filed in the United States District court here today.

The action was brought by Edwin M. Reiskind, an attorney, through his law partner, Arthur S. Friend. Reiskind is suing in his capacity as a consumer of manufactured and processed goods.

His complaint asserts the money paid in processing taxes is his and that of all other consumers, on the ground that it was the consumers who really paid the taxes.

Suggest Return to Treasury.

The complainant asks, however, that in view of the fact that it is impossible to determine just who are the persons who paid the taxes, the money be paid into the United States treasury, which, Mr. Reiskind contends, is the "nearest" agency to the parties who properly should receive the tax refunds.

"The theory of our bill," Friend explained, "is that various mills paid the tax but passed it on and eventually the consumer paid it. It's really your money and my money. If it is returned to the processors it is just clear profit.

"It's a shame to let the money go out of the government and the rest of us poor suckers, who paid it once, must pay it again in increased taxes to make up the cost."

RELEASE 13 MILLIONS HERE.

A total of $12,814,493 in contested processing taxes was released here yesterday. Returns authorized raise the amount which Chicago processors have received to $32,500,000.

Orders released by Judge James H. Wilkerson, who hitherto had held up action pending receipt of the mandate of the Supreme court covering its decision killing the agricultural adjustment act, follow: Illinois Meat company, $597,044; Armour & Co., $3,864,066; Wilson & Co. of Oklahoma, $244,853; Kother Packing company, $90,296.

An order entered by Judge John P. Barnes returned to the Cudahy Packing company $2,715,234 in cash.

Indiana Court Acts.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Release of $6,000,000 to ninety-three Indiana processors was ordered today by Judge Robert C. Baltzell in United States District court.

The court denied permission for six baking companies to intervene in the case in an attempt to collect money from six of the processors, from whom they had bought flour. The decision in this attempt to intervene is the first in the country.

"It cannot be said that the bakers paid the tax legally," the court held. "The law assesses the tax against the processors, and a tax is paid in the name of the person against whom it is assessed."

AMERICANS SAIL FOR PARLEY ON GERMAN CREDIT

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Harvey D. Gibson, president of the Manufacturers Trust company, and Joseph C. Rovensky, vice president of the Chase National bank, sailed today to attend the annual conference in Berlin on German standstill credits. Gibson, chairman of the American committee of short-term creditors of Germany, and Rovensky have been appointed as co-delegates to represent American banks in drawing up a new standstill agreement to replace the current agreement, expiring Feb. 29.

The forthcoming conference will be the sixth, the first having been held in 1931 when the breakdown of Germany's credit compelled foreign banks to reach an agreement for "standing still" on their outstanding lines of credit to German banks.

Total German indebtedness under the agreement was placed by Gibson recently at $592,000,000, of which $142,000,000 is due American banks.

CALL LOAN RATE ON U. S. ISSUES IS RAISED TO ½ OF 1%

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The call loan rate on United States government securities and bankers' bills today was raised to half of 1 per cent from the quarter of 1 per cent rate that had been in effect since April, 1935.

This move will affect principally discount houses dealing in government securities, bankers' acceptances and other short term papers. They ordinarily borrow money at the call rate, especially during periods of government financing, to carry securities in their portfolios during the distribution period.

This, according to reports in banking circles, represents efforts on the part of lenders to obtain what they regard as compensatory return on their loans. It follows the raise of interest rate for call loans on stock exchange collateral from one-quarter of 1 per cent to three-quarters of 1 per cent in October, 1935.

Use of Returned AAA Taxes for Meat Promotion Asked

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The live stock industry was urged today to use returned AAA processing taxes for research, advertising, and promotion of the use of meat and meat products. A resolution of the St. Louis Producers' Live Stock Commission association recommended the establishment of a foundation for the development of market outlets.

COURT TO BASE MIDDLE WEST FEES ON MERIT

Warns Some Claims May Be Disallowed.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday served notice on more than a score of lawyers and others who have filed claims for fees of $1,600,000 in the Middle West Utilities reorganization case that all requests will be carefully examined before any claims are allowed. A preliminary hearing on the petitions for fees and objections was set by Judge Wilkerson for Feb. 10.

The yardstick by which fees will be determined will be the contribution made by the applicants to the reorganization rather than the hours put in, the court warned. He said that on this basis some claims may be disallowed entirely.

"I have been unable to examine all the bulky petitions and statements," Judge Wilkerson said, "I may have to refer them to a master in chancery. There may be duplication and overlapping of services.

Warns Claims May Be Disallowed.

"We must also determine," he added, "the extent of what was done, whether it was helpful or harmful in the reorganization. Some services which did not contribute to the reorganization may not be allowable. I may allow some of the requests in toto or disallow them in toto.

"The main point to determine is a reward commensurate with services in the organization and how much such services were worth. There may have been unnecessary work and some of it may have been harmful."

Intimations that some claims would be thrown out entirely brought a chill to many of the lawyers who were active in the case. A number of attorneys claiming to represent some groups of security holders were active over a period of several months in the litigation that preceded the court's approval of the reorganization plan under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act.

Most of the claimants made requests for specific allowances while some left the amounts to the discretion of the court. Specific requests for fees aggregated $1,396,172 in addition to which were expense claims of $222,923.

$400,000 Previously Approved.

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, who had jurisdiction over the company's affairs during the period of equity receivership, had previously allowed $400,000 in fees and expenses to attorneys and receivers.

Aggregate claims made in the case are said to be the second largest on record in United States courts. The total was exceeded only by the claims for fees and expenses made in the reorganization of the Paramount-Publix Motion Picture corporation in a federal court in New York. In that case claims totaled $3,239,796, but Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe of New York cut the actual allowances to $1,045,210.

Middle West was in the federal court for three and a half years. The company was placed in equity receivership in April, 1932. Reorganization proceedings under section 77-B were brought in June, 1934, immediately after that legislation became law. The plan of reorganization was given final approval by Judge Wilkerson in November, 1935.

County to Ask RFC Cancel 12 Million Bonds

A group of county officials, headed by Clayton F. Smith, board president, will leave for Washington today for a conference with Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, concerning the $12,252,000 county relief bonds held by the RFC. The RFC chairman yesterday wired approval of an appointment Friday morning.

Smith said that he will request that some method be found by the federal government for cancelation of the bonds without cost to the county. He said these bonds were sold to the government in 1932 to provide funds for relief in Cook county and that there is precedent for assumption of the burden by the government.

In some other instances, he declared, where local governments sold obligations to the RFC for relief purposes the bonds have been later canceled, usually through having some other federal agency furnish funds for retirement of the bonds.

Interest Cut Alternative.

If unsuccessful in this effort, Smith added, he will ask the RFC to agree that in the event the corporation sells the bonds the present interest rate of 5 per cent be reduced to 4 per cent or less. Although the bonds bear 5 per cent interest, the RFC charges the county only 3 per cent, refunding the balance.

If no means can be found for retiring the bonds, county officials will ask Jones to agree to exchange the RFC bonds for new obligations under the bond refunding program which the county has adopted.

Commissioners yesterday gave final approval of a contract between the county and Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. and A. C. Allyn & Co. under which the bond dealers are to act as refunding agents to carry out the 47 million dollar refunding program.

Two New Issues Planned.

The plan provides for issuance of $11,510,910 fifteen year callable bonds to retire past due obligations, and $35,781,000 twenty year callable bonds to be exchanged for obligations maturing after next June 2. A similar contract was authorized under which the same dealers will carry out the $12,515,750 forest preserve district bond refunding plan.

The Stifel-Allyn syndicate announced that the American National Bank and Trust company has agreed to act as depositary under the county and forest preserve plans. A depositary fee of ⅛ of 1 per cent of the face value of bonds deposited will be paid. The five large loop banks in their bid on the refunding deal had asked for a depositary fee of twice that amount.

The dealers announced also that formal solicitation of bonds for deposit under the plan will be started next Monday.

GENERAL AMERICAN BUYS 700 TANK CARS; TWO DEALS PENDING

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Acquisitions of a fleet of more than 700 tank cars from an undisclosed vendor was reported to the New York Stock exchange today by the General American Transportation corporation in its application to list 10,000 additional shares of its $5 par common stock.

Payment for the cars will be made by delivery of stock, valued at $452,500, and an unspecified amount of cash. The application, with five others, was approved.

Officials of the company advised the stock list committee of the exchange they could not disclose the seller of the cars or the exact amount of the purchase price without jeopardizing current negotiations for the acquisition of two other tank fleets. The committee recognized the validity of the contention by permitting the company to withhold these details from its listing application.

FRANC, POUND, ALLIED MONEYS GAIN ON DOLLAR

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—The French franc, the British pound, and their allied currencies rose sharply against the dollar in world markets today on the resignation of the Laval government in France and passage of the bonus bill by the house of representatives.

Foreign markets were closed before the bonus bill passed, but approval of the senate bill had been anticipated, which to foreign traders is indicative of inflation. After the resignation of the Laval cabinet the franc was given official support.

The franc closed at 6.61¼ cents, a net increase of 1¾ points, which reduced the value of the American dollar against francs to $1.0031 from $1.0058 yesterday. Swiss francs gained 5 points to 32.65 cents and Dutch guilders rose 13 points to 68.10 cents. German marks rose 7 points and Belgian belgas 4 points.

The pound sterling showed a net gain of 1¼ cents and Scandinavian currencies improved 4 to 5 points. Canadian dollars held at parity.

The price of silver rose ⅝d in London to 19 15-16d an ounce, equivalent to 44½ cents an ounce. In New York the quotation was unchanged at 44¾ cents.

START BUILDING NEW FISHER BODY PLANT AT ONCE

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Edward F. Fisher, general manager of the Fisher Body division of General Motors corporation, announced today that construction of a $7,000,000 stamping plant in Grand Rapids, Mich., will begin immediately.

He said the general contract for construction of the new plant had been awarded to J. A. Utley of Detroit, and that the average number of employés on the construction job would be 1,500.

Illinois 1935 Building 67% Above 1934

BY AL CHASE.

Building in Illinois during 1935 was 40.1 per cent higher in number of permits and 67.3 per cent greater in dollar volume than in 1934. It also exceeded 1933 by 49.9 per cent in permits and 144.6 per cent in dollar expenditure.

According to the monthly building review of the Illinois department of labor 15,214 permits were issued in 65 Illinois cities during 1935 calling for an expenditure of $34,789,822. These compared with 10,863 permits in 1934 and 10,148 in 1933, with a dollar value of $20,792,642 in 1934 and $14,222,152 in 1933.

Gain in Eleven Months.

"In connection with 1935-1934 comparisons," the report says, "it is significant that with the exception of January, 1935, every month of last year showed a relatively sharp increase in the estimated dollar expenditures for building construction over the corresponding month of 1934."

Permits for new residential construction during 1935 increased 170.2 per cent in comparison with 1934. The dollar value of new residential construction for which permits were issued totaled $8,415,579, an increase of 180.7 per cent over 1934.

New nonresidential construction made gains of 33.6 per cent in number of permits and 49.7 per cent in value during 1935 as compared with 1934.

Repair Permits Increase.

Permits issued for additions, alterations, repairs, and installations increased 34.8 per cent, while the dollar value rose from $7,637,445 in 1934 to $11,167,030 in 1935, or 46.2 per cent.

Building permits in Illinois during December totaled 772 in number and $2,755,692 in value as compared with 453 permits valued at $1,507,767 in the same month of 1934, a gain of 70.4 per cent in number and 82.8 per cent in value.

Both number and value of December permits were less than the preceding month of November, when 1,183 permits were issued, valued at $2,975,033. The loss was 34.7 per cent in number and 7.4 per cent in value.

COURT APPROVES HAMILTON CLUB REORGANIZATION

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday approved a reorganization plan for the Hamilton club of Chicago, 18 South Dearborn street, under section 77-B of the federal bankruptcy law.

The reorganization cuts down the principal amount of the bonds outstanding. First mortgage leasehold indebtedness was reduced to $253,000 from $380,000 and second mortgage bonds were reduced to $90,000 from $225,000. Certificates of indebtedness were cut from $200,000 to $92,000.

Under the plan the club must pay off $150,000 in back taxes during the next ten years.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD OFFERS 40 MILLION LOAN

Other Large Issues Are Expected.

Offering today of $40,000,000 of Pennsylvania railroad bonds, the sale yesterday of $35,000,000 of Inland Steel company bonds, and the directors' approval of $100,000,000 of Great Northern railroad refunding are the latest outstanding developments in the field of corporate financing.

In addition, it is reported that the National Dairy Products corporation is considering the refinancing of $68,000,000 of its debentures.

The Pennsylvania issue consists of general mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds. Proceeds from the sale of the bonds, together with cash in the treasury, will be used to redeem on May 1 all the $50,000,000 secured 5 per cent bonds, due in 1964.

Yield 3.84 Per Cent.

Priced at 98¼, the new bonds will yield 3.84 per cent to maturity in 1970. This yield compares with the 3.882 per cent basis on which bankers recently sold the 1964 maturity of the $30,000,000 secured 4s, which had been purchased from the Reconstruction Finance corporation by a group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. of Chicago at a competitive sale. The latest offering has the lowest rate for railroads since the period of low money rates at the turn of the century.

Redemption of the secured 5s will release to the Pennsylvania railroad $57,750,000 par value of stocks of constituent companies. The secured 5s were originally issued in 1924 to provide for the retirement of part of the note held by the director general of railroads.

The new issue will be redeemable at 105 up to and including April 1, 1945; at 104 to April 1, 1955; at 103 up to April 1, 1960; at 102 up to April 1, 1965, and at a decreasing rate to maturity.

Rail Issue Ratified.

W. P. Kenney, president of the Great Northern, announced in St. Paul, Minn., that the directors of the road had ratified the proposal of the RFC for the refunding of a maturing obligation of 7 per cent bonds with a new issue of $100,000,000 of 4 per cent bonds.

After the interstate commerce commission approves the financing Kenney said stockholders of the road will be given the first opportunity to buy the new bonds, which will mature in ten years, on a basis of $1,000 bond for each 25 shares of stock held.

Holders of the 7 per cent bonds, which will mature July 1, 1936, will be given the next opportunity and the public will get the last call. The RFC has agreed under the plan to purchase any bonds unsold on July 1.

The 4 per cent rate for the bonds was decided upon after Jesse Jones had declared a 5 per cent rate proposed by bankers was too high. The 4 per cent rate, Kenney said, will enable the road to effect a considerable saving in its fixed charges.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. sold the issue of $35,000,000 Inland Steel company first mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds, series D, due 1961, at 101½. The bonds were quickly taken by both institutional buyers and individual investors. The issue closed yesterday at 102¾ to 103 in the over-the-counter market.

Completes Inland Program.

The Inland Steel issue completes that company's financing program which involves the redemption of its 4½ per cent bonds and the provision of $3,841,000 of new money. The first step in the program was taken on Feb. 30 by the private sale through Kuhn, Loeb & Co. of $10,000,000 first mortgage 3 per cent bonds, series C, due in one to ten years.

The National Dairy Products corporation is contemplating the refinancing of its $68,000,000 of 5¼ per cent debentures with a new issue of 3¾ per cent debentures, which will carry warants to purchase common stock. The new issue will mature in 1951 and will probably be underwritten by Goldman, Sachs & Co.

Chrysler Profit Sets Record; du Pont Net Rises Sharply

Sharply higher earnings for 1935 were reported or estimated yesterday for some of the country's largest corporations. Net profit of Chrysler corporation was estimated at a new all-time high. Profits of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. were the highest since 1929, and Procter & Gamble company reported sharp improvement.

DuPont reported for the year ended Dec. 31, 1935, that preliminary calculation shows $5.04 a share earned on common stock. Earnings for 1934 were $3.66 a share. Earnings for 1935 include dividends from General Motors investment, equal to $2.03 a share on duPont common stock compared with $1.36 a share in 1934.

Chrysler Net a Record.

Net profits of the Chrysler corporation for 1935 will establish a new peak for all time at approximately $32,500,000, according to an estimate made yesterday. The annual report of the company is expected to be released officially next month.

Based on the 4,332,326 capital shares outstanding, profit is equivalent to approximately $7.50 a share, eclipsing former peak earnings of $30,991,795 in 1928 when net was equal to $7.15 on the present capital structure. Net in 1934 amounted to $9,534,837, or $2.19 a share.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco company declared its usual extra and regular dividends of $1 each on common and common "B" stocks and reported a decrease in 1935 earnings. Net income for the year ended Dec. 31, 1935, was $16,856,543, after charges, compared with $20,086,690 in 1934, equal to $4.91 a share on the combined common stocks last year and $5.92 in 1934.

Procter & Gamble Reports.

Procter & Gamble company reported net earnings of $7,883,362 for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1935, against $5,544,023 for the corresponding period a year ago, equivalent to $1.17 a share on common stock, against $1.10.

The preliminary report of Bristol-Myers company of New York, drug distributors, for the year ended Dec. 31, 1935, shows net income of $2,272,600 after charges, equal to $3.30 a share on capital stock. This compares with $1,966,164, or $2.82 a share, in the preceding year.

A preliminary report for 1935 by the Public Service corporation of New Jersey shows net income of $23,773,509 after all deductions, equivalent to $2.53 a share on 5,503,193 no par common shares, compared with $25,352,951, or $2.82 a share, in 1934.

RESUME DIVIDEND ON FAIRBANKS, MORSE STOCK

Fairbanks, Morse & Co. yesterday resumed dividends on preferred stock by declaring a quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the new 6 per cent preferred. This is the first regular payment since Dec. 1, 1931.

Another Chicago company—Signode Steel Strapping—resumed regular dividends by voting a payment of 12 cents quarterly on common, the first dividend since Dec. 31, 1930.

Northwestern Public Service company, a Middle West subsidiary, resumed quarterly payments on the 7 and 6 per cent preferred stocks for the first time since June 1, 1933. The dividends amount to $1.75 on the 7 per cent and $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred. Arrearages total $9.77 1-12 and $8.37½ per share, respectively.

Bristol-Myers company voted its annual extra dividend of 10 cents a share.

LEARN POLITICS, RICE ADVISES BUSINESS MEN

Speaking at his induction into office yesterday as the new president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, C. L. Rice advised the business man who feels "hampered by alphabetical bureaus and other governmental agencies" to learn politics himself.

"The place to start improvement in politics is in the precincts at the primaries," said Rice. "Each business man should first of all know and vote for the sort of man he would want to be his party spokesman in his home neighborhood. Then, having laid that sort of sound foundation, it would be time to seek improvement in higher politics."

Rice, who is vice president of the Western Electric company and manager of its big Hawthorne works, took over the Association of Commerce gavel held for the last two years by George W. Young.

N. Y. Exchange Will Pay Tribute to King Tuesday

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The governing committee of the New York stock exchange decided today to delay the opening of the market one hour on Tuesday, until 11 a. m., as a mark of respect during the funeral of King George V. On the day of the king's death, trading was not interrupted, but Charles R. Gay, exchange president, cabled condolences on behalf of the organization to the royal family. The Chicago Stock Exchange will suspend trading Tuesday for 15 minutes.

Fruit and Vegetable Trade Is Halted by Cold Weather

Trading in fresh fruits and vegetables came to a halt on the South Water street market yesterday as the result of the subzero temperatures. Movement of perishable farm products was impossible.

INFLATIONARY FEARS SWEEP STOCKS HIGHER

1 to 5 Point Advances Recorded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Inflationary sentiment flared up anew today following passage of the "baby bond" bonus bill by the house. Stock market prices were bid up 1 to 5 points in the liveliest trading in a week. Volume totaled 2,154,610 shares.

Shorts were squeezed in a number of high priced issues and a long line of late market laggards were trotted out and put through their paces. Standard industrials were prime favorites, the strength of companies operating in the so-called heavy industries being an outstanding feature. Electrical equipments were prominent on the upside, reflecting the bullishness over 1936 prospects for the industry. Miscellaneous mining, foundry and so-called specialty issues drove forward in impressive fashion, many of them to new price peaks for the year or longer.

Copper Issue Up 9 Points.

Some of the more impressive advances included Green Cananea Copper, 9 points; Westinghouse, 5¾; Western Union, 3⅝; Johns Manville, 4¼; Motor Products, 4; Deere & Co., 3⅝; Atchison, 3; Cerro de Pasco, 3⅛; Caterpillar Tractor, 2⅝; Atchison, 3; McIntyre, 3; Spiegel-May-Stern, 3¼; U. S. Smelting, 3½; Greyhound corporation, 3, and Howe Sound, 2⅝ points.

Besides the electric power summaries, the market had the benefit of a number of other favorable trade items to bolster the inflationary enthusiasm engendered by the bonus legislation.

Low priced shares which have been active for the last three weeks kept to the background, with a few conspicuous exceptions. Among them were Yellow Truck, Radio, Omnibus and Newport.

Rails Move Forward.

Rails were strong and forward looking all day. Southern Pacific was a favorite, rising $2 a share on heavy turnover.

An individual favorite was Libby Owens, which stepped up on its higher dividend announcement.

Chrysler led an upturn in the motors. General Motors and Nash rose a point or so each.

Oil, food, tobacco and amusement groups came in for their share of patronage and better ratings resulted throughout the list.

The silvers became conspicuously buoyant in the late afternoon as talk of the possible inflationary effects of the bonus got in its work. Howe Sound was a center of the activity.

The market had to absorb waves of profit taking from time to time during the day, particularly in early trading, but the halt in the advance was short lived in each instance and closing prices as a rule were the best of the day.

ARCHITECTS GET MANSION OWNED BY J. J. GLESSNER

One of Chicago's outstanding residential landmarks, the stone mansion of the late John J. Glessner, one of the founders of the International Harvester company, will shortly become the property of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

The house, at the southwest corner of 18th street and Prairie avenue, and erected from plans by the noted architect, H. H. Richardson of Boston, was given to the architects in 1924 with the stipulation that they could take possession after the death of Mr. and Mrs. Glessner. Mrs. Glessner died in 1932 and Mr. Glessner last Monday.

The Glessner will stipulated that the architects maintain the residence as a "museum, library, gallery, and educational institution, including a school of design for legitimate architectural assemblages."

PENNSY NAMES ORCUTT COUNSEL FOR LOCAL AREA

Appointment of Guernsey Orcutt as general attorney for the Pennsylvania railroad was announced yesterday by directors. The announcement said Orcutt is the first Pennsylvania legal officer of that rank to have headquarters in Chicago and that the appointment was made "in recognition of the growing responsibilities and importance of the company's legal work in this territory."

Orcutt has been a member of the road's legal staf at Pittsburgh for seventeen years.

B. & O. Guarantee of Alton RFC Loan Is Approved

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to guarantee a $1,894,632 Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan to the Alton railroad. The Alton, which functions in conjunction with the B. & O. system, extends from Chicago to Kansas City and St. Louis.

Two More Railroads Offer Pickup, Delivery Service

The New York Central railroad announced yesterday it will establish on April 1 a free collection and delivery service for freight. The Central of Georgia also announced that effective Feb. 1 it is establishing free store door delivery and pickup service for less than carload shipments.

Coming Coronation of King Booms Ermine Fur Sales

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Ermine was in strong demand today at the Tacoma fur auction, apparently because of the future coronation of Edward VIII, as king of England. Fur sales for the monthly auction totaled $45,000.

Zero Blasts Bring One Ray of Cheer—to Grain Growers

Extreme cold weather over the grain belt is not without beneficial results, according to James E. Bennett, who points out that destruction of insect life may be a factor in increasing production of crops this season. In past years when low temperatures have prevailed in the cotton belt losses from boll weevil have been materially reduced.

NOW ORGANIZING . . . . .
Special Evening Class
BUSINESS LAW, CORPORATE ORGANIZATION and GOVERNMENTAL REGULATIONS
A limited number of qualified students will be enrolled for this special class—opening the week of February 2, and continuing for seventeen weeks. It is planned for accountants and for individuals in financial and legal departments.
The Business Law section will cover
Contracts — Mortgages
Agency — Trusts
Negotiable Instruments — Partnership
Bailments — Insurance
Real Estate — Bankruptcy
The work in Corporate Organization will comprise a review of the laws governing the creation of corporations, the determination of stated capital and paid-in surplus, the status of treasury stock and other state and federal laws of a regulatory nature. The Federal Securities, Securities Exchange, and Federal Social Securities Acts will be studied particularly from the standpoint of the accounting statements required and the responsibilities assumed by the accountant. Reorganization under Section 77B (Amendment) of the National Bankruptcy Act will also receive consideration.
The class will be under the supervision of W. B. Castenholz, A.M., C.P.A., (under whose direction LaSalle has trained one-tenth of all the Certified Public Accountants in the United States), in co-operation with G. T. Judy, LL.B., member Illinois Bar, and Milton Yogel, Ph.B., C.P.A.

STEEL OUTPUT STEADY AS AUTO DEMAND FALLS

Cold Weather Curbs Sales of New Cars.

Cold weather is indirectly responsible for the present hesitancy in iron and steel markets, inasmuch as sales of automobiles, one of the primary sources of steel orders, have dropped because of frigid blasts and heavy snows, according to the magazine Iron Age.

Steel ingot output is unchanged for the third straight week at 51 per cent of capacity, the journal reported yesterday, but demand remains spotty despite a buoyancy in the scrap market, where prices are higher than in 1935.

Most motor car makers have cut operations to four days a week and at least one manufacturer has reduced the work day by one hour, the journal says.

Orders 20% Below December.

Orders for steel from the automobile industry so far this month are estimated at 20 per cent below the corresponding period of December. The magazine adds that a rebound is expected in motor car production by early March.

"Concern over the effect of the AAA invalidation on agricultural buying is subsiding."

Operating changes in steel production include gains of 1 point to 53 per cent in Chicago, 1 to 40 in the Philadelphia district, 5 to 66 in the Cleveland-Lorain area, 4 to 46 in the south. Operations are off 3 points to 62 per cent in the valley, 5 to 35 at Buffalo, 4 to 78 in the lower Ohio river district and 5 to 50 per cent at St. Louis.

The Iron Age composite price for heavy melting steel is up to $13.58 a ton, or 16 cents a ton above the high for last year. Prices for pig iron and finished steel remain at $18.84 a ton and 2.130 cents a pound, respectively.

POWER PRODUCTION DIPS

Production of electricity in the United States last week declined contraseasonally from the preceding week, but remained at the highest level on record for that week, according to the Edison Electric Institute.

The decline from the preceding week amounted to 1.1 per cent, but an increase of 9.6 per cent was recorded over a year ago. Differences in weather conditions accounted for the recession.

A total of 1,949,676,000 kilowatt hours for the week ended Jan. 18 compared with 1,970,578,000 in the preceding week, when a gain of 11.2 per cent occurred over the corresponding period of 1935.

In the Chicago area output totaled 117,290,000 kilowatt hours, which was also below that of the preceding week but 5.8 per cent over last year and the second highest total on record for the week.

SMALLER BANKS' CONTROL HELD BY FEW PERSONS

Stock Holdings in 1935 Are Reported.

Control of Chicago's smaller downtown banks and outlying institutions is centered in a few persons, in most instances. A corporation, a single person, a family, or a group of families is easily picked out as dominant, from scrutiny of the stockholders' lists.

The rolls of the county assessor as of April 1, 1935, from which current levies are being made, also contain instances in a minority of cases where stockholdings are so broadly distributed that no controling forces can be seen.

The Drovers National bank, largest outside the loop, and its companion, the Drovers Trust and Savings bank, are largely one man institutions. President William C. Cummings owns more than one-fourth of the National and nearly half of the Trust shares, with the Swifts, Harriet Patterson, and several bank officials also prominent on the lists.

F. H. Prince Controls Bank.

Also in the yards is the Live Stock National, three-fifths owned by Frederick H. Prince, Boston capitalist and chairman of Armour & Co. President David Reimers, in nearly doubling his stockholdings in the last year, typified a trend in several banks where officials and directors increased their interests.

The Personal Loan and Savings bank's 20,000 shares are distributed among a number of substantial holders, but President Willoughby G. Walling and four others have a majority interest.

More than half of the Lake View Trust and Savings bank's 5,000 shares are held by a half dozen persons, headed by President Joseph J. Budlong with his 928 shares.

The Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank's roll of numerous substantial investors is headed by Col. Robert R. McCormick, Capt. Joseph M. Patterson, Ruth Hanna Simms, and Chairman Isaac Miller Hamilton. Director Maxwell M. Corpening and President Joseph R. Frey each has bought more than 200 shares since the previous assessment roll.

Two-fifths of the Lawndale National bank's common stock are in three names.

Morris and Swift Interests.

The Morris and Swift interests are prominent in the Mid-City National, Liberty National, and Halsted Exchange National banks.

The First National of Englewood's only big shareholder is President J. M. [100 per cent] Nichols, who owns 60 per cent of the stock. The Skala and Brenzas make just as much a family affair of the Skala and Metropolitan State banks.

In the National Builders and Pioneer Trust and Savings banks substantial blocs of stock are held by their presidents and a few others. The Chicago City Bank and Trust company and Mutual National bank's leading holders are topped by the Rathjes. The Terminal National bank has a score of holders of sizable blocs.

The William Wrigley Jr. company and the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company own but a few of the National Boulevard and Pullman Trust and Savings bank shares. The Sears Community bank stock is three-fourths held by J. M. Barker, trustee. J. C. Sorg, an officer of the First National bank, is listed as holder of almost the entire Uptown State issue.

Four New Banks Listed.

Four new bank names appear on the list. The Kaspar American State bank, opened last January in a reorganization, lists a score of substantial shareholders headed by President Joseph Triner. The new Milwaukee Avenue National bank has a dozen leading stockholders, including Wieboldt Stores, Inc., but its stock is distributed widely among nearly 2,000 members of the community who made subscriptions. Central-Illinois Securities company is the largest owner of the Merchants National. The District National has eight holders of more than 100 shares in its 2,000 share folio.

WPA INTERFERING WITH BUSINESS, BUILDERS TOLD

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Christian G. Norman, chairman of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers' association, charging that WPA construction work here, involving some $50,000,000, was being done in flagrant violation of the law which authorized it, called upon the government today to stop ruining private industry by competing with it if it hopes to liquidate the relief rolls.

In a letter to Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator in Washington, Mr. Norman, speaking for more than 1,000 builders in New York, declared that section 8 of the resolution appropriating $4,880,000,000 for relief, was being ignored, despite assurances that the protection given private enterprise under it would be observed.

Virtually all WPA construction work is being carried on without regard to private contractors, Mr. Norman charges, men being employed directly by the government to build buildings, make extensive repairs in existing edifices, and perform other work which private business is adequately prepared to do.

This method is not only wasteful, costing from twice to three times what it would under contract, but it has robbed private contractors of most of their work and has driven scores of them out of business, Mr. Norman declared.

Advertising Official to Address Group Here

John Benson, president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, will address the Chicago Financial Advertisers Monday at the La Salle hotel. He will discuss "What the Consumer Thinks of Advertising."

STOCK OWNERS OF SMALLER CHICAGO BANKS

Following are major stockholders of smaller downtown and outlying banks, as taken from the county assessor's rolls of April 1, 1935, and released yesterday. The Merchandise Bank and Trust company and the I.-C. Bank and Trust company are omitted because lists are not available. Below the name of each bank is the number of outstanding shares. Suburban bank shareholdings will be published tomorrow and Saturday.

*New 1935-'36 high.

New York, Jan. 22.—[Special.]—Trading in bonds was heavy today as second grade issues abruptly reversed their trend, wiping out almost entirely the losses suffered in the previous session.

The upturn occurred in the face of continued softness in the treasury list. To some extent government bonds were influenced by the advance in the call money rate on loans secured by this type of collateral.

Market Sensitive to News.

While the difference between one-quarter and one-half of 1 per cent does not mean much in the cost of carrying portfolios, the change came at a time when the market was sensitive to news.

Trading was inaugurated today in Home Owners Loans 2¼s, the latest guaranteed obligation of the government. Despite the lower rate they started only a quarter point under the 2¼s.

Foreign bonds were firm, particularly South Americans.

Secondary Issues Rise.

Gains of a point or more were registered in most of the old favorites of second grade, including Erie, Chicago and North Western, Milwaukee, Delaware and Hudson, Kansas City Southern, "Katy," Susquehanna, Nickel Plate, New York Central, Wabash refunding 5s, Postal 5s, Pan American 6s, Richfield 6s, Ontario and Western general 4s and refunding 4s.

Transfers totaled $19,976,000, par value, against $15,466,000 Tuesday.

Macon, Dublin and Savannah.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me information concerning Macon, Dublin and Savannah bonds? —Mrs. A. B.

Answer: Macon, Dublin and Savannah Railroad company is a 92 mile road connecting the Seaboard Air Line at Vidalia, Ga., with the Southern railway route at Macon. Seaboard Air Line owns about half its capital stock and has guaranteed the first 6s, due 1947.

Earnings have been irregular, but they have covered fixed charges since 1932. In the first half of 1935 fixed charges were earned about 1¾ times. They were earned 1.38 times in 1934 and 1.40 times in 1933. In 1932 only 97 per cent of fixed charges were earned and in 1931, 96 per cent. With the exception of 1929, fixed charges were earned in each of the preceding years to 1925.

There are outstanding $1,529,000 of first 5s, due 1947, secured by a first mortgage on the road, a comparatively low rate per mile.

At the close of 1934 current assets were in excess of current liabilities. Irregular earnings and doubtful worth of the guarantee of Seaboard Air Line Railway company, which is in the process of reorganization, make the bonds somewhat speculative.

Western Union Telegraph 5s.

Investors' Guide: I am anxious to know if Western Union bonds, the 5s, due 1960, come in denominations of $100. If not, what is the smallest denomination? Are the bonds convertible or nonconvertible? Also, are they redeemable or not? I am after an investment that cannot be converted or refunded.—T. S. H.

Answer: Western Union Telegraph company 5s, due 1960, are available only in denominations of $1,000 in coupon form. In registered form they are available in denominations of $1,000 and $5,000.

The bonds are neither convertible nor callable.

Abraham & Straus 5½s.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me any information you may have on Abraham & Straus 5½ per cent bonds? I have been unable to find them listed in quotations for some time and am wondering why. Has anything happened to these bonds?—P. C. M.

Answer: Abraham & Straus, Inc., 5½ per cent debentures, due Oct. 1, 1943, were called for payment on Oct. 1, 1935, at 102 and accrued interest. Your money is waiting for you if you will send your bonds through. No additional interest will be paid on the bonds.

Mercury Tumbles Toward New Low Record for Chicago—Severe Cold Wave Extends Grip Over Many States

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MANY SUFFER FROM NIPPED EARS—Lillian Fraser, assistant Tribune nurse, bandaging the ears of Michael Ryan, Western Union messenger boy, after he stayed out in severe cold weather too long.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

THAW OUT FROZEN SWITCHES SO TRAINS CAN ENTER TERMINAL—Workmen toiling on switches yesterday in the yards of the Dearborn station. The intense cold hampered their work, which was necessary if trains were to be moved into the station on time. Passengers experienced some delays. (Story on page 1.)

BUCKING WIND—A woman pedestrian finds walking difficult in the biting wind which swept down Michigan avenue. (Story on page 1.)

HELPS FIGHT FIRE IN HIS HOME—Ambrose Cramer Jr. of Lake Forest bundled up in lether jacket and wool helmet yesterday as he aided in fight on flames which damaged home. The loss was put at $20,000.

NEWSBOYS FIND IT HARD TO KEEP WARM—Tommy May and Tommy Dugan, newsboys at Van Buren and State streets, trying to keep warm on their outdoor job yesterday while the mercury was dropping far below zero.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

ICE "WHISKERS"—Dairy wagon horse standing in front of house while delivery was made.

MILWAUKEE TOREADOR DOWNED—Pedestrians were entertained with an amateur wild west act in Milwaukee when a bull escaped into the business district. The bull finally was lassoed, but not until he had upset Roy Brown.

KING IN CONTRASTING APPAREL—Edward VIII. of England, the former prince of Wales, as he appeared in working clothes while visiting mine (left) and as he looks when wearing formal evening clothes. (Story on page 10)

BODY OF KING GEORGE LIES IN STATE AT SANDRINGHAM—Oaken casket containing the body of King George V. of England as it appeared yesterday in little chapel at Sandringham draped with royal standard and guarded by family retainers. The body will be taken to Westminster hall in London today. (Story on page 1.)

EDWARD VIII. IS PROCLAIMED KING WITH MEDIEVAL CEREMONY—Picture taken in London yesterday showing Sir Gerald Wollaston, Garter King of Arms for England, flanked by uniformed functionaries as he read proclamation which declared the former prince of Wales to be King Edward VIII.
